ILLINOIS, TENTH STATE, RATIFIES DRY LAW REPEAL

50 Delegates Cast Unanimous Vote.

Iowa yesterday became the eleventh state to ratify the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The 90 delegates meeting at Des Moines voted unanimously to end the dry law. Eight were absent and one of the 99 elected at large in the state died since the election.

Springfield, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Illinois today became the tenth state formally to ratify repeal of national prohibition. By unanimous vote of 50 to 0, the delegates adopted a resolution from Patrick A. Nash, Democratic state leader, ratifying the 21st amendment to the federal constitution, which wipes out the 18th. The session opened at noon and was finished in 54 minutes by the clock.

The delegates heralded it as an "emancipation day." Gov. Henry Horner in an opening address drew the analogy between prohibition and the slavery issue in civil war days. He said that repeal tolls the knell for "political cowardice" and submission to the thumbscrews applied by highly organized and blatant minorities.

For the rest, the delegates held that the real speech making had been done by the electorate on June 5 in selecting the repeal delegates.

Presents Official Figures.

Official figures presented by Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state, showed Illinois went for repeal three and a half to one, the vote standing 1,227,668 to 341,773. Cook county went ten to one, the vote being 699,977 to 69,484, while downstate went two to one, the vote for repeal standing 527,691 to 272,289.

The tables showed only 20 of the 102 counties gave majorities against repeal. These 20 counties have a total population of 385,837, or about five per cent of the population of Illinois. Rural Illinois, where the drys once held sway, joined in the surge against prohibition, just as in the neighboring states of Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Iowa.

Emphasizing the landslide votes by which 16 states in unbroken succession in the last three months have voted for repeal, the delegates took the view that their act was to affix the climax, so far as Illinois goes, to a fight of more than twelve years."

Fire Changes Meeting Place.

Yesterday's fire in the statehouse changed the place of meeting, which was set by the law as the chamber of the house of representatives. The delegates assembled in the rear of the hall behind the brass railing, without venturing under the stained glass vaulted ceiling, which was pronounced unsafe by the state architect.

The great portraits of Lincoln and Douglas in oils had been saved from the smoke and water, and their protecting tarpaulins had been swung aside. Gov. Horner called the delegates to order and at once a recess was taken and the delegates marched across the rotunda to reconvene in the senate chamber.

The senate chamber perhaps was a rather more interesting setting than the house for the repeal ceremonies, because the senate was the last dry [politically] bulwark to fall. Although the house had become liberalized, the senate held out as dry until 1931, when it passed the repealer of the state prohibition law by a bare constitutional majority, only to have it vetoed by Gov. L. Emmerson.

Speaks of Three Referendums.

All 50 delegates were present and an outpouring of local folks which comfortably filled the chamber, but not to overcrowding. Gov. Horner, in calling the session to order, dwelt upon the day as of great moment. He spoke of the three referendums in which the electors voted against Volsteadism, and the rebuffings by the politicians, the dry ones, and of the repeal election June 5.

"We rejoice," said the governor, "that the voters of Illinois and the nation have been given their long sought opportunity to regain rights denied them for more than a dozen years.

"The repeated refusal of the reactionary element in our national political life to heed the wishes of the people was effectively rebuffed in the last fall election.

Political Cowardice Dangerous.

"Millions are awaiting your action as a lesson which the adoption of the 18th amendment should have taught

HOME RAIDED, WIFE IS BEATEN; WOMAN IN GANG

Ask $250,000 Ransom for Albany Man.

An Eastern Kidnaping

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Alton, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—August Luer, 78 years old, millionaire banker and retired head of the Luer Packing company, was kidnaped tonight at his home and carried out of Alton in an automobile in which rode three men and a woman.

With his wife, Mr. Luer, slipper clad and preparing to retire, was sitting in his residence at 759 Washington street when there was a ring at the door. It was just 9 p. m. and the veteran packer, who is president of the Alton Banking and Trust company, answered the ring.

Invites Visitors in House.

At the door stood two men, neatly dressed, and their woman companion.

"We are trying to get in touch with Henry Busse," said one of the men. We are strangers here. Can you help us."

Mr. Luer, inviting the trio in, said he would call the home of Busse, a few blocks distant, and let them talk with him. He had lifted the phone receiver from the hook and was ready to give a number when one of the men and the woman seized him.

Beat Banker's Aged Wife.

The second man roughly seized Mrs. Luer, who is only a little younger than her husband, and thrust her into a hallway after choking and beating her. With the elderly banker feebly struggling and begging that his wife be spared, both men seized and lifted him and carried him out the front door.

On the way his bedroom slippers dropped on the driveway. He was thrust into the car, at the wheel of which was a third man. The car was rapidly driven away and it was reported later that a second car in which more members of the kidnaping gang sat followed it.

A few minutes later, Mrs. Luer, recovered from a faint, ran outside screaming that her husband had been kidnaped. The police were speedily notified and search was started for the abductors.

Auto License Plate a Clew.

An anonymous caller informed the police shortly before midnight that he had seen the automobiles being driven away from the Luer home and that the first was a Pontiac with an Illinois license number of which the first three figures were 288. He said the kidnapers drove north and then turned west in the vicinity of Rock Creek park at the north end of the city.

Police are investigating the possibility that the kidnapers were gangsters from East St. Louis and would try to reach a hideout there.

It was recalled that Mr. Luer received a kidnaping threat and a demand for $5,000 about fifteen months ago. He was informed then that a card would be presented to him by a man to whom the money should be paid. On this card was to be written "Life or Death."

Ignores Kidnaping Threats.

The banker-packer was inclined to laugh at this and although his three sons persuaded him for a time to employ a guard he objected and the watcher was dismissed months ago. Mr. Luer had been going about freely as was his custom and without thought of any impending disaster. Tonight he and Mrs. Luer had been out riding with their son, Carl, and had returned home only a short time before the arrival of the kidnapers.

Mrs. Luer was in a hysterical condition after their departure with her husband and was unable to furnish a coherent description of the trio. The three sons, who conduct the packing company, were anxiously awaiting a demand for ransom.

The finance committee of the Alton city council was in session when notified of the kidnaping and recommended that a $250 reward be offered for the apprehension of the kidnapers or information leading to the safe return of the financier.

The kidnaped man has for decades been one of the leading citizens of Alton. So great was the confidence of his fellow townsmen in him that during the banking troubles preceding and during last March that the announcement his resources were behind his institution were credited with

Horner Vetoes Bill to Permit Racing by Dogs

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner today vetoed the Sunderland bill legalizing and licensing dog tracks and providing for pari-mutuel betting.

He held in his veto message that he had been advised by Attorney General Kerner that the betting system authorized by the bill is a lottery and is thus in violation of the constitution. "It might be said," he said in his veto statement, "that the bill has been prepared by and for the dog track operators with a maximum of license for them and a minimum of regulation or advantage to the state and its people."

Horse Race Vs. Dog Race.

The message draws a distinction between dog racing and horse racing. The governor's veto, as sent to the secretary of state, says:

"The attorney general has advised me that the plan of betting on a dog race authorized by this bill is a lottery and that any attempted authorization is in violation of section 27 of article IV. of the constitution of Illinois.

"The attorney general refers to a decision of the Supreme court of Illinois in which the horse racing act was held valid. In discussing the differences between horse racing and dog racing the court says:

"'It is claimed that the act is unreasonable in that it discriminates against dog races. There is a great difference between dog racing and horse racing. In dog racing the dogs are turned loose on the race track without human management or guidance to run or not to run the race according to their own will, mood, temperament or instinct and subject to be distracted by circumstances from efforts to win, while in horse racing the horses are subject to human guidance, management and urging to put forth their best efforts to win.'

Sees Chance of Monopoly

"In the same opinion he calls attention to and strongly condemns as unconstitutional the provision of the bill which provides that only one license shall be issued in each county other than Cook and only three licenses may be issued in Cook county. This provision offers opportunity for manipulation, favoritism, unjust discrimination and monopoly.

"Dog racing is not demanded by any considerable portion of our citizenship. On the other hand, a multitude of fine citizens of the state have urged that this bill be vetoed because it is demoralizing and harmful as a form of alleged sport. It is contended that the dog tracks as they have been conducted in this state are vicious lures to attract the small earnings of persons who can poorly afford to lose them.

"Many protests against this bill have come to me from merchants in communities in which dog racing has been permitted. Almost without exception they state from experience that large sums which should have been used for the living expenses of many homes were lost in betting on the dog races.

Home Bills Neglected.

"Household bills were left unpaid and families were drained of needed money and credit. Legal sanction to encourage this is unthinkable at any time, but particularly now when the family life and comfort of the small wage earner is of general concern.

"I feel that there is strong ground to support the many arguments against permitting dog racing and parimutuel betting thereon. Even without this great opposition to the bill I feel that the constitutional and other objections pointed out by the attorney general demand that I veto it."

DEMANDS CODES FROM STEEL, COAL LEADERS

Pact Is Sought for Chicago Milk.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt started today to swing a big stick over American industry.

With leaders of the greatest industries balking over being put into the halter of federal control, and showing coolness to the President's invitation for "a partnership" with government, Mr. Roosevelt and his boss of industry, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, made ready to put over an enforced control.

To Fix Dates for Codes.

Industries will be given so many days to file voluntary codes, submitting themselves to government supervision, Gen. Johnson announced, and if they don't comply hearings will be ordered and codes will be written arbitrarily for the reluctant industrialists.

The belligerent general made known that the coal industry will be first to feel the brunt of direct action, and that the other big industries, chiefly steel, oil, and automobiles, will be brought in soon after unless in the meantime they decide to come in of their own volition.

At the same time a counter plan was put forward before the advisory boards of the administration to get a plan in immediate action by attempting to fix minimum wages and maximum working hours for all industries by agreement between labor and industrial leaders. This plan would follow the general lines of the defeated Black bill, which would have fixed a 30 hour week for all industries in the country, but would be more flexible, it was stated.

Calls in Steel Leader.

The President took a direct hand in the business by summoning Myron Taylor, president of the United States Steel corporation, to the White House to discuss the reasons for delays in the preparation of a minimum wage and maximum working hours code for the steel industry.

Mr. Taylor would not reveal the nature of his conversation with President Roosevelt, but he exhibited a desire to comply with the chief executive's wishes.

At the same time an all day conference of the industrial and labor leaders who are members of advisory boards to the industrial control administration was continued into a long night session tonight as Gen. Johnson fought with the industrial representatives to obtain their support for the swinging of the big stick.

Pledges Quick Action.

"We will have our code promptly," the steel master said after leaving the President's office; "that means just as fast as the work can be done. We are very friendly to it."

The steel industry, with the oil, coal, and automobile industries, employs 75 per cent of the workers of the nation, and from the beginning the President's chief aim, and that of Gen. Johnson, has been to get these four big groups under the federal codes. Johnson has said that two or three million jobs can be created by fixing maximum working hours for these four industries.

But although Johnson at every press conference in the last three weeks has expressed confidence that codes for the four industries would be submitted "in a few days," they have not come in.

U. S. to Write Coal Code.

Gen. Johnson announced tonight that "as soon as I can get my head above water" he would summon the operators and miners in the bituminous coal industry to Washington and start the writing of a code for them.

He also revealed that in three or four days he would make an announcement fixing a date which will serve as a general deadline for the submission of codes by all industries. If the codes for certain industries are not in by that date, he said, he will invite their leaders to a conference, and will then fix definite dates for specific industries, which will be "last chance" dates.

After the expiration of those dates, if voluntary codes have not been submitted, hearings will be ordered and codes prepared by presidential fiat. The President and Gen. Johnson are known both to be concerned about a slowing up in the employment rate and over statistics showing that production is piling up at a rate much faster than employment. If produc-

Cab Company Asks Court to Halt Rate Cut

Notice was served on city officials yesterday that a petition for a temporary injunction restraining enforcement of the new city taxicab rate ordinance would be presented this morning to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. The notice was served by attorneys for the Yellow Cab company. The ordinance went into effect at midnight last night.

This company is charging 20 cents for the first quarter mile and 10 cents for each half mile thereafter, a rate higher than the maximum of 20 cents for the first half mile and 10 cents for each succeeding half mile set up in the new ordinance. The old ordinance rate was 25 cents for the first quarter mile and 10 cents for half miles thereafter.

Make Money at Lower Rate.

Joseph F. Grossman, assistant corporation counsel, said last night that he would oppose the injunction petition. He added that the injunction, if allowed, would apply only to the Yellow company and would not interfere with the "15 and 5" rate, based on thirds of a mile, which some independent cab drivers and a majority of the Checker cab drivers are charging. These drivers claim they are making money at the lower rate.

In the bill for injunction, Attorneys Weymouth Kirkland, Howard Ellis, and Benjamin Samuels claim the new ordinance rate would be confiscatory and would result in Yellow Cab drivers receiving less than a living wage.

The petition adds that for the protection of cab riders, if the higher rate is charged under a temporary restraining order, the company agrees to issue receipts and to refund the difference if the ordinance is upheld.

Fair Helps June Earnings.

The bill then recites past earnings of the company. During the first five months of 1933 the net profit per trip was $.0149. But, according to the bill, had the new rates been in effect during the period, the company would have lost eight cents on each trip.

An increase of business due to the World's Fair netted the company 5 cents per trip during June, the bill states.

Other litigation affecting the Yellow company had an airing before Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green in Traffic court. Thomas Hogan, company president, appeared in court, but his two co-defendants, Henry Jacobsen, a road superintendent, and A. Waldron, a driver, who were charged with malicious mischief, failed to appear, arousing the judge's ire. W. W. Smith appeared as Hogan's attorney.

Charges Deliberate Crash.

Abraham Mogal, a Checker driver, had charged that Waldron had deliberately run a cab into the rear of his machine while he was picking up two passengers Friday night at the Furniture Mart. He declared the act had been instigated by Jacobsen.

Lieut. Patrick P. O'Connell of the Chicago avenue station, who handled the complaint, told the court that there was no criminal element involved, that "such disputes are common among cab drivers."

"What do you mean?" demanded Judge Green. "If you don't produce these men in court Wednesday I have a notion that you'll go to jail so quick it will make your head swim."

Judge Assails Police.

When Chief of Detectives Schoemaker tried to defend Lieut. O'Connell the judge asked him why his men didn't find the "taxicab sluggers."

"I'm not investigating the Yellow and Checker cab companies," was the reply.

"O! You're not!" exclaimed Judge Green. "You might be afraid of them, but I'm not. As far as you're concerned, all these sluggers are immune; is that it?"

"No," said Chief Schoemaker. "If I hear of any crime committed, I look into it."

Judge Green told Hogan that he would be discharged if Waldron and Jacobsen were fired from the Yellow Cab company. Attorney Smith promised to have them in court tomorrow.

Slays Bride, Shoots Self and Brother

Mrs. Vivian Officer, 19 years old, bride of a month, was shot and killed early this morning by her husband, Edward Officer, 26, who also shot his brother, Herbert, 30, and then turned the gun on himself.

The shooting occurred in front of the Officer home at 3842 Washington boulevard, and the three gun victims were taken to the Garfield Park hospital, half a block away, where Mrs. Officer died a few minutes later. Edward Officer, shot in the forehead, is also expected to die. Herbert Officer was wounded in the left side of the back. His condition is serious also, but he may recover.

Both brothers are post office clerks. Edward returned home at 2 o'clock this morning. He and his bride had been quarreling during the last few days, and on his return he found her in the living room. He ordered her to her bedroom. When she refused to obey his command he struck her and dragged her down the front stairs. Herbert, summoned by Milton Officer, 19, another brother, followed and tried to act the peacemaker. Edward drew a gun and shot him. Then he dragged his wife out to the sidewalk, shot her through the mouth and fired a bullet into his own head.

SYD THE GIGOLO DRAFTS HIMSELF NEW TRADE CODE

Sydney Wildman, 27 years old, a gigolo recently of New York, sat before Lieut. Edward Kelly in the detective bureau last night and carefully brushed a hand over his marcelled hair to keep a straying wave in place.

He sat before Lieut. Kelly because he had given a lady a shampoo and then run off with her $16. The lady is Miss Margaret Vaule, 22 years old, of Crookston, Minn., here for the World's Fair and stopping at the Stevens hotel. Wildman met her there last Friday.

"We went to her room," he said. "She said she was going to get a hair shampoo, so I gave her a shampoo. Then she said she was going to take a bath."

Lieut. Kelly looked embarrassed.

"The lady took her own bath," Wildman said hastily. "I only shampooed her hair. While she was in the bath I took $16 from her purse and left. I'm sorry."

Gigolo Wildman, questioned further, also said he regretted accepting $20 from a lady at the Palmer house and the gratuities he got from several other ladies.

"I'll not fool around with single ladies any more," he remarked, "only married ones. Married ladies don't tell."

tion goes faster than purchasing power, another collapse is reckoned to be inevitable. Most of the industries are working overtime paces at present in order to pile up surpluses before the high costs involved in the government control are imposed.

Roosevelt, Cummings Confer.

Mr. Roosevelt also conferred on his plans with Attorney General Cummings, seeking legal opinion on just how far he can go in forcing industries to accept codes.

At the same time in the offices of Gen. Johnson and Secretary of Commerce Roper conferences were being held by various committees to devise means of carrying out the President's aim.

In Gen. Johnson's office the three advisory boards which were named to represent industry, labor, and the consuming public in all the activities of the industry control administration were meeting in a joint session.

Dispute Over Time Limits.

It was here, according to reports from the secret meeting, that a big battle was brewing over the proposed plan to set a deadline for industries to submit voluntary codes.

Representatives of the industries, notably Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, and Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, were reported to be strenuously opposing any effort to coerce industrialists, or to compel them by arbitrary action to accept minimum wage and maximum hour limitation.

A bit of irony is presented in this situation, for it is an open secret that Mr. Teagle and Mr. Swope were most instrumental in initiating the idea which finally grew into the industrial control act. They had advocated a relaxing of the anti-trust laws, but when the measure was adopted it was a binding control upon all phases of industry, but chiefly upon labor conditions.

Labor Leader Satisfied.

One of the representatives of labor, leaving the meeting for a spell this afternoon, let it be known that the industrialists were opposing the plan to swing the big stick.

"Let them cry," the labor leader said. "They started this thing; now let them take it."

On a higher floor of the Commerce building, the cabinet advisory board which is supposed to exercise supervision over Gen. Johnson's activities, but thus far has bowed to the general's fiery will whenever controversy arose, was holding a separate and also a secret session.

Eventually, possibly late tonight or tomorrow, the various groups are expecting to lay their views, insofar as they can be reconciled, before the President, and Mr. Roosevelt will then make a decision.

Some reports had the deadline for industries to submit codes tentatively discussed for July 20, although some indications were that if the plan is adopted, an Aug. 1 limit will be set.

Milk Compact Delayed.

One development of the tense situation is the holding up of the milk marketing agreement submitted by the farmers and distributors in Chicago. The hearings have been concluded for more than a month, but Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who has jurisdiction over this code, has withheld his decision.

Lengthy conferences on this code were held today, to determine whether the Chicago agreement should be entered under the industrial recovery act or the agricultural recovery act and finally the responsibility for making a decision was put up to President Roosevelt.

The understanding is that Attorney General Cummings has high doubts as to whether the farm act will stand up under a court attack. The independent interests in the Chicago milk district have given notice that they will oppose the agreement, refuse to operate under it, and that they will take their chances of attacking the legal authority of Secretary Wallace under the bill.

Cummings' Advice Sought.

Mr. Cummings is seeking to advise the President which of the two bills is deemed best able to withstand a court attack. In that connection the farm administration has sought to obtain from the Chicago milk distributors a pledge that they will adopt a code of minimum wages and maximum working hours so as to bring them fully under the industrial recovery act, if the code must be put through that channel.

The distributors refused to submit to any governmental regulation of wages and hours and announced that they had filed for a marketing agreement under the farm act and intended to stand or fall on that agreement. It was understood that the milk vendors were most dubious about agreeing upon any minimum wage for Chicago, where the union scale is said to be higher than anywhere else in the country, because of the effect this would have upon milk distributors in other sections where wages are much lower.

This was complicating the situation, but in order to get the milk pact under the industry recovery act anyway, orders may be issued to impose an arbitrary code on the Chicago milk distributors, with wages and hours fixed.

Confer on Farm Conditions.

The farmers' representatives attended a conference tonight which lasted almost until midnight, which was attended by Secretary Wallace, Gen. Johnson, Administrator Peek, and others.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, protested that the farmers wanted marketing agreements to stay under the agricultural act.

"The farm people all think," he said, "that the farm act is enough. They would rather not get mixed up with the codes under the industrial act."

No decision was reached, however. It seemed fairly definitely established that the lawyers of the administration felt the farm act to be vulnerable to attack on constitutional grounds, and that in order to forestall a complete collapse of the program it would be necessary to proceed under the industrial act.

Regional Office for Chicago.

The cabinet advisory board today announced, through Secretary Roper, that a regional office of the industrial recovery administration would be established at Chicago, using the office space, equipment and personnel of the branch office of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce. This office is located at 201 North Wells street.

Mr. Roper said the industrial recovery administration had agreed to pay the labor costs involved in the Chicago office, thus making it unnecessary to curtail the pay roll for economy reasons, as had been ordered.

At the same meeting it was ordered that a maximum of $6,000 per year be fixed on salaries of employés of the industrial recovery administration. It was provided that in special cases higher salaries may be paid, but Gen. Johnson, setting an example, announced that he voluntarily would accept the maximum for his own salary.

Council to Select Projects for U. S. Aid Program Today

The city council will meet today to consider a program of public improvements for Chicago for which funds will be sought out of the $3,300,000,000 appropriated by congress in the national recovery bill.

The council at its meeting last week authorized Mayor Kelly to apply to federal authorities for $6,000,000 for one such project, the proposed lake front airport, near the Adler planetarium.

Technical Problems Solved.

One of the largest projects, suggested by a number of south side aldermen, is a start on the city's program of water filtration plants. City engineers have had plans for these plants prepared and on the shelf for years, awaiting a favorable time for obtaining the necessary money. The technical problems in connection with filtration have all been worked out at the experimental filtration plant which the city has maintained on the south side for ten years.

The whole filtration project would cost an estimated $80,000,000, but the aldermen suggested that federal authorities be asked only for funds for the first unit, of which the cost is estimated at $22,000,000. This would be located on the south side, where residents have been particularly afflicted, usually during the winter, by a phenol taint in the water due to industrial waste from the Calumet district.

Propose Waterway Projects.

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges, with the backing of Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], suggested that federal funds be used for the development of the Lake Calumet harbor and industrial district, another project long considered by the city. Estimates were not available on the cost of this.

The aldermen also suggested further development of the Sag canal, to provide an additional turning basin for barges between the lake and the sanitary canal. This would cost $3,000,000.

North side aldermen suggested a number of street widening projects and the construction of the Ashland avenue bridge over the north branch of the Chicago river. This bridge would connect the two sections of widened Ashland avenue. Motorists now must detour through side streets. The bridge would cost $3,250,000.

Money Must Be Paid Back.

Ald. O. E. Northrup [19th] suggested the widening of Vincennes avenue from State and 68th streets to 119th street and the construction of an additional pumping station on the far southwest side. In many homes in his ward, the alderman said, residents are unable at some times of the day to draw water, even in their basements.

"We should remember that most of this money will have to be paid back some day," said Mayor Kelly, "and if we are to avoid burdening the people with taxes we should ask only for those improvements which will be of permanent value and which will do the most to relieve unemployment."

Electrification of all railroad facilities within the Chicago terminal zone was put forth by Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], chairman of the council railway terminals committee, as an improvement that would come within the scope of the industrial recovery act. The cost has been estimated at $274,000,000, but Nelson said changes made recently in railroad operation would greatly reduce this figure.

CUT U. S. EXPENSE 48 PCT. 1ST WEEK OF FISCAL YEAR

Revenue Receipts 3 Times Larger than in 1932.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—The federal government closed the first week of its new fiscal year with revenues three times larger than those of last year and expenditures reduced by 48 per cent, the treasury department announced today.

As a result of the higher receipts and lower expenditures, the deficit for the first week was about 78 million dollars, compared with 206 millions on the same date a year ago.

New Fiscal Year Begins.

Starting its new fiscal period, the first to be launched by the Roosevelt administration on July 1, the government spent 120 million dollars in the first seven days, compared with 220 millions spent in the first week a year ago. The reduction was due largely to lower general costs, smaller allowances for veterans and lower refunds on erroneously collected taxes.

Out of the 120 millions spent in the first week the Roosevelt emergency program amounted to only 17 millions. The public works "easy money" fund paid out 4 millions, the forest conservation corps cost 3 millions, and the Reconstruction Finance corporation paid out 10 millions. Only small sums have been spent by the farm credit administration and the industrial control administration.

Defense Costs 9 Millions.

National defense cost nine million dollars during the first week, and this sum was classed under general expenditures. Veterans added another 70 millions, of which 50 million was for advances on bonus certificates.

On the revenue side of the books the government has a healthy lead over last year's record because of additional levies now in effect like the beer tax. Miscellaneous collections, where these taxes are listed, amounted to 35 millions last week, compared with 7 millions a year ago.

Income tax collections continue to run slightly behind those of a year ago. Customs receipts and Panama canal tolls increased slightly, reflecting improved world business.

U. S. to Buy Farm Paper from Closed Illinois Banks

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—Illinois was chosen today as the second state in which the farm credit administration will undertake to speed up bank liquidation by purchasing farm mortgages held by closed and restricted banks.

With 25 million dollars borrowed for the purposes from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the federal farm credit agency will offer to take over at their present appraised value all farm mortgages and other farm paper now held by Illinois banking institutions which are in receivership or operating under government restrictions.

Approximately $12,000,000 of farm mortgages are held by closed and restricted banks in the state, Mr. Morgenthau said. In addition, these institutions hold about fifteen millions worth of farm paper which can easily be converted into mortgage obligations.

Confers with State Officials.

Selection of Illinois as the second state in which the plan is to be tried was announced by Mr. Morgenthau following a series of conferences with William Bain, chief Illinois bank examiner, and Emmett J. McCarthy, attorney for State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. Gov. Henry Horner, according to Mr. Morgenthau, has expressed approval and given assurances of coöperation by telephone.

A branch office of the St. Louis Federal Land bank is to be established in state office space at Springfield next Monday, the chairman stated, and the work of appraising Illinois farm lands with a view to determining the present value of the mortgages will be started immediately by a new and specially trained corps of appraisers recruited from agricultural colleges throughout the country. The work of appraisal is expected to take from three to six months, it was said.

15 Millions in Other Paper.

Figures furnished by Mr. Bain showed that $7,711,000 of farm mortgages are now held by 326 banks in receivership outside of Chicago. Fifty other downstate banks now operating under restrictions were reported to hold $4,235,000 in farm mortgages.

Mr. Morgenthau estimated that closed and restricted institutions in the state hold, in addition, approximately 15 millions worth of farm notes and other paper which he intends to try to convert into mortgages and purchase in line with the plan. Although only 25 millions is to be sought from the R. F. C. at the outset, the chairman said he expected fifty millions eventually will be needed for the work in Illinois.

"The plan of refinancing mortgages held by closed banks which we are now extending to Illinois has two objects," said Mr. Morgenthau. "The first is to relieve the serious banking situation in important agricultural states and thus contribute to buying power of all elements, including the farmer.

"The second is to give the farmers who are indebted to these banks a chance to refund their indebtedness and reduce the principal of their obligations as well as the burden of their payments."

The plan was originally tried in Wisconsin, where results, according to Mr. Morgenthau, were sufficiently satisfactory to justify its extension to other states. He hopes to have it operating in all states by Sept. 1, he said.

FEDERAL BREAD PRICE INQUIRY IN IOWA IS DROPPED

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—With the Iowa bread price investigation collapsing for lack of evidence in most cities, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings announced today that in the future the government will not proceed until it has received complaints from local officials.

Cummings pledged himself anew, however, to preventing unreasonable price increases because of the wheat or other processing taxes. He declared that selfish interests will not be allowed to profit by "our returnig prosperity."

Price increases such as the 1 cent per pound loaf agreed to by Chicago bakers probably will not be considered unreasonable in view of the processing tax and the increased price of wheat. Some cities have reported increases up to 3 cents a loaf, however.

Many of the allegations against price raising which reach his department do not stand up under investigation, Cummings explained. Voluntary informants base their complaints on the action of one or two bakers. This was the case in most of the Iowa rumors, he said.

'GLACIER PRIEST' PERILED BY GALE ON ICY VOLCANO

FALSE PASS, Alaska, July 10.—(AP)—Father Bernard Hubbard, the "glacier priest," was back here safe today after the second successful ascent of Shishaldin volcano, during which he said the expedition ended "almost fatally."

Father Hubbard, who conquered the dangerous Munimak island peak while it was in eruption last year, reported that this season his party was repulsed twice in six weeks, before the summit was reached on July 3.

"While struggling along the perilous glacier on the cone," Father Hubbard said, "a sudden gale registering at least 80 miles an hour swept our party off its feet and blew the men helpless along the swirling snows. In the lee of an ice pinnacle, we managed to get a fly tent over our heads. There, four men and three pack dogs crouched freezing for hours until a slight lessening of gale allowed us to get to the bottom of the mountain."

TWO INDUSTRIES DEBATE WAGES, HOURS IN CODES

Dissension over minimum wages and maximum hours to be incorporated into their national recovery codes yesterday cropped out at meetings of the National Association of Wash Dress Manufacturers and the Truck Association Executives of America, both meeting at the Palmer House.

Late last night Ralph Lowenbaum, St. Louis, secretary of the wash dress manufacturers association, said the groups had finally reached a compromise but would not divulge what basic wage scale or hours of labor had been agreed upon.

Meetings of the truck industry, which represents the trucking firms of the United States, were held by districts. Differences arose when rural and urban trucking firms could not agree on a basic wage. The several committees adjourned last night unable to come to any agreement.

Representatives of 250 trucking companies will open the convention of the association this morning at the Palmer House.

WELFARE FUND RECEIVES $103,000 FROM MERCHANTS

R. Douglas Stuart, president of the Emergency Welfare Fund, yesterday reported contributions of $103,000 from merchants. The money represents unclaimed sales tax collections under the sales tax of last April, which was held illegal by the state Supreme court.

Adams Restaurant Co.	$ 244.81
Bismarck Hotel	500.00
Childs Company	1,208.80
Eleanor Association	116.22
Gino Restaurant	49.81

The Fair	22,500.00
Marshall Field & Co.	31,410.00
The Davis Company	11,000.00
	$103,391.45

"We appreciate these contributions," Mr. Stuart said. "The collections were made essentially for charitable purposes and state and other officials have indicated the Emergency Welfare Fund is the proper body to receive and administer such funds. We hope there will be a general movement among merchants and others who made collections under the old law to turn over the amounts to us."

TRADE CODE FOR COMMERCIAL ART WORKERS READY

The American Artists' Equity announced yesterday that it had drafted a trade code for commercial artists which will be submitted to federal authorities under the national recovery act. The code has been approved by artists in 26 cities, its sponsors say.

It provides a 33 hour work week with a six hour day, but would allow artists to work overtime if paid time and a half. A minimum price of $3 is set for any work of commercial art.

The code is designed to cover art agencies and brokers, art schools, and free lance artists. Under it artists would be forbidden to disparage a competitor's work or to change it, and the government is asked to prohibit importation of art work for commercial purposes.

G.O.P. LAYS PLANS TODAY TO REGAIN LOST VOTES HERE

Sanders Calls Chairmen of 8 Lake States.

BY PARKE BROWN.

How to recapture in 1934 some of the lost ground in normally Republican territory that gave Franklin D. Roosevelt a total plurality of 1,800,000 in 1932, will be the problem before a conference at the Palmer House today.

Everett Sanders of Indiana, chairman of the Republican national committee, has called a meeting there of the members of that body and the Republican chairmen of eight states in and adjoining the great lakes area. The first purpose, Washington dispatches have said, will be to find ways and means of regaining some congressional seats in the elections next year, in order to cut down the overwhelming Democratic majority.

8 States All for Roosevelt.

The eight states are Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, and Wisconsin. Roosevelt carried them all by pluralities ranging from his 74,000 in Ohio, to his 449,000 in Illinois. The landslide jumped the number of congressional seats held in those states by Democrats from 43 to 81, and cut down the Republican representation of the territory from 74 to 31. The apparent conflict in the figures is due to altered state allocations by reapportionment, and an increase in the Farmer-Labor representation from one to five seats.

In other words, Chairman Sanders and his state lieutenants take up in this round table talk one of the worst sections their party will have to tackle in the series of conferences which began in the east and is now progressing westward.

Democrats Gain 91 Seats.

The Democratic representatives in the last congress totaled 220. As the present congress is constituted there are 311 Democrats. The increase is 91 seats, and 38 of the new ones were added from the eight states about which the Republican leaders are going to talk—approximately 42 per cent of the entire gain in the nation.

These eight states had 118 seats in the house until the reapportionment which cut it down to 117. In the 72d congress there were from this area 43 Democrats, 74 Republicans, and one Farmer-Laborite. In the 73d there are 81 Democrats, 31 Republicans, and five Farmer-Laborites, all the last named coming from Minnesota.

Elect 5 Senators Next Year.

To shift these figures around the next time is the announced reason for looking ahead to next year, and nothing has been said in the advance notices concerning Republican United States senators from this central area whose terms expire in 1935 and who must run in 1934 if they wish to remain in Washington. Yet five of the eight states will select senators a year from next November.

Three of the five whose terms are expiring are Republicans. Chief among them is Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, temporary chairman of the national convention a year ago and Sanders' predecessor as national chairman. Two other regular Republicans face the close of their terms. They are Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, and Arthur R. Robinson of Indiana. The others who are confronted with a choice of facing the voters again are Robert M. La Follette Jr. of Wisconsin, self-described "progressive," and Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, Farmer-Laborite.

Call Only Organization Chiefs.

It also has been noted that there will be a total lack of governors and senators at the conference.

As for governorships, this delayed post mortem over a big and important part of the central states discloses that while the Republicans until last year boasted of six governors out of a possible eight, the Democrats now hold seven executive chairs and the Farmer-Laborites the eighth.

Both the women members of the national committee from the eight states and the women state chairmen are invited to the meeting as well as the men folks.

That makes four from a state, so that if all those invited attend there will be thirty-two present.

Lindberghs Spend Day with Son During Pause in Flight

GIVES PARDON TO EX-CONVICT NOW CONGRESSMAN

Schoemaker Cleared by President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—Representative Francis H. Shoemaker of Minnesota, who served a year in Leavenworth penitentiary before his election for a two year term in congress, was today granted a full pardon by President Roosevelt.

With him the President also pardoned Owen M. Lamb, whom Mr. Shoemaker met within the confines of the Leavenworth institution and brought to Washington as his secretary.

How Shoemaker Entered Cell.

Mr. Shoemaker, in 1930, addressed a letter to a political enemy with the inscription "robber of widows and orphans," and was convicted of sending libelous and defamatory matter through the mails. Mr. Lamb was committed to prison for four years on conviction of abstracting money from a national bank.

Emerging from the White House today, the erstwhile convict—present congressman—remarked with a broad grin that he is now not only the lone ex-convict in congress but the only man in history to leave the White House with two pardons.

"The boys back home will certainly be glad to hear about this," he declared. Since his coming to congress Mr. Shoemaker has had a vivid career. On the first day of the session his right to hold office after conviction for a felony was challenged and a complete investigation of his election ordered.

His Sense of Humor.

At that time members were shocked to hear Representative Alfred L. Bulwinkle declare:

"When Mr. Shoemaker sent his life history and his biography to be printed in the Congressional Directory, boasting of the fact that he had been in the penitentiary, he said, 'I go from the penitentiary to congress, not like a great majority of congresmen, who go from congress to the penitentiary.'"

Strong Views on Music.

More recently Mr. Shoemaker became involved with the law when he socked a neighbor in the eye for singing "Sweet Adeline" too long and too late. The congressman invaded the neighbor's apartment one midnight and demanded that the noise stop. Annoyed by the answer to his demand he swung lustily with telling effect. Later he told it to the judge when the neighbor brought legal action for assault.

CAPTAIN ROLSON, LAKE VETERAN, IS DEAD AT 73

Capt. James Rolson, retired steamboat skipper, died yesterday at his home, 1416 North Kedzie avenue, of heart disease. He was 73 years old. Born in Norway, Capt. Rolson came to the United States forty-five years ago to sail the great lakes. For a long time he commanded the tug Carter H. Harrison and had a contract with the city to transport supplies to the water cribs. Later he owned the tug Kenosha, which he sold to the city last year when he failed to get a renewal of the contract. Capt. Rolson is survived by his wife. Funeral services will be held from the residence at 10 a. m. today.

ARRESTED WITH $4,000 GEMS OF WEALTHY WIDOW

Lewis Grey, 45 years old, was arrested at Madison and Clark streets yesterday while carrying $4,000 in jewelry belonging to Mrs. Frederick Penfield of the Edgewater Beach apartments, widow of the former county commissioner and zoning expert.

Grey told the police that Mrs. Penfield had given the gems to him. Mrs. Penfield asserted that they disappeared from her apartment during a party last Friday. Grey was a guest at the party, she said. About $6,000 in jewelry is still missing, she declared.

The police described Grey as a sort of Romeo. In his pocket they found a notebook containing the names of half a dozen women, with crosses marked after each name. After Mrs. Penfield's name he had written "rich widow" and marked three crosses. Other names were Mrs. Berger, Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Miller, and Mrs. Backman. Mrs. Penfield said she had met Grey recently through a friend.

LINDBERGHS SEE SON WHEN PLANE IS FORCED DOWN

May Go On to Halifax Today.

North Haven, Me., July 10.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife are expected to hop off from this picturesque island tomorrow for Halifax after a day of reunion with their 11 month old son, John Morrow Lindbergh.

Their trail-blazing flight from New York to Greenland was abruptly halted when the plane was forced down in a heavy fog yesterday at South Warren, ten miles south of Rockland, and came down on a small pond.

The flying couple took off from South Warren to North Haven after Lindbergh had personally repaired broken struts on a wing of the plane which was damaged in the landing.

Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow and Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, who are at the Morrow summer home, drove to the shore line to meet their son and daughter as they left the plane in a cove and came to shore in a small boat.

The Lindbergh baby was not with the elderly couple, but was left at home with Betty Gow, nursemaid of the Lindberghs.

One hundred persons, practically the entire population of North Haven, were on hand to greet the couple as the plane was landed in the cove on its pontoons.

Lindbergh and his wife and their mothers went immediately to the Morrow estate. Visitors were barred by guards.

"I'm not on any schedule," Lindbergh said when asked if he were going to take off for Halifax in the afternoon. It was at first understood that he and his wife would have lunch at the Morrow home and then leave for Halifax. "I may stay for a day or so," he said.

The Lindberghs spent Sunday night at an overnight camp at South Warren as guests of Clarence Dorman, who owns a string of camps at South Pond, where they were forced down.

JUDGE REFUSES TO VOID DIVORCE WON BY PERJURY

Jan Grzywa, 1409 Noble street, appeared yesterday before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court with his ex-wife, Helena, whom he diverced in 1926. They presented a petition to set aside the divorce.

"I perjured myself to get the divorce," Grzywa confessed. "I charged my wife had deserted me, when she was only visiting in Poland, and I was sending her money all the time. I married a woman named Mary Daniels and we can't get along, and she won't give me a divorce so I can marry Helena again."

DIES AS RESULT OF FALL.

INDICT HOLDUP PAIR FOR MURDER OF POLICEMAN

Parole Record of Killer Is Outlined.

Twenty-three grand jurors spent twenty-five minutes yesterday in voting and returning an indictment charging Ross King and John Bongiorno with the murder, on Saturday, of Policeman Harry Redlich.

The killing occurred during a holdup of the John W. Compton advertising agency at 9 South Kedzie avenue. King shot Redlich in the back after the policeman had captured Bongiorno.

Funeral services for the slain policeman will be held at 3 p. m. today at the chapel at 3918 Irving Park boulevard.

Record of Killer Told.

With the indictment of the two gunmen yesterday the authorities made public an outline of King's record.

The state of Michigan, where Fred Palm, the noted "life for a pint prisoner," is still in Jackson penitentiary because of a prohibition violation, granted a parole to King on Sept. 26, 1932, sending him to Chicago to be under the supervision of Maj. F. C. Thomas of the Volunteers of America, who lives at Hope hall, 6036 Ravenswood avenue, once a home for former convicts.

King was sentenced to a term in the county jail in Indianapolis in 1925. On Sept. 16, 1926, he was sent to the Ionia, Mich., prison for 7½ to 15 years for robbery while armed in Wayne county. On Jan. 15, 1927, he was transferred to the Marquette, Mich., penitentiary.

Paroled to Chicagoan.

After five and a half years he was turned over to the supervision of Maj. Thomas. Maj. Thomas said yesterday that he has similar supervision now over thirty or thirty-five ex-convicts sent here from other states.

King, after being paroled, told Maj. Thomas he had been given a job by Fred Fox, a jeweler. A month later he said he was "jobbing," which Thomas interpreted as meaning he worked at odd jobs. Thomas said he required monthly statements from King as to how much money he made and how he spent it. In May King asked if he could marry, and Thomas said he could if he told the girl he was a former convict.

Ex-Convict Kills Policeman.

On July 1 King reported to Thomas that he was "jobbing." He said he lived at 3810 Sheridan road—a neighborhood of high rents. On Saturday he and Bongiorno went back again to rob the advertising agency, which they had robbed on June 7. Bongiorno was caught by Policeman Redlich, who was covering his prisoner with his gun when King came from the rear and shot the policeman in the back.

On Sunday King and Bongiorno confessed their crimes. King said he killed the policeman because he would not desert a pal. The two were identified in one other robbery.

King and Bongiorno will be arraigned today before Chief Justice John Prystalski in the Criminal court.

Chance for Long Delay.

"If they plead not guilty it may take months before we get them to trial," Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty said. "If they plead guilty there is the matter of appointing attorneys for them and giving them a reasonable time to prepare for trial.

"Either way there will be a verdict of guilty, because we have sufficient witnesses to prove the murder, even without their confessions. But a conviction is only one step. Then comes a motion for a new trial, which must be argued.

"Under Illinois law a murder case must go to the state Supreme court for review. If it is affirmed there is a motion for a rehearing. When the judgment is final then there is the appeal to the board of pardons and parole, and eventually to the governor. A final resort to stave off execution is the insanity dodge.

"But supposing King receives a prison sentence, even for life, what then? Illinois must take up where Michigan left off and support him. He may even escape. Michigan did not act with due neighborliness in wishing this kind of man on Chicago."

Courtney Attacks System.

State's Attorney Courtney expressed indignation at the custom of other states dumping their desperate criminals into Chicago. Michigan, Indiana, and Ohio do it frequently, he said. Ohio has a practice of paroling prisoners in the morning, requiring them to make a telephone report in the evening from Chicago, and then forgetting them, he was told.

Chief of Detectives Schoemaker said he is not given any notice that a convict from another state is sent here to Maj. Thomas or to other persons here who are intrusted with the "reformation" of bad men from other cities. He said a man on parole from Leavenworth prison recently was made sponsor for the parole of a convict from Indiana who was sent to Chicago to be reformed.

"It is unfair to send such killers on to another state," said Police Commissioner Allman. "It is customary to parole them to some one who will give them work within the state."

Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, was asked if a state law or a federal law could be adopted to prevent other states from dumping their criminals in Chicago.

"A Common Practice."

"It is common practice throughout the United States to parole prisoners to sponsors in other states," he said. "In the majority of instances the authorities of the states to which the parolee is sent are not notified.

"Approximately 300 parolees released from penal institutions of other states are in Chicago. The theory is that these men have friends or relatives here who have agreed to furnish them with jobs and see that they live a law abiding life. This, so far as I am able to learn, is just a theory.

"Supervision is lax at best. It is not official and there is little or no responsibility in the matter."

Deputy Chief of Detectives William V. Blaul will take nine witnesses to the county jail today to view King and Bongiorno and to determine whether they were the killers of Policeman Stanley Lutke, who was shot by two fleeing men after they had held up a cigar store at 5018 Broadway on April 30. The killing had many features similar to that of Redlich.

Col. Chamberlin yesterday wrote a letter to the Illinois pardon board protesting against any executive clemency for Ira D. Perry, whose plea is to be heard by the pardon board today. Perry was once paroled, but the parole was revoked because he left Illinois. He and his gang killed a jeweler. State's Attorney Courtney also wrote to the board protesting against granting of clemency to Martin Durkin, who killed a federal agent in Chicago and wounded several policemen.

"Perhaps we should let both Perry and Durkin be paroled to Detroit or Lansing, Mich.," Prosecutor Courtney and Col. Chamberlin commented.

NOTED CHINESE SCHOLAR HERE FOR LECTURES

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Dr. Hu Shih, professor of philosophy and dean of the college of letters of the University of Peiping, China, has come to Chicago to tell Americans something of China's changing atitude toward western civilization and the cultural trends of his people. He will begin a series of six lectures under the Haskell foundation at the University of Chicago tomorrow night and later in the month will speak at the world conference on comparative religions.

Although only 42 years old, dressed in correct European clothes and speaking English fluently, Dr. Hu Shih is known as "the father of the Chinese renaissance" because of his leadership in the movement that has brought a national or living language into common use in China in place of the dead language of the classics. He spent seven years in acquiring a B.A. degree at Cornell and a Ph.D. degree at Columbia. He edits a review in Peiping and is independent in politics.

China in Period of Tutelage.

"China," he said, sitting in the reception room of International House, at the University of Chicago, "is in a period of tutelage, which is leading to a period of constitutional government. We have a culture permeated by individual effort, slow and wasteful. The Japanese culture is imposed from above and is orderly.

"There is a striking contrast between these two types of cultural advance. We have wasted 80 years or more, resisting, hesitating, doubting, in revolution. From the historical perspective this is the working out of a new type of cultural control, not in the hands of a ruling class but in the hands of individual leaders.

"Our attitude has changed from early conservatism, resistance to western civilization, then to enthusiastic appreciation, and, finally to a new doubt. Liang Chi-Chao in the early years of the century published a series of essays on the new virtues which a rejuvenated Chinese race must acquire. He mentioned public morality, sport, adventure, the martial spirit, insistence on individual rights and liberties, the concept of duty, nationalism, a sense of honor, and progress. This was a new emphasis.

Faith Shaken After War.

"This same leader visited Europe after the war and his faith was shaken. He died in 1929 and in his last year he began to talk of the bankruptcy of this scientific-material civilization.

"Since 1917 we have seen the rise of the soviet Russian experiment and have found many institutions in western Europe and America which had been considered perfect forms of human achievement, have all been challenged by this new social-political philosophy. No wonder the Chinese are beginning to doubt this western civilization, which may have reached its apex in the Victorian period.

"If Europe and America are beginning to doubt, how can we wonder about this new doubt in oriental countries?

"Democracy and parliamentary government are regarded as the companions of capitalism. We find the public in China advocating new forms of government, a dictatorship of a class or party. New fads are creating new doubts in the minds of our people, who are not yet fully at home in the new ways of social and political adjustment."

Dr. Hu Shih was asked about the new effort that Prof. Shailer Mathews is soon to attempt in the orient, in the course of the Barrows lectures in India, in which he will seek to implant the Christian concept as the best way of meeting the impact of the machine civilization.

"I am afraid it will not be enthusiastically received," he replied. "India is most religious, Japan next and China least of all. Even the Chinese students in Christian missionary schools lose their early religious trend. There is a long tradition of rationalism in China which makes a theistic religion difficult to take hold. Our people are not interested in personal survival problems, or immortality.

"The Chinese conception of immortality is that of work—what you do. As to something called the soul, the Chinese take very little interest in it. The Hindus will probably think it too simple—they have plenty of it.

"The Chinese rationalism is easy to link up with modern science. Before Buddhism our thinking was very simple. People of the temperate zone rarely indulged in such imaginative speculations, even in ancient times.

Trend Is Not Religious.

"There was no heaven, no after life, until the Hindus brought their hierarchy of heavens and substrata of hell. After 20 centuries of Buddhistic influence the intellectual trend in China is not religious. I do not think we will be able to control the machine by more religion, but by more intelligent social planning and foresight."

The new national language movement began in 1916 and has brought about a revolution in literature and textbooks and made a new medium for poetry and other forms of literature, according to Dr. Hu Shih. The classical language had been dead for 2,000 years, he explained, and was not intelligible auditorially. It was monosyllabic, while the new language is polysyllabic, taking largely from the old characters but using a new syntax and structure.

Plane Crash Victim

FREEMAN BROWN.

Freeman Brown, 18 years old, of 325 South 24th avenue, Bellwood, was critically injured last evening in a plane crash on his first solo flight. The accident occurred at the Lake street airport in Elmhurst. John Armstrong, a licensed pilot and part owner of the port, said Brown deceived him, telling him he had made a solo flight previously. He was allowed to take off in an Aeronca monoplane. About 150 feet aloft, he banked sharply, and the plane nose dived to the ground, crushing its wings. Brown was taken to Elmhurst hospital, suffering from a possible skull fracture, a jaw fracture and a compound fracture of the left leg.

FINE WEATHER BRINGS OUT BIG CROWD AT FAIR

Average Visitor Spends $1.11 on Grounds.

Although there were no special events on the program of A Century of Progress yesterday, the forty-fifth day of the Exposition, the beautiful weather and the arrival of many special trains bringing thousands of out of town visitors resulted in heavy attendance.

At 11:30 last night the turnstile reports showed a paid attendance for the day of 103,317.

The record attendance for any day at the Fair to date was established on Monday a week ago when Jewish day brought 244,472 visitors.

Visitors Spend $1.11 Each Inside.

Exposition officials, after tabulating reports from concessionaires and exhibitors, announced yesterday that the first four million visitors spent an average of $1.11 each, besides the 50 cent admission price. Total receipts, it was stated, were $4,445,307, plus the $2,000,000 received for paid admissions.

In round numbers, these receipts represented the expenditure of $491,000 for refreshments, $1,300,000 in restaurants, $374,000 in purchases from stores and novelty concessions, $454,000 for rides, $1,046,000 for amusements and shows, $44,000 for products sold by exhibitors, $86,000 on games and vending machines, $526,000 for utilities, including buses, boats and toilet facilities, and $24,000 for miscellaneous purposes.

Extra Cars on All Trains.

Every railroad entering Chicago reported the addition of special coaches and Pullmans yesterday, and some groups filled entire special trains, including a party of Kentuckians with banners flying, and more than 1,000 Brooklyn visitors on two specials.

Other special groups included Gold Star mothers on their way to the Pacific coast after a trip to Europe, Shriners en route to their convention in Atlantic City, 75 Canadians coming from Victoria, B. C., to remain here until Sunday, and tour parties from New England cities, New Orleans, Memphis, East St. Louis, San Francisco, Iowa, Minnesota, and South and North Dakota points.

The Exposition management estimated that approximately 55 per cent of the first four million visitors were from out of town points and said they represented every state in the Union and 75 foreign countries. The increase in out of town attendance, which during the early days of the Fair was only about 25 per cent of the total, is reflected in the registration booth of the Sears Roebuck building. Local attendance there has dropped from 75 per cent to 45 per cent.

Tomorrow is Idaho Day.

Many special events are scheduled for the remainder of this week at the Fair. Tomorrow is Idaho day, and the Modern Woodmen of the World also will hold their assembly. A parade, concerts with dozens of bands participating, and a military reception to Gov. Paul V. McNutt will feature Indiana day on Thursday.

Friday is the French Fourth of July, or Bastille day, and the occasion will be celebrated officially in the Moroccan pavilion, where the French flag flies, and unofficially in the Streets of Paris concession. Friday is also Delaware day.

Saturday is Ohio day and the Lions International organization will hold their assembly at the Fair. In addition to these events, Gen. Italo Balbo's flying squadron of 24 seaplanes will provide a thrill for the visitors during the week if weather conditions make possible their arrival.

GROUP FORMED TO 'REDIGNIFY' MICHIGAN AVE.

J. C. Cox, president of the Michigan Avenue association, announced yesterday that the purpose of a newly appointed steering committee is to "redignify" the avenue.

Mr. Cox said a Michigan avenue festival is planned for visitors to the Fair and that preparations are being made for a campaign to focus national attention on the tradition of the avenue and its right to rank with Fifth avenue in New York and the Rue de la Paix in Paris as representative of the city.

The members of the steering committee are Graham Aldis, Aldis J. Browne, Frank J. Cole, Harry C. Ederheiner, Harry C. Edmonds, Isaac M. Hamilton, Henry C. Tilden, Robert B. Upham, Murray Wolbach and David Work.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Thursday will be Rainbow Division day at the Pantheon de la Guerre, situated on the midway at the Fair, in honor of the National Association of Rainbow Division Veterans, who will hold their annual reunion in Chicago Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. French day will be observed at the Pantheon Friday in celebration of Bastille day. Bastille day also will be celebrated in the Streets of Paris with an all day program. A guillotine will be erected for the execution of two public enemies, the Depression and the Eighteenth Amendment.

Ballad night will be the regular Tuesday evening program on the Floating theater in the North lagoon, starting tonight. Ballads have proved so popular with the audiences at these concerts that one night a week will be devoted to this type of song. Requests for favorite numbers may be addressed to the promotion department, A Century of Progress, Burnham Park, Chicago.

A group of fifteen prominent Czechoslovakians will be entertained at a luncheon in the Ukraine pavilion near the 39th street gate at 3:30 this afternoon. Among those present will be Dr. Francis Soukup, chairman of the senate of Czechoslovakia; Dr. F. J. Smetanka, Czechoslovakian consul general in Chicago; and J. A. Cervenka, leader of the Czech group in Chicago.

Chicago Sea Scouts will compete with cadets from the Sorlandet, Norwegian training ship, at 3 o'clock this afternoon in two rowing races in the North lagoon. The first race will be in eight oared lifeboats and the second in ten oared cutters of the type used by the United States navy.

Mme. Sylvia Tell, premier danseuse of the Chicago Grand Opera company, will give programs in the auditorium of the Illinois host building tomorrow, July 26, and Aug. 9. On each day the program will start at 3 p. m. There will be no admission charge.

Probably the only professional cameraman at the Fair who worked at the Columbian exposition is R. W. R. Capes of the Kaufmann and Fabry staff. Mr. Capes is still an active photographer.

The Polish Falcons of America, athletic and social organization, held a convention yesterday in the Hotel Sherman. The meeting, attended by more than 300 delegates, was presided over by Dr. Teofil Starzynski of Pittsburgh, president of the organization. The Falcons held a field meet Sunday in Soldiers' field.

Capt. Waino Bremer of Helsingfors, Finland, who is on a goodwill trip around the world by plane and steamer, visited the Fair yesterday with Oscar Hayskar, acting consul for Finland. Capt. Bremer has a small Junkers monoplane with an 80 horsepower motor. He had to cross the Pacific by steamer, he said, because Russian officials refused him permission to fly over their territory. He will leave for New York tomorrow.

Fair Visitors Kidnaped and Robbed by Gunmen

Two gunmen late last night held up Joseph Meyers of Quakertown, Pa., and Miss Johanna Trenker, 4839 Altgeld street, at Roosevelt road and the outer drive as they were leaving in their automobile from the World's Fair. The robbers drove them to Roosevelt road and Austin boulevard, Cicero, robbed Meyers of $5 and Miss Trenker of some inexpensive jewelry, and then put them out of the car. Meyers is in the knitting business.

STUDEBAKER HAS BIGGEST JUNE SALES SINCE 1930

Surpasses remarkable gains made in April and May!

SENSATIONAL gains in sales have continued to mark the progress of Studebaker ever since early Spring.

Just look at the record.

Studebaker sales for April exceeded March by 86%! May sales surpassed March by 102%!

And now come the startling June figures which show not only a 147% increase over March but a substantial gain over any June in Studebaker history since 1930!

Public demand, after all, is the final proof of the worth of any automobile.

And public demand for the new Automatic Studebakers and the sensational Studebaker-built Rockne took on new proportions immediately following the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway race on Memorial Day. In that record-breaking event, 7 of the first 12 winners were Studebaker powered . . . including a five-car team of 85% stock Studebakers which outlasted 28 of America's fastest racing cars and went through the entire contest without a single repair!

Studebaker engineering was never so superior, Studebaker manufacturing facilities were never so adequate, Studebaker workmanship was never so exacting as today when this 81-year-old institution quickens its pace of progress—with 70 millions of net assets and stronger public confidence than it has ever known!

The Studebaker or Rockne that you buy today—with pre-inflation prices still in effect—represents the best motor car value that Studebaker has ever produced. Prove it to your own satisfaction—arrange now for a demonstration drive!

PALMA STUBBORN TO U. S. PLEA TO FREE FIVE YANKS

Consul Struggles to Get Them Out of Jail.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madrid, July 10.—After three days of bickering with authorities at Palma, Mallorca, Claude I. Dawson, American consul general at Barcelona, still has not been able to pry out of jail the five Americans who were arrested there June 5. The prisoners are Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Lockwood, Walton Blodgett, Rutherford Fullerton, and Roderick Mead, all prominent in the art colony. They are accused of a military offense—attacking civil guards.

Sent as a one-man rescue expedition by the Madrid embassy, Mr. Dawson has interviewed civil and military authorities. They presumably had been advised by Madrid of the government's attitude in this grave matter, as the United States ambassador notified the Spanish government of Mr. Dawson's mission.

Although the consul general reported from Mallorca tonight that he is "optimistic over developments," none of the dignitaries he has thus far approached seems ready to take the responsibility of releasing on bail or any other way the five Yankees who, in a moment of exhilaration, were so thoughtless as to ruffle one of those hard hearted civil guards. He sent a report of the case to American Ambassador Claude Bowers.

Bowers Becoming Impatient.

What the Spanish government intends to do, if anything, in answer to the repeated protests of the embassy here has not been revealed. Mr. Bowers will call on the foreign ministry tomorrow to inquire when the United States government might expect results.

The five prisoners, who are well along on the fifth week of their sojourn as guests of the Spanish government in a picturesque calaboose, seemed comforted by the presence on the island of an emissary of their government. Nevertheless they are a prey to what might be called impatience.

Mrs. Lockwood, who was said to have hit one of the guards with a highball glass and was struck with the flat side of a saber in return, is getting on wit hher cello lessions. A half-crazed Mallorcan is her cellmate.

Maid Brings In Food.

The men of the party, it appears, are allowed "complete freedom" in this crumbling calaboose, of which several walls, however, are sufficiently intact for a game of handball. Food is brought in by the Lockwood maid and baths may be had on application to the watchman who donates his wife's tin washtub.

The Americans seem grateful that their government is attempting to rescue them at last. This is evident from the fact that they today repudiated the campaign by the American daily, the Palma Post, against the insular authority which it charges had mishandled the case. Rutherford Fullerton said in behalf of the party that none of them aided or abetted the campaign or even received a representative of the Post.

The newspaper was founded by David Allen Munro of Highland Park, Ill. It is now edited by Thomas P. P. Leaman. He says that Mr. Dawson, whom he is attacking regularly on other grounds, failed to anwser a letter from the British consulate urging American authorities to come to their compatriots' rescue.

Example of "Bad Manners."

This the Post calls a "slap in the face for England" and an example of the "bad manners commonly encountered among the minor wasters of the American taxpayers' money."

Mr. Dawson, after a consultation with his British colleague, is understood to have discussed with Ciges Aparacio, civil governor of the Balearic islands, the possibilities of the Spanish government closing down the civil guards' post there as a "menace to good international relations."

Acquitted of Murder on His Plea of Self-Defense

Harry Hartnell, 37 years old, 756 Bowen avenue, was acquitted yesterday by a jury in Judge James E. Fardy's court of the murder of John Lynch, 26 years old, 8143 South Sangamon street, on Nov. 25, 1932. Hartnell, who is a night watchman for a Walgreen company warehouse, maintained that he fired in self-defense after Lynch, whom he asserted was drunk, attacked him outside the warehouse.

CONVICT FORMER INDIANA BANKER IN WARRANT CASE

John R. Steele, formerly a banker at South Bend, Ind.. was found guilty here yesterday of conspiracy to forge and market $41,000 worth of Cook county tax anticipation warrants. The conviction carries a penalty of one to fourteen years in prison.

The closing moments of the trial were marked by an unusual incident after the jury had been out four hours. The foreman announced he wished to consult with Judge Fardy on a point of law, and the jury filed into the courtroom. But instead of asking advice, the foreman read a verdict finding Steele guilty but recommending clemency.

On motion of Defense Attorney Joseph Powers a poll was made and the fourth juror denied he had agreed to the verdict.

Judge Fardy ordered the jury to resume deliberations and ten minutes later a poll showed all were in agreement as to Steele's guilt.

It was explained that the jury had been puzzled by testimony that Steele offered to sell forged $100 warrants for $42.50, although the market was $85.

Steele's alleged accomplice, P. David Pinkussohn, once known as "the airplane bootlegger," has never been captured.

SHOTGUN BANDITS GET $206.

Makes Talk Today

Morris Frank, head of the Seeing Eye institute at Morristown, N. J., which trains dogs to guide blind persons through traffic, will be one of the speakers today at the meeting of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness in the Illinois Host building at the Fair.

Mr. Frank, who is 26 years old, has been blind for 12 years. He arrived yesterday, accompanied by one of the dogs, and is staying at the Palmer house. Mr. Frank explained that the dogs, all of which are German shepherd females, are carried on leashes and have been trained at the kennels to direct their blind owners through crowds and across streets in safety to their destinations. Another Seeing Eye institute is at Vevey, Switzerland.

Dr. Lewis Carris, director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, will be another speaker.

BRITAIN FAVORS ROOSEVELT PRICE RAISING POLICY

Treasury Chief Proclaims Unity of Purpose.

LONDON, July 10.—(AP)—A virtual unity of purpose of the governments of the United States and Great Britain was proclaimed tonight by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, in the house of commons debate on the government's policy in the world economic conference.

Cheers greeted the chancellor's declaration that "there is no doubt that the avowed policies of this country and the United States are closely parallel to one another."

"It is the declared intention of the government to pursue by all means in their power any measures which they think will tend toward raising price levels, which we believe to be the first essential step toward recovery," he said.

Cites Rise in Prices.

"I also agree that this country should not depend wholly upon what is done in conjunction with other countries, but that we should do what we can to help ourselves. That is what we have been doing and we have met with a considerable measure of success, sterling figures of commodities having risen from the first of the year no less than eight per cent.

"We have really at last begun to see signs that show unmistakably that improvement is not a fleeting one, that it has a solid foundation and may be expected to continue."

Mr. Chamberlain declared he had not appeared in the house of commons to criticize President Roosevelt, but that he had to defend the government from the charge of being credulous or simple minded, as the opposition held, in supposing Mr. Roosevelt could have considered even a temporary form of stabilization.

George Lansbury, parliamentary leader of the Labor party following Chamberlain, declared "one thing Mr. Roosevelt has done is that he has thrown as on a screen the fact that the productive power of the world must be made a blessing instead of a curse."

Churchill Praises Roosevelt.

Winston Churchill, conservative and former chancellor of the exchequer, declared that the United States has been strangling itself as regards external and internal trade by rigid adherence to the gold standard.

"Now they have abandoned leadership of the gold countries," Churchill said, "and President Roosevelt has courageously launched the country upon revaluation, the dangers of which are well known. I welcome this action."

3 PEACE LEADERS EJECTED FOR ROW IN MADRID CAFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, July 10.—Three of Europe's leading pacifists, Lord Marley, Socialist vice speaker of the British house of lords; Ellen Wilkinson, former British Socialist M. P., and Henri Barbusse, French author, were ejected from a leading restaurant here tonight.

They were accused of disturbing the peace of the establishment after Lord Marley, who is a former naval officer, had carried a table that suited him to a place that suited him over the heads of the astonished diners. Infuriated waiters rushed at him and threw him and his party out.

Earlier the trio spoke at a meeting at which the Spanish unit of an international anti-Fascist society was formed.

Parley Decides to Continue Negotiations Until July 26

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 10.—The world economic conference will continue at least until July 26, when it may adjourn for two months to resume again in September or October, either at London or Geneva.

This much was decided at today's proceedings, but just in what form the negotiations will be carried on is not yet clear. When the conference steering committee met at noon today to hear the reports of the committees on what discussions they believed could be continued it became evident that the European gold bloc had suffered a dose of cold feet over the week-end.

Willing to wound, but afraid to strike, France and her gold allies did not dare take the responsibility of sabotaging the conference. As far as their position could be understood, it is apparent they are willing to go on, but will either abstain from discussions on monetary quetions, which in their opinion depend upon stabilization, or register reservations and objections to decisions.

Gold Bloc Struggles.

All committees which reported were in favor of continuing discussion of all questions, but the gold bloc tried hard at first to exclude the monetary problems.

Finally, the steering committee appointed a drafting committee, which was really a conciliation committee, to pull all the views together into an agreed statement which will be reported to the steering committee when it meets again tomorrow afternoon. Similar action was taken by the monetary and financial commission which met in the afternoon. After a short debate in which the French and their allies, again tried to exclude monetary questions, the commission decided to appoint a drafting commission from nongold and gold nations.

The gold bloc and their "opponents" each will have five members on the committee. James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio, will act as chairman. This committee also will report to the steering committee tomorrow.

Size Up Each Other's Strength.

The situation as now clarified is that two great groups have developed. The European gold bloc is on one side and most of the overseas nations on the other, supported by the British and the sterling group in Europe. The crystallization of these groups gave rise to considerable bitterness, but now that they have definitely formed and sized up each other's strength, the feeling is better. There is also a desire to obtain a maximum agreement. Where disagreement is unavoidable, great efforts will be made to preserve friendship and coöperation.

Experienced league of nations' officials believe that the conference will now begin its work in earnest, obtaining an agreement first on noncontroversial questions and then by widening the spiral to reach those problems in which disagreement is slight. Later harder questions, which now seem insoluble, will be threshed out.

It is hoped that by this method some questions, which now seem almost impossible of solution, may become easier in view of the earlier agreements.

FRENCH ATTITUDE CHANGES

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 10.—France's unshakable adherence to the gold standard and her unwillingness to discuss monetary questions at the economic conference while the dollar is fluctuating does not mean that she is fundamentally opposed to President Roosevelt's program of lifting world price levels.

Consequently, once the pressure on gold currencies through the steady downward plunge of the dollar and uncertainty about the pound is relieved, France will be ready to take part in the work of the conference with renewed interest. In the meantime she has no desire to oppose any reasonable formula for keeping the conference alive.

Draft Compromise Formula.

This phase of the French position was admitted tonight by Georges Bonnet, French finance minister. He incidentally revealed that the French delegation tomorrow will submit a compromise formula. In it they will agree to continue all economic discussions with the reservation that on certain important ones—notably tariffs—no final decision shall be taken during the period of instability.

Likewise the French are willing to continue to discuss certain monetary matters—notably private debts, silver, and movements of capital—but will ask the conference to refrain from discussing certain others. According to unofficial French sources, the Paris delegation will consent to inscribing a number of controversial monetary questions if the other delegations enter into a gentlemen's agreement to adjourn before discussion of them can arise.

SWINDLE GEORGIA GIRLS BY OFFERS OF JOBS AT FAIR

A dozen girls from Atlanta, Ga., explained to Assistant United States District Attorney Warren Canaday and Postoffice Inspector A. E. Germer yesterday that their desire to visit A Century of Progress had caused them to be victims of a confidence game.

One, a school teacher, said that in Atlanta they were approached by a man who gave his name as Col. Winfield Jones. He offered them jobs selling memberships in the "National Defense league" at A Century of Progress.

Each paid Jones $100, and they were escorted to Chicago by a man representing himself as the Rev. L. A. Lewis, representative of Jones. Lewis disappeared a few days ago, and some of the girls were stranded here. Prosecutor Canaday advised them to return to Atlanta and obtain warrants to prosecute them under Georgia laws, as no federal law had been violated.

At the Lexington hotel the assistant manager, William Harrison, told reporters that most of the girls were staying there, but refused to reveal their names. They and Lewis, who said he was a chaplain of the "National Defense league," had a booth in the hotel from which they sold memberships, Harrison said, until last Saturday. Harrison had cashed Lewis' checks, signed by Jones. When the checks came back and the hotel man found they were worthless, Lewis could not be found.

ILLINOIS, TENTH STATE, RATIFIES DRY LAW REPEAL

Fifty Delegates Cast a Unanimous Vote.

the people of the United States. That lesson is that political cowardice is the thing which is most dangerous to our institutions. Parties, officials or legislators who lack courage to do what they believe is right because of the clamor of an organized minority are sufficiently warned by our experiences under the 18th amendment.

"The 18th amendment is doomed. Let us pray today that with it will go the political cowardice that made it possible.

"From this day we shall reckon the restoration of state responsibility in Illinois. It fixes our undisputed right to hold our proper place in the forefront of those states tha tare progressive and forward looking.

"It is my hope, and I am certain it is your, too, that memories of July 10, 1933, will serve forever as a warning and a deterrent to reactionaries in Illinois. In the future, even if they are again favored by tempting circumstance, they will hesitate to impose their will upon the majority and, to deprive our people of that freedom of local action that is our heritage from the framers of our federal constitution."

IOWA RATIFIES REPEAL

Des Moines, Ia., July 10.—[Special.]—Wet delegates from 90 Iowa counties voted unanimously today to ratify the twenty-first amendment to the constitution, putting Iowa on record in favor of repealing national prohibition. Delegates from nine counties failed to appear.

The convention, meeting in the house of representatives at the state house, constituted formal confirmation of the vote of the people of Iowa at a special election June 20, when the voters elected a slate of 99 delegates-at-large pledged to vote for repeal.

Senator Joseph Frailey, Republican, of Fort Madison, was elected chairman of the convention by a unanimous vote. Maj. Gen. Matthew Tinley of Council Bluffs, Democrat, was the unanimous selection for secretary.

Gov. Clyde Herring, addressing the convention, condemned the saloon, reminded the delegates that the vote June 20 was a vote for temperance, and invited Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith and other drys to aid in a campaign for temperance.

Sees Vote for Temperance.

He did not mention Mrs. Smith, who on July 4 was elected president of the National W. C. T. U. at Milwaukee, by name, but said:

"We are not unmindful that an honored and respected woman of this state has recently been elected head of one of the great national prohibition organizations.

"There was a time before her organization adopted prohibition as the solution of the problem when she battled courageously in the cause of temperance. It is the hope of many of us who respect her earnestness of purpose and ability that she will recognize the expression of the will of the people of Iowa and will again ally herself with the cause of temperance.

"In exchange for that support, I will pledge to her and her organization my support in opposition to the saloon. I believe that the people of Iowa are opposed to the return of the saloon and if and when the eighteenth amendment shall be repealed we must adopt the necessary legislation to that end."

Text of Illinois Ratification

Springfield, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Following is the text of the resolutions adopted by the Illinois delegate convention today, ratifying repeal of the 18th amendment. They were presented by Patrick A. Nash, and after adoption by a vote of 50 to 0 they were signed in the presences of the delegates by Chairman Bruce A. Campbell and Secretary Harold G. Ward and were filed with Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes for transmission to Washington:

"Whereas, both houses of the seventy-third congress of the United States of America, by a constitutional majority of two-thirds thereof, proposed an amendment to the constitution of the United States of America, which should be valid to all intents and purposes as a part of the constitution of the United States when ratified by convention in three-fourths of the states, which resolution is in words and figures, following, to-wit:

"'JOINT RESOLUTION.

"'Proposing an amendment to the constitution of the United States.

"'Resolved, by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of American in congress assembled [two-thirds of each house concurring therein], that the following article is hereby proposed as an amendment to the constitution of the United States, which shall be valid to all intents and purposes as part of the constitution when ratified by conventions in three-fourths of the several states:

"'ARTICLE.

"'Section 1. The eighteenth article of amendment to the constitution of the United States is hereby repealed.

"'Section 2. The transportation or importation into any state, territory or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein of intoxicating liquor, in violation of the laws thereof, is hereby prohibited.

"'Section 3. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the constitution by conventions in the several states as provided in the constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission thereof to the states by the congress.' Now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the convention assembled pursuant to the authority of an act of the general assembly of the state of Illinois, entitled 'An act to assemble a convention to ratify or refuse to ratify a proposed amendment to the constitution of the United States,' approved April 28, 1933, that said proposed amendment to the constitution of the United States of America is hereby ratified."

FARLEY PRESSES 3 DIXIE STATES TO VOTE REPEAL

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.] — Arkansas will vote to repeal the eighteenth amendment in the election July 18, Senator Robinson of that state said today after conferring with President Roosevelt.

The administration, through Postmaster General Farley, is exerting its influence in every way to get the so-called dry states of Arkansas, Alabama, and Tennessee to ratify repeal in their elections this month.

The President already has issued an appeal to the electors of the south and Mr. Farley is scheduled to speak over the radio from Memphis, July 15. His speech will be carried throughout the south.

OHIO WETS, DRYS CLASH IN COURT ON REPEAL PLAN

State's Chief Tribunal Ponders Case.

Columbus, O., July 10.—(AP)—After hearing arguments for and against referendum on the Mosier bill, setting up Ohio's convention to pass upon the question of repeal of the eighteenth amendment, the state Supreme court took the case under advisement today.

The arguments were on a petition for a writ of prohibition to prevent Secretary of State George S. Myers from placing the referendum on the ballots in November and for a writ of mandamus to compel him to submit the names of repeal convention delegates to the people this fall.

Anti-Saloon League Fights.

The suit was filed by the Ohio repeal council after the Ohio Anti-Saloon league had entered petitions, containing some 300,000 signatures, asking the referendum. The league had objected to the selection of the delegates at large, contending they should be chosen from counties or state senatorial districts.

Dale Dunifon, first assistant attorney general, appearing for the secretary of state, based his argument on the contention that only three laws are exempt from referendum—emergency measures and appropriation and tax bills.

James A. White, Columbus, former attorney for the Anti-Saloon league, asserted that the suit was "an attempt by the wets to hamstring the referendum."

Acts for Repealists.

Sidney G. Stricker, Cincinnati, presented the argument for the repeal council. He contended the Mosier law could not be subjected to referendum because the act of the repeal convention would be exempt from a referendum.

OHIO TO VOTE WET, SENATOR FESS SAYS; WOULD FIGHT SALOONS

Springfield, O., July 10.—(AP)—The Springfield News says that United States Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., Ohio] today announced he would be a candidate for reelection in 1934.

He was quoted as saying two factors influenced his decision to run for a third time:

"In the first place, I never have submitted to threats in voting on a piece of legislation and I do not propose now to let threats of veterans regarding bonus legislation and my stand on the question influence my action.

"In the second place I believe that the eighteenth amendment is going to be repealed and that Ohio will vote for repeal. Everybody knows my unalterable stand against the liquor traffic and it has been said I could not be reelected because of this stand. I do not agree with this conclusion."

Fess was quoted as adding that if the eighteenth amendment is repealed, "there will have to be rigid laws and regulations passed governing the dispensation of liquor and to prevent the return of the saloon," and he deemed it his "duty to take part in the enactment of these laws."

MATTERN TELLS OF 15 DAYS' FIGHT FOR LIFE IN WILDS

Suffers Cuts, Bruises; Plane Wrecked.

MOSCOW, July 11 [Tuesday].—(AP)—A dramatic story of how Jimmie Mattern, American aviator, was lost for 16 days in the wilds of northern Siberia before being rescued was related early today in a special dispatch to the newspaper Izvestia from its correspondent at Khabarovsk.

The dispatch gave the first comprehensive details of the mishap to Mattern, who took off June 14 from Khabarovsk in an attempt to fly to Nome, Alaska, on another stage of his solo round the world flight. The Texas flyer last week sent a telegram here saying he was safe at Anadyr, Siberia.

Motor Begins to Falter.

Fourteen hours after leaving Khabarovsk, the Izvestia dispatch said, Mattern noticed that his motor was beginning to falter and he decided it would be better to land.

Finding no suitable place in the wild, desolate country, he pressed on, apparently hoping the trouble would right itself, only to meet with a virtual complete failure of the engine. This necessitated his coming down in an extremely unfavorable hilly spot about three miles from the left bank of the Anadyr river, at the mouth of which, 80 miles below, the village of Anadyr is situated.

In landing his plane was virtually destroyed. The propeller was bent, the right wing smashed, and the fuselage and the motor damaged. Mattern himself suffered cuts and bruises, although not of a serious nature.

The place of landing was one of the remotest sections, having but few inhabitants. Apparently hoping to find some aid, the aviator set out to walk to the river equipped with only a small supply of chocolate and biscuits.

Shoots Small Game.

For eight days Mattern wandered along the river bank, his scanty food supply having given out after three days of wandering. What he did for food the remainder of the time was not brought out by the correspondent, but it was felt here that he probably put a rifle given him in Khabarovsk to good use, avoiding starvation by shooting small game.

Reaching the river he saw two small boats going down stream, but the occupants of neither observed his frantic signals from the shore and passed him by, the dispatch said.

On the ninth day he moved a short distance downstream to a bend in the river where it was narrower, but the days passed without sign of another boat. To protect himself from cold and wind he improvised a small hut of scrub growth in which he remained six more days, the Khabarovsk correspondent reported.

Fishermen Save Him.

On the night of June 29 two more boats passed down the river. They were manned by native fishermen who this time saw his signal and took him to their camp about eleven miles from Anadyr and there they gave him food and he slept. Shortly afterward he was taken to the coast, a short distance away, where natives brought a soviet frontier guard to his assistance.

The guard, which had been on the lookout for the missing aviator for some days in response to instructions from Moscow, took Mattern immediately to Anadyr village, where everything was done to make him comfortable.

After Mattern had slept and eaten sufficiently, the dispatch related, he requested the frontier guard to go to his plane and remove the engine and all the instruments, he having decided to abandon the ship because it was impossible to make repairs to enable it to take off again. The guard's expedition was reported to have returned later with the motor and instruments.

2 PLANES TO MEET HIM.

Jimmie Mattern's Chicago backers yesterday requested two planes to meet the world flyer at Anadyr, Siberia. One is a plane that has been offered by soviet authorities in Moscow, the other a plane of the Pan-American Airways' Alaskan fleet.

The progress in the plans of the backers to enable Mattern to complete his solo around the world flight were revealed by S. J. Sackett, attorney for Mattern. Sackett sent two cables late yesterday, one to the soviet aviation bureau, Glovsevmorput, at Moscow, in answer to their offer of the use of a plane, and the other to Mattern, advising him of the progress of their attempts to secure a new plane for him.

ITALIAN FLYERS ORDERED OUT FOR MORNING TAKEOFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 10.—Gen. Italo Balbo tonight ordered his men to "stand by to resume flight" early in the morning on the fourth lap of their flight by stages from Italy to A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago. More favorable weather reports determined Gen. Balbo's decision and the prospective spectacle of the 24 giant seaplanes taking off caused nearly all of Reykjavik's citizens to take points of vantage on the hills around the bay.

The hop is 1,500 miles over water to Cartwright, Labrador, on Sandwich bay. Everything is in readiness. The crews this afternoon gave the machines their final overhauling and all were pronounced fit. Afterward the men rested.

The Italian air minister today received reports of better weather conditions near Labrador. Italiahaab, the emergency base near Julianehaab, at the southern tip of Greenland, reported mild weather and a low fog on the bay and south of Cape Farewell.

RECEPTION FREE TO PUBLIC.

Soldiers' field will be free to the public for the reception to be given Gen. Italo Balbo and his party on their arrival at the fair. It was announced yesterday that about 30,000 seats have been reserved for distinguished guests and members of various societies and the remaining 80,000 seats will be available to the public. Fair visitors may obtain return checks to allow them to reenter after the reception.

ALBERT ERSKINE ESTATE VALUED AT $100,000 NOW

Erskine's wealth at one time was variously estimated at $15,000,000 to $20,000,000.

The will was dated June 17, 1933. It gave two-thirds of the estate to his widow, Annie Lyell Erskine, and one-third to their adopted son, Albert R. Erskine Jr.

ENDS HIS LIFE WITH KNIFE.

Joseph Frankowski, 40 years old, 5220 South Carpenter street, jobless for three years, committed suicide yesterday by slashing his right wrist with a butcher knife in his home.

$37,308,646 CLAIM IS FILED AGAINST E. F. SWIFT ESTATE

A claim of $37,308,646 was filed yesterday with Probate Court Clerk Mitchell C. Robin against the estate of the late Edward Foster Swift, chairman of the board of Swift & Co., who died on May 28, 1932. An inventory filed last week disclosed the value of the estate as in excess of $8,000,000.

The claim was filed by Attorney R. F. Locke in behalf of Samuel Howard, trustee in bankruptcy of the Corporation Securities company, an Insull concern. The petition alleges the company lost the amount claimed through the administration of its affairs by its directors and officers. Mr. Swift was a director. Attorney Locke said similar suits would be started against 12 other former directors and officers.

It is alleged that the directors and officers lost $9,708,350 through creating a false value of the company's stock. Also listed among losses are outright purchase and exchange of other securities for Insull stocks. These are listed as $5,567,653 of Middle West Securities on Aug. 8, 1930, $7,105,000 of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., on Dec. 31, 1930, and $14,852,643 of the same stock on Sept. 15, 1930.

HOLES FOUND AT TENNESSEE U. S. DAM SITE

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—The Tennessee valley authority has found so many holes in the ground around the site for the proposed $35,000,000 Cove creek dam in Tennessee that it has ordered a survey to determine whether the location will have to be changed.

Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the board, said today after an inspection tour of the site, near Knoxville, that geologists had been put to work surveying the scores of caves and subterranean channels near the dam's proposed location to determine whether the project was feasible.

Army engineers previously had reported many caves, Morgan said, but ten more had since been found for every one reported. Morgan made it plain that the valley authority did not propose to spend $35,000,000 in building a dam and then find all the water leaking out through these holes. He said tons of dye stuffs would be poured into the water going into the caves to determine where they lead.

AWARD 24 PRIZES TO MODEL PLANE CONTEST VICTORS

Twenty-four trophies and prizes were awarded yesterday to the winners of the model airplane speed tournament conducted during the American Air races at Chicago airport last week. The awards were made at a luncheon given by the Junior Association of Commerce in the Great Northern hotel. George A. Bray, president of the association, which sponsored the model tournament, presided at the luncheon. The grand prize was given to Robert Pekelsma, 6408 Emerald avenue, whose stick type plane set a new world record of 66 2-3 miles an hour over the 176 foot course.

Recover $10,000 Stolen Tires; 4 Men Arrested

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 90; recovered, 87; stripped, 15 (from Chicago police records for twenty-four hours ending midnight Sunday).

Fifteen hundred automobile tires, valued at $10,000, which were hijacked from an interstate shipment at Dwyer, Ind., on June 30, were recovered yesterday in a garage at 1219 West 103d street. Four men were arrested by Lieut. James Kerr and Sergt. Harvey Guynn and Motorcycle Policeman James Oakey. Three of them, Wilbur Wiltse, 7221 South Artesian avenue, Martin Bratu, 3457 Irving Park boulevard, and another man, were found in the garage. The fourth, William Wise, was seized in his room at the Pine Grove Manor hotel, 2738 Pine Grove avenue.

EVANSTON POLICE HUNT 2 ROBBERS AFTER GUN FIGHT

Two of Gang Captured in Thrilling Chase.

The Evanston police last night were searching for two bandits who escaped after a gun battle in the suburb in which two other robbers were captured and one of them was wounded. One of the captured men confessed that he and his three companions were on the way to rob the Wilmette State bank in Wilmette when they aroused the suspicion of the Evanston police.

The wounded robber is John Maita, 22 years old, 1112 Milton avenue, Chicago. The other man held is Floyd Hampton, 21 years old, 1512 Cleveland avenue. The two gunmen who escaped were traced to Taylor's woods, near Dempster street and Crawford avenue in Niles Center, and 40 suburban policemen were searching that area for them.

Police Suspicions Aroused.

The four men first attracted police attention when they were riding north in West Railroad avenue, Evanston. At Lincoln street, Policemen Auvergne Feeley and Hubert Kelsh of the Evanston force, cruising in their squad car, noticed that the windshield of the gang automobile was broken. The policemen sounded their siren to halt the suspect car, but the four men speeded west in Lincoln street to Ewing avenue.

The pursuing policemen fired into the air as a warning. It was answered by a round of gunfire from the fugitives. The fugitive car swung south in Ewing avenue and at Grant street a bullet from the policemen's guns ripped a tire in the bandits' car, slowing it down.

Three men leaped from the automobile. The fourth man, later identified as Maita, ran west in Grant street. Policeman Feeley fired, wounding him in the right arm and capturing him.

Woman Aids Police Chase.

Two of the three other fleeing bandits ran through the yard of Mrs. M. M. Dunbar at 2153 Central Park avenue, four blocks from the spot where they abandoned their car. When Mrs. Dunbar saw Policeman Kelsh pursuing them on foot she jumped into her automobile and offered to drive him in the chase. The policeman accepted the offer, but the two fugitives escaped in the direction of Taylor's woods. It was first reported that Mrs. Dunbar had been kidnaped by the gunmen.

Meanwhile alarms had sounded throughout Evanston and Lieut. Carl Ekman and his squad speeded to Taylor's woods. There they captured the fourth fleeing bandit, later identified as Hampton, but were unable to find the other two fugitives. After questioning, Hampton told of the plot to hold up the Wilmette bank.

Hampton a Former Convict.

Maita was first taken to St. Francis hospital in Evanston but was jailed when it was discovered that his wound was not serious.

According to Police Chief William O. Freeman of Evanston, Hampton served two years in the Louisiana state prison after being convicted on a charge of receiving stolen property. Chief Freeman said he believed Maita and Hampton were two of the four bandits who have used shotguns in 35 Chicago robberies.

The automobile driven by the bandits was stolen June 10 at Division street and Campbell avenue. It is owned by Ann Thorsness, 423 Davis street, Evanston. Assistant State's Attorney Raymond Drymolski said the men would be charged with larceny of an automobile, assault with intent to kill, resisting an officer, and carrying concealed weapons.

GANG OF BANDITS TAKES $1,978 ON U. OF C. CAMPUS

While groups of students were passing on the University of Chicago campus yesterday, Paul Prove, 60 years old, 5640 Maryland avenue, bank messenger for the university's International House at 1414 East 59th street, was robbed of $978 and $1,000 in checks by four gunmen.

Prove was driving to the university business office at 59th street and Ellis avenue when the bandit car pulled abreast of him at 59th street and Kenwood avenue on the Midway. Three of the robbers jumped into Prove's automobile and forced him to drive to 58th street between Kenwood and Dorchester avenues. The men seized a bag containing the week-end receipts of the International house and fled in their automobile in which the fourth man had been following them.

CITY FIREMAN FATALLY HURT IN AUTO CRASH

John Bidinger, 33 years old, 215 South Kildare avenue, a city fireman attached to engine company 103, was killed last night and several other persons were injured in a collision between two automobiles at Throop street and Cermak road.

Bidinger was driving north in Throop street when his car collided with an automobile driven by Walter Thomas, 5307 Federal street. With Bidinger were Robert Reynolds, 27, 1970 Jackson boulevard, also a fireman with company 103, and Robert Manley, 29, of 2236 Jackson boulevard. Manley was cut about the head. Reynolds was shaken up as were Thomas and members of his family, who were in the other car.

This death increased the county motor toll for the year to 516.

A coroner's jury yesterday found Mrs. Lois Margaret Perry, 25 years old, 666 St. John street, Elgin, who was killed in an automobile crash early yesterday, was the victim of accidental death.

Mrs. Perry was the granddaughter of David C. Cook, founder of the David C. Cook Publishing company of Elgin. She and her husband, Gerald I. H. Perry, celebrated his twenty-seventh birthday in Elgin on Saturday, and the following day drove to Chicago.

The accident occurred at the outer drive and 56th street. Perry, who was driving, also was hurt.

Pays Off Defaulted Bonds.

An incident that was in keeping with his entire career was recalled by friends. Last August, when $135,000 in bonds of the Alton Barium Products company, which went bankrupt, were rated worthless, he paid them off in full. Although not interested in the company, he had sponsored the sale and declared that he would pay from his own funds to "maintain his good name."

SEIZE POLITICIANS' KIN

Albany, N. Y., July 10.—[Special.]—John J. O'Connell Jr., 24 year old nephew of Edward J. and Daniel P. O'Connell, Democratic leaders here, has been kidnaped and held since early Friday for $250,000 ransom under threat of death. Kidnaping under the New York law is punishable by a prison term of not less than ten nor more than fifty years.

This disclosure tonight confirmed rumors that were heard Saturday, despite the efforts of the young man's father, John J. O'Connell, also a political leader, and of his wealthy uncles, to keep the kidnaping a secret for the young man's sake.

Although the abductors warned the O'Connell brothers that they would kill their captive if the police were informed, the Albany chief of police, David Smurl, was asked tonight to search for them. The entire Albany force was directed to make the search.

A Courageous Fighter.

With negotiations for young O'Connell's release at a standstill, his family, relatives, and friends are in fear that he may endanger his life by trying to escape. Weighing 225 pounds, young O'Connell, an athlete of prowess and a lieutenant in the National Guard, is known among his friends as a courageous fighter.

Despite the secrecy being maintained by O'Connell's father and the latter's two brothers, it became known that the kidnapers have communicated with two uncles by telephone, by printed letter, and by a code advertisement in the Sunday issue of the Knickerbocker Press. In that advertisement were listed the names of eleven intermediaries, all of whom are known throughout the city's sporting circles.

The two uncles, who linked their Albany political machine with Tammany against the nomination of President Roosevelt last summer, made futile efforts to get in touch with the kidnapers. It was reported they were ready to pay a moderate sum for their nephew's release, but could not hope to raise $250,000.

Two Versions of Kidnaping.

There were differing reports as to the manner in which young O'Connell was kidnaped. One was that he had been spirited away while he was alighting from his automobile in front of his home. Another was that he had been taken from a beer garden while accompanied by the daughter of a police sergeant.

According to this version, two men jostled the young woman out of the way and when O'Connell turned on them one of the strangers dug the muzzle of a pistol into his side and ordered him to get into a waiting automobile, in which there were several men. As O'Connell climbed aboard, the report said, his abductors jumped into the car after him and sped away. This report received official confirmation tonight when a police teletype message was sent out.

When O'Connell's auto was observed in front of his home early Friday with the door open, the young man's mother became alarmed and summoned friends at once who instituted a search for the missing man.

Some time Friday forenoon a telephone call was made at the home. George Myers, a friend, who was in the house, answered the call. A muffled voice instructed him to "tell Ed [one of the uncles] we have his nephew and if he wants to see him alive again tell him not to tell the police."

Meanwhile the family had summoned Samuel Aronowitz, law partner of Edward O'Connell, Albany county Democratic leader. A muffled voice also spoke over the telephone to Aronowitz.

Word from Kidnapers.

"Tell Eddie," the voice said, "that we've got his nephew and that he will hear from us. If he tells the police we'll kill the boy."

On Saturday there was a third telephone message. This one instructed Daniel P. O'Connell to "look in your mail box at the postoffice."

In the box was a letter, printed by hand, demanding the $250,000 ransom.

This message was followed by another letter, mailed to Daniel O'Connell stating that the abductors would communicate with the O'Connells by Monday, but that they must insert a code advertisement in the Knickerbocker Press listing the names of intermediaries.

Accordingly, the Sunday issue of the Press did carry the code message.

U. S. and Police on Separate Trails in Hunt for Factor

Federal agents and state authorities continued working at cross purposes yesterday on the case of the missing John ["Jake the Barber"] Factor, the federal men holding his reported kidnaping to be a contrivance to enable him to escape from the country, while the police persisted in the theory that the Touhy gang is holding him for ransom.

In line with the demand of the British government that Factor be found for a hearing scheduled before the United States Supreme court on Oct. 9 on his extradition to England, agents of the United States bureau of investigation within the last two days have closely questioned his wife, the former Rella Cohen; her brother, William [Red] Cohen, ex-pugilist; and Attorney A. L. Epstein, who was with Factor when his reported abduction occurred ten days ago outside the Dells, a Morton Grove roadhouse.

Suspect Move to Escape.

While the agents refused to reveal the results of the questioning, indications were that they are still of a mind that Factor is seeking a route to Mexico, Honduras, or some other haven of exile. Whereas on Saturday the orders were out to guard all towns on the Mexican border and gulf against his disappearance, the bureau of investigation is now watching Newport News, Va., Baltimore, and other Atlantic ports it was learned.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, it was learned, has meanwhile gathered evidence to lend plausibility to his conviction that the Touhys are holding Factor. Only a few weeks ago, he is said to have learned, the Touhys kidnaped Jerry Horan, head of the flat janitors' union, and collected $15,000 ransom. Not long before that, it is reported, the same gang got $75,000 ransom for James Hackett, Blue Island gambler. Prospective victims on the Touhy list, it is said, were Michael [Umbrella Mike] Boyle, former labor leader, and Mike Kennedy, labor leader formerly connected with the Cook County Wage Earners' league.

Make Contacts with Touhys.

On the other hand, it was said, Factor's friends have made four separate contacts with members of the Touhy gang and have offered $100,000 cash for his release, the contacts eliciting the word from the Touhys that they didn't have Factor, but would go out to find him for a fee. Such are the contradictory rumors in the case.

A possible motive for the murder of Factor has also been discovered, according to reports. The story is that when the missing man's son, Jerome, was kidnaped last April, he was given orders to drive alone on Western avenue if he wished to establish contact with the gang holding his son. Factor is known to have driven up and down the avenue according to orders but, according to the story, he "double crossed" the gang by concealing Murray [The Camel] Humphries and Sam [Golf Bag] Hunt, in the tonneau of his car with machine guns.

Whether Factor and his concealed allies brushed with the kidnapers at the time is not known, but one report is that there was a clash in which one of the Touhy gang, allegedly William [Shinners] Crawford, was wounded. Such an incident, some of the Factor theorizers argue, might provoke the Touhys to seize him, try to collect a ransom, then send him back dead.

HORNER ORDERS 20 STATE POLICE AFTER ILLINOIS KIDNAP RINGS

Springfield, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Acting to end the activities of kidnaping gangs in Illinois, Gov. Henry Horner today assigned twenty state highway police to active duty in a state-wide campaign against the extortionists.

The score of highway police, selected for their fitness for the difficult task, will coöperate with the forces of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney of Cook county.

Gov. Horner stated that he has thrown the forces of the state into the efforts to break up kidnaping rings in Illinois as a result of information received by him that gangsters plan wholesale kidnapings of wealthy citizens in several sections of the state.

"I shall use every law enforcing agency of the state to thwart the plans of these kidnapers, and to cleanse Illinois of them and their ilk," Gov. Horner said. "If twenty highway police are not sufficient I will assign more to this imoprtant duty."

RISK COMPANIES DISPUTE CAUSE OF STORM HAVOC

Blame Hail for a Large Part of Damage.

Suburban home owners and representatives of insurance companies which write policies for rain, wind, and hail damage are involved in a series of disputes over destruction caused in Chicago's metropolitan area by the storm of July 2. More than $300,000 worth of shattered windows and broken roofs are involved.

The insurance companies refuse to pay for damage caused by hailstones unless the property owner has special hail insurance. Fully 50 per cent of the home owners who have wind and storm insurance do not have the special hail damage rider in their policies, the insurance people say. These property holders contend that their policies properly cover even damage caused by hail.

Question of Cause.

As matters stand at present, according to a representative of an insurance adjustment company, the dominant question is just how much damage was caused by hail and how much by wind and rain. Property owners, he explained, say that the hail would have been harmless had it not been carried by winds which reached 80 to 100 miles an hour during the storm.

"This storm was unique," the insurance adjuster said, "in that it left positive proof of what damage was caused by hail and what by wind. We do not protest the payment of all claims for property where there was even a remote possibility that wind has caused the destruction.

"But this storm drilled holes through windows which could only have been caused by hail flying at bullet speed. Some of these hailstones were as big as golf balls. They went through ordinary shingle roofs like an armor penetrating shell through a hunk of cheese, and they left undeniable evidence behind them.

Will Pay $500,000 Insurance.

"Hail insurance is not expensive and when bought in connection with storm and wind insurance it is still less costly. Insurance companies are going to pay $500,000 for home damage caused by the storm, but they cannot pay for hail loss which is as plainly hail destruction and nothing more unless a hail policy has been written for the damaged property."

The storm, which broke at 3 o'clock on the morning of July 2, originated in southern Minnesota, traveled over Wisconsin, and struck lightly at the northern and western suburbs of Chicago. It reach its greatest intensity at Dundee and Elgin, and destroyed trees, telegraph poles and wires, windows, and roofs in suburban towns as far as Hammond.

The insurance agencies say that telegraph poles and electric wires seldom are insured by the utilities companies. They say that high winds are common in Chicago but that twisters and winds strong enough to damage property as in the last storm are uncommon.

Seed for Storm Areas.

Several tons of garden and field seeds have been purchased and are being prepared for distribution to the farmers in seven counties near Chicago whose crops were ruined by the storm on July 2. The seed is being given only to those who do not have the means of purchasing their own seeds. The aid is made possible by appropriation of $15,000 by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission and is being handled by J. H. Lloyd, assistant director of the Illinois department of agriculture.

The farm advisers of the storm-ridden counties—Cook, Du Page, Kane, De Kalb, Winnebago, McHenry, and Boone—were called to the commission's offices in Chicago yesterday, along with county relief commission officials, to obtain application blanks for the needy farmers in their counties to fill out in order to obtain the seed.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 10.—The treatment of 25 persons suffering from inoperable forms of cancer by a new serum process under the direction of Dr. Thomas Lumsden of the cancer research laboratory at the London hospital has produced results justifying further intensive investigation, it was announced today. The statement was made at the annual meeting of the British empire cancer campaign. Hardly less important was the announcement of the isolation and identification of a pure cancer producing chemical from gasworks' pitch.

SENATOR GLASS GETS HIS NEGRO SERVITOR BACK

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—Senator Carter Glass breezed into Washington last night at peace with all the world. The hotel where he makes his home when in Washington was cool and inviting.

Twenty minutes later the peppery Virginian was popping like a machine gun. In his absence from Washington a new manager had replaced the Negro waiters with white girls. Clerks and assistant managers buzzed about and sought to placate him. Not by a damn sight! He'd lived in the place 27 years. It was his home. He'd never intended to move, but no white girl would wait on him. He'd have his black boys or—

Late last night a ukase issued from the top directed that "Senator Glass will be served by a colored waiter at all times, either in the dining rooms or his apartment."

So this morning his "boy," Roy, who had served him for 27 years, recalled from retirement, served the senator in his favorite corner.

STARTS A LIFE TERM 40 HOURS AFTER SLAYING

Milwaukee, Wis., July 10.—(AP)—Forty hours after Robert Shinners, 21 year old son of Sheriff Joseph Shinners, was shot to death resisting a holdup, Fred Garcia Jr., 30, of Riverside, Cal., today pleaded guilty to the slaying and was placed in Waupun penitentiary to begin serving a life sentence.

Shinners was shot to death Saturday night when he resisted a robber in the office of a storage warehouse and garage, where he was night manager. Two hours later Garcia was found asleep on a park bench. Questioned by police, he confessed the slaying.

In sentencing Garcia Municipal Judge George Shaughnessy decreed he should spend each July 8 of his sentence in solitary confinement.

CUT DOWN RUNS FROM Ordinary STRAINS!

"HIGH STEPS—up and down the bus every night and morning—what strains my stockings get!" says this business girl. "But I know that Lux keeps the silk elastic, so it will give under strain without breaking; stretch—then spring right back again."

"STOOPING is what strains my stockings," reports a society girl. "Before I used Lux, I'd stoop—and pop would go a run. That's what wrong washing can do. Lux saves me money!"

"HOW MANY TIMES a day we strain stockings," says a busy mother. "The Lux way of washing stockings has saved me many a costly run because it preserves elasticity. I won't use soaps that have harmful alkali or rub with cake soap. They weaken elasticity and even ordinary strains are apt to start a run."

A YOUNG WIFE says—"Garter strain happens all the time when I'm doing housework. Lucky for me Lux keeps the silk 'live' so it can stand strains day after day. And it's so easy to Lux stockings. It's foolish—and expensive—to rub with cake soap. With Lux there's no rubbing and Lux has no harmful alkali."

EVEN PUTTING ON stockings will often burst a run if you've weakened elasticity by wrong washing. Clever girls won't risk it. Stockings washed in Lux wear so much longer, keep their fit better, too.

RUNS . . . RUNS . . . RUNS! Usually stockings aren't to blame. When new, they have an elasticity—a live "spring" that lets them give under strain without breaking.

But washing with soaps containing harmful alkali or rubbing with cake soap weakens elasticity. Then even the best stockings are apt to snap under everyday strains. Lux saves elasticity. It has no harmful alkali and there's no rubbing. Lux stockings every night—it takes only 2 minutes. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

TAX RECEIVER ORDERED FOR 32 PROPERTIES

Jarecki Opens Drive for Penalty Collection.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday totaled $891,290. A total of $25,767,584 has been collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began April 28. The day's real estate tax collections and uncollected taxes for four years are shown in the following table:

	1928.	1929.
July 10.....	$ 31,316	$ 105,610
Uncollected ..	18,909,329	49,756,398
	1930.	1931.
July 10.....	$ 193,538	$ 560,824
Uncollected ..	80,169,076	108,793,089

The day's collection of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $15,572.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday named the county treasurer as receiver under the Kerner-Skarda act for 32 properties delinquent on taxes totaling $206,565. At the same time the treasury filed petitions in the court to place 79 other properties in tax receivership.

A number of property owners, who sought to avoid receivership by paying a portion of their delinquent taxes, were dismayed when the judge announced that such payments would be first applied to interest penalties which have accrued and then to tax principal. Penalties are fixed by statute at 1 per cent for each month of delinquency.

$45,000 Is Collected.

Judge Jarecki pointed out that penalties on 1928 tax bills are now approximately 37 per cent of the bills and penalties on unpaid 1929 bills are 25 per cent. In several instances payments of more than $1,000 met only the penalty charges. A total of $45,000 was collected.

The judge made his announcement following an appearance before the county board where he pledged himself to enforce strictly the law relating to penalties. He asked and was granted permission by the board to employ four clerks to handle detail work relating to collection of the penalties. All penalty money goes to the county.

The county board authorized Robert E. Burke, chief bookkeeper in the county treasurer's office, to sign 7,000 tax anticipation warrants, which are to be given to county employés this week for January pay. Request for this action was made by County Treasurer McDonough, who informed the board that he was unable to sign the warrants, because he is suffering from rheumatism.

DES PLAINES CAMP MEETING PLANS FOR DIAMOND JUBILEE

Methodist Ministers' day at the old Des Plaines camp meeting ground yesterday was marked by plan making for the celebration of the camp meeting's diamond jubilee in 1934. More than fifty Chicago pastors attended the meeting. Bishop E. L. Waldorf, head of the Chicago area, was named to lead the jubilee executive committee.

A resolution was adopted by the camp association extending sympathy to Mrs. William Broder for the death of her brother, Policeman Harry Redlich, who was slain by two robbers when he interrupted a holdup on Saturday. Mrs. Broder has been the manager of the camp meeting's dining room for many seasons.

The Rev. Ludwig Rexroth of Stuttgart, Germany, was a visitor at the camp grounds during the day. He is the pastor of one of the largest Methodist churches in Germany. He is here to visit A Century of Progress and is staying with relatives in Elgin.

PRISON RAPIST FACES INQUIRY BY GRAND JURY

State's Attorney William R. McCabe of Will county said yesterday that he would investigate the attempt of Charles Johnson, Negro convict, to rape the wife of Frank Smith, captain of the guards at Stateville penitentiary, last Thursday.

Prosecutor McCabe will present his evidence to the September grand jury in Will county, he said. Johnson was convicted of the murder of Morris Lazzeroni, a peddler, during the Chicago race riots in 1919. His life sentence was commuted to expire on Dec. 24, 1933, by Gov. Emmerson.

Johnson was ordered to serve 30 days in solitary confinement at the penitentiary after he tried to rape Mrs. Smith. The attack occurred after he was sent to work at her home near the honor farm.

Prosecutor McCabe said that if Johnson is found guilty of the rape attempt he will have to serve another term in the penitentiary.

CALL TEACHERS TO CONFERENCE ON OVERDUE PAY

Forgotten in Revival of Trade, Is Plaint.

Representatives of teachers' unions will hold a meeting Thursday night to discuss plans of getting their long overdue pay checks. Since Jan. 1 of this year the pay roll obligations of the board of education have mounted to more than $22,000,000 up to the vacation period.

Agnes B. Clohesy, chairman of the joint board of teacher unions, who called the conference, pointed out that teacher demonstrations may be held, but that they "don't point any real way toward getting the money."

Other Unions to Attend.

Besides the teachers, the meeting will be attended by members of the school engineers' and janitors' unions. It will be held in the headquarters of the Chicago Federation of Labor, at 666 Lake Shore drive.

"Everywhere we hear about prices going up," said Miss Clohesy. "We read about an increase in the steel output, wages raised and men going back to work, but the teachers of Chicago who have remained at their posts loyally during this depression seem to have been forgotten."

Miss Clohesy will also seek a conference with Mayor Kelly in connection with the possible sale of $5,300,000 worth of 1932 tax anticipation warrants held in the city's aggregate of funds. The cash from this sale would be within $500,000 of the $5,800,000 needed for a six weeks' pay for the 14,000 teachers and 4,000 other school employés.

Hope For Bond Sales.

The teachers' representatives also want to find out about the $40,000,000 school bond issue authorized recently by the legislature. Sale of these bonds would pay all salaries and finance the operation of the school system up to Jan. 1, 1934. If the school board fails to find investors in the bonds at home it will appeal to the federal government for a loan.

The special economy committee of the board, headed by President James B. McCahey, will hold a meeting this afternoon. The board is faced with the task of shaving down a $6,000,000 deficit for this year.

The board is expected to take action toward economy at its regular meeting tomorrow. It was reported that the board is planning to cut $2,000,000 out of the building appropriations set up in the budget. This would defer the completion of three new schools. Another proposed reduction in the building fund is $1,700,000 for repairs. It was pointed out, however, that these are savings in the building fund and the deficit is in the educational fund.

HELD ON EXTORTION CHARGE.

Judge Howard Hayes yesterday held Abe Fine, 3409 West 38th place, to the grand jury in $5,000 bonds on a charge of attempted extortion.

COURT UPHOLDS BUSBY'S WIDOW IN BANK CASE

Executor Must Defend Estate Handling.

Mrs. Esther Busby yesterday won the first round of her legal battle to remove the First Union Trust and Savings bank as executor of the estate of her late husband, Leonard A. Busby, Surface Lines executive, who died in September, 1930. Harold J. Taylor, assistant to the probate judge, overruled a demurrer filed by the bank.

Assets Wiped Out in Market.

Mrs. Busby in her action charges that the bank neglected to sell securities which were the chief asset of the estate while market values were high, immediately after the death of her husband. As a result, she contends, the $500,000 net value of the estate was wiped out by the falling market. Her petition asks that the executor be removed and the loss charged against it.

Attorney John D. Black, representing the bank, asked the court to rule out the action on documentary evidence presented in behalf of the bank.

Must Prove Proper Handling.

Attorney Edward R. Johnston, representing Mrs. Busby, maintained that the burden of proof is on the executor to show the estate was properly administered.

Judge Taylor upheld Attorney Johnston. His decision will compel the bank to call officials and business experts in an effort to prove the estate was properly administered. The case will come to trial in the fall.

HANGS HIMSELF IN HOME.

Hugo Geske, 55 years old, a janitor who had been out of work for several years, hanged himself yesterday in the attic of his home at 1627 Barry avenue.

COURTS CALLED ILLEGAL IN PLEA FOR REMAPPING

Issue Is Raised in Fight on Foreclosure.

Refusal of the state legislature to revise the Illinois districts from which legislative representatives and Supreme court justices are chosen is cited in a brief as grounds for an appeal from a chancery ruling of a Superior court judge. The appeal is pending before the Appellate court.

Under the legal theory cited in this brief the existing state government is called merely a government "of fact," as distinguished from a government "of right," because of the violation of the constitution, which provides for equal representation. The arguments in the brief declare that courts organized under a mere government "of fact" have no jurisdiction over chancery matters, which include foreclosures.

$250,000 Mortgage at Stake.

The defendant who brings the appeal is John W. Keogh, Chicago attorney and owner of the Italian Court building, at Michigan avenue and Ohio street. The plaintiff is the New England Mutual Life Insurance company, holder of a $250,000 mortgage on the property.

The insurance company filed a foreclosure bill and a receivership petition after interest and principal payments on the mortgage were defaulted. Appearing in court for himself, Mr. Keogh presented his arguments to Superior Judge McGoorty, demanding the dismissal of the foreclosure suit. This was refused.

He appealed the case, and recently presented his briefs and abstract of record to the Appellate court.

Would Force Action.

Mr. Keogh pointed out that if courts cannot function because of the failure of the legislature to act, the reapportionment demanded by the constitution will quickly be carried out. He stated that the average downstater has twice the representation in Springfield enjoyed by the Cook county voter.

"The constitution and the statutes of the state," says the brief, "provide that a citizen has the right of appeal to a legally constituted and a de jure Supreme court. The Supreme court of this state is not a de jure court because the constitution of the state of Illinois has been violated and the people have been deprived of a republican form of government."

The brief also points out that the federal constitution guarantees the citizens of Illinois a republican form of government.

ROBBER SENT TO PRISON.

Kokomo, Ind., July 10.—[Special.]—Clyde Randall, 42, who refused to give his address, was sentenced to ten years in Indiana State penitentiary today for attempting to rob a butcher shop here Saturday night. Otto and Albert Kollmar, proprietors of the shop, resisted the bandit and after a furious fight forced him at the point of a butcher knife to surrender his gun.

EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY AND PAROLE.

It transpires that an inmate of Stateville penitentiary who recently attempted to rape the wife of a prison guard was to be released under a commuted life sentence next December. A jury had convicted this criminal for murder in 1919 and fixed his sentence at life imprisonment. But in 1932 this evidently wise judgment was commuted by Gov. Emmerson, so that this dangerous brute is or was to be set at large upon the community in a few months.

We think such cases should be taken into more serious consideration in the revision of our criminal law. The executive is not in as favorable a situation to pass upon the character of a culprit or upon the quality of the evidence against him as a jury which sees and hears the witnesses. He ought therefore to disturb a jury's findings only in the most compelling cases. The defendant has had his day in court, surrounded by all the safeguards which our laws have provided for the protection of the individual charged with crime. American law has notoriously leaned toward the defendant in its meticulous regard for individual rights, and juries and courts give full effect to them. Except in very rare cases, where exceptional circumstances have had influence, the advantage is emphatically with the individual in his conflict with the law. After trial his case is carefully reviewed upon appeal, and it is a commonplace of our American procedure that the convicted defendant frequently manages to have not merely his day in court but repeated days, not merely one fair trial but two or three. After this elaborate process, so carefully framed to protect him, he has the executive to fall back upon.

Pull or false sentiment has scandalously interfered with the deliberate judgment of the authorized agencies of justice, the courts, under the guise of executive clemency. In the same paper that carried the report of the crime here referred to news comes from Kansas City that "Fur" Sammons has been found there, toting a gun, of course, and suspected of complicity in the recent killing of several police officers. Sammons is at large because Len Small commuted a death sentence to life and later to a term of years, opening the way to his subsequent parole and a return to a life of crime. Nothing in Sammons' previous career justified the exercise of so-called executive clemency on his behalf, and his conduct thereafter has proved how ill judged, if not corrupt, that action was. Such incidents of defeated justice are too frequent to be ignored and strikingly illustrate the defects of our defenses against criminal violence. Executive clemency needs overhauling and explicit restraint.

Since this was written a paroled convict caught with another paroled convict has murdered a policeman, and it is more than probable that one or all of the criminals engaged in the gun fight in Evanston are beneficiaries of the parole system.

UNFIT TEACHERS.

At a meeting of the school board last week school teachers who packed available space jeered and booed the members, compelling adjournment. There were said to be 400 teachers present. This is a small minority of the teaching staff of the schools and was as unrepresentative of the majority as it was deplorable in spirit. At all events it was an exhibition of unreason and bad temper which justifies and should result in the discharge of every participant from the public service.

There was no excuse for this insolence, for the present board, the authorities, and the community are and have long been fully awake to the plight of the teachers, regret it, and are doing everything possible under the laws to relieve it. The demonstration was uncalled for, gave no help to the board in their efforts to deal with its problems, and was an injury to the just cause of the teachers as well as a vicious example to the youth of the city. Such individuals demonstrate their unfitness to train our youth and their unfortunate influence should be promptly and firmly ejected from the schools.

The board should protect itself, as it lawfully may, from any further disturbance of this kind. It is not required by any principle of free speech to submit to it. These teachers have had unlimited opportunity to present their claims and complaints and can continue to do so in a proper way and through available agencies. The board should proceed with due regard for the public's right to information and timely protest, but it is not required of it nor advisable that it should meet in the presence of a mob.

The community has been very lenient toward disturbances and demonstrations in the name of the teachers because it sympathizes with their condition and desires its relief. But it is losing patience with the self-seeking activities of agitators and with the arrogance and unreason of what, it is to be hoped, is a minority of extremists in the teaching force. The loyalty and self-restraint under most trying circumstance of the majority of Chicago teachers are appreciated by the public, but the minority which is discrediting the teaching body should be expelled from the schools in justice to the children, to the community, and to the loyal and fit majority of the teaching body.

FOUR MILLION MORE DOWN THE RATHOLE.

A loan of four million dollars has been made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to the Russian government for the purchase of American cotton. The best that can be said for this loan is that, considered as a financial venture, it is not much worse than a lot of other loans made by the R. F. C. The government, through this agency, has advanced more than 2,500 million dollars since Feb. 2, 1932. Of this colossal sum less than 600 million dollars has been repaid, and it is at least doubtful if as much as half the money advanced will ever be returned to the treasury. The record of the R. F. C. is going to read like the crazy record of our government as banker during and after the war. Any government, provided it was sufficiently broke, could get a loan. The only other condition was that the amount requested be large enough to tax the capacity of a steam shovel. If there ever, in the history of finance, was a worse banker than Uncle Sam, the fact has escaped the commentators.

ANY KING IS ALL A KING.

King Feisal of Irak has been the guest of London and has been received with the fine regard and affability which will be given only to a king. The honest burgher will be reverential and the journalist doubly so. King George will recognize a cousin even if he come brown or black. No other trade union ever paid so much respect to a membership card. The consequence of the kingly person may be otherwise negligible. The area and population back of him may be potato patch and simple goatherds, but a king is a king for all that. Off goes the hat and the cannon boom in the royal manner.

Gen. Grant, having been twice President of the United States, once sat in an anteroom for an hour or so to await the exit of the whiskered emperor of Brazil from the presence of Queen Victoria and to receive a scant nod from his hostess herself and none at all from the whiskers. Personal mediocrity, weakness and infirmities, futility of existence and purpose, are absorbed into the monarchical system even when its days are lean. The romantic folly of the human race in this respect has survived every imposition which reality could put upon the victims of their own nonsense.

STEEL AND ALUMINUM.

Attorney General Cummings is investigating the aluminum industry to find out if it is a monopoly.

This brings to mind that the steel industry was once so charged. Steel was considered the most important industry and the most important article in America at the time of its unpopularity. Today steel is in such a decline that it became one of the prime movers in the recovery plan.

Aluminum and aluminum alloys have taken its place in popularity of consumption and unpopularity of ownership.

Transportation went from coach to canal, to railroad, and is moving on to automobile and air. Construction traveled from wood and stone to steel. It is now turning to aluminum.

There seems to be a law of psychology that successful industries are disliked while unsuccessful ones are popular.

Editorial of the Day

A CONFLICT OF LAWS.

[Peoria Transcript.]

The national industrial recovery act provides that while it is in effect "any code, agreement, or license approved, prescribed, or issued and in effect under this title, and any action complying with the provisions thereof taken during such period shall be exempt from the provisions of the anti-trust laws of the United States."

It so happens that most of the states, if not all of them, have anti-trust laws of their own. There is a drastic anti-trust statute in Illinois. It provides that any corporation, organized under the laws of this or any other state, which enters into a pool, trust or agreement, combination, confederation or understanding with another corporation "to regulate or fix the price of any article of merchandise or commodity, or which joins another corporation in limiting the amount or quantity of any article, commodity, or merchandise, shall be judged guilty of a conspiracy to defraud and shall be subject to indictment and punishment." The act applies to individuals, partnerships, and associations of persons, as well as to corporations.

The corporation adjudged guilty under this act is subject to fines beginning with $500 for the first offense and extending to $15,000 for subsequent offenses. Officers of the offending corporation are also subject to fines ranging from $200 to $1,000 and to a jail sentence not to exceed one year, or both.

May an Illinois employer accept immunity from prosecution under the Sherman act by the federal government and at the same time escape prosecution by the state government? The recovery act, of course, applies primarily to industries whose goods move in interstate commerce, but it will be noted that the recovery act says, "Any violation of such standards in any transaction in or affecting interstate or foreign commerce shall be deemed an unfair method of competition."

It is expected the administration will give a liberal interpretation to "or affecting" interstate or foreign commerce. Intrastate commerce naturally affects interstate commerce Here we have a direct conflict between federal and state statutes relating to trusts and price fixing combines. Many lawyers say that suspension of the Sherman law by the President will not suspend anti-trust acts. Yet under the doctrine of "implied powers" the federal government might suspend all state laws which conflict with federal enactments.

In the meantime, have pity on the honest industrialist and employer as he strives desperately to learn what it is all about.

"PICKNICKERS ARE WARNED to Shun Poison Ivy."—La Trib. Well, of course it's a good thing to warn 'em, but there's some people who are just regular poison ivy hounds. You can't any more keep them from being poisoned by poison ivy than you can keep a Democrat from trying to get a job with F. D. in the White House. There are some people so keen to be poisoned by poison ivy that you simply can't stop 'em. There was a Sunday school picnic I went to once, and when we got to the river and began to get the baskets out the superintendent of the Sunday school appeared with a big banner he had made warning everybody to beware of the awful poison ivy. On it he had printed in red letters the old slogan always invoked to make people beware the deadly vine—"Leaflets three, let it be. It's Poison Ivy!" And right away Bill Shooters, after one look at the sign, gasped, "I've got it!" and his face turned color until Bill looked like a large piece of boiled liver. We took him to the doctor, who said that Bill had a fine case of ivy poisoning all right, but he had never been near poison ivy; he just saw the sign.

And on another picnic, we had no sooner sat down on the grass and begun to chase the caterpillars off the table cloth and argue with the ants as to who had the best right to the apple pie than Lucy Tupper said her face felt funny, and sure enough it broke right out into a fine first class rash. The Sunday school teacher said she had ivy poisoning, but some of us thought she had smallpox or yellow fever or had been bitten by two or three swarms of bees. There was no poison ivy anywhere around, and it didn't seem possible that Lucy had ivy poisoning, but one look at her face would convince anybody that she had something, and had it bad.

While the teacher and some other ministering angels took Lucy to the doctor, Warts Snugget said he bet he could solve the mystery, and he led three or four of us forth to run the thing down. Some of us stopped to examine the vines on the trees along the way, but Warts said it was no use, there was no poison ivy for miles around, but he had known people like Lucy before. So he led the way to another picnic party about half a mile away. We went up to them and Warts began asking every girl her name. About the third or fourth girl said, "My name is Ivy——" "That's enough," said Warts as he turned to us. "You see, her name is Ivy. That's how Lucy came to be poisoned."

Well, maybe it was. Those people who are always being made sick by poison ivy grab at the slightest excuse.

STRANGE WORLD.

Strange world, of yearning, young illusion
To be offered on the shrine of years,
Strange world, of turmoil and confusion
Of smiles and their accompanying tears.

Strange world, of endless greed and passion,
Balanced by sincerity and truth,
Strange world, composed in changing fashion—
We know so much about you in our youth!

'Tis then we have the answer to all living;
We pigeonhole you "this" and "thus" and "so";
But as we age, in taking and in giving,
The more we live the limping less we know.

Strange world, of countless contradictions,
We mingle in a groping search to find
An explanation to your benedictions;
Are they bestowed on matter, or on mind?

Or is your favor for the men of spirit
Intangible—without account or rhyme?
Your curse—strange world—so many of us fear it,
And beg you everlastingly for time.

The "have beens" and the "may bes" and the "might have beens" all ask
The power to solve your startling subtlety,
But down your days you say to them, "It is too great a task,"

CAN WATER BE MADE SAFE?

TYPHOID fever has become a disease of minor importance and public water supplies rarely spread that disease. Such typhoid as remains is spread in the main by carriers, though an occasional outbreak is charged to milk. The accusations against water are even more infrequent.

The same paeans of praise cannot be applied to public water supplies where they are under charges of spreading epidemics of diarrhea. The evidence is convincing that waves of this minor disorder, due to the use of public water supplies, not infrequently sweep over communities.

Few communities have access to first class sources of water. There are too many factories and too many people for that. Nearly every city is now under the need of using second hand water. Cities are forced to take muddy water, sewage-polluted water, or water into which factories have poured all kinds of waste, and purify it as well as that can be done. The waterworks plant of every city at present is an old clothes shop where a worn-out article is taken in hand, brushed, de-greased, de-nearly everything else, taken to pieces, and made into a bright, brand new suit of clothes.

The United States public health service has been watching the performance of water purification works for about nine years. Most of the plants studied were located up and down the Ohio river, the reasons for the selection being the degree and variety of pollution of that stream, the large amount of sewage going into it, and the great number of people using the purified product. Some while after starting along the Ohio they extended their studies to the water plants located in the great lakes region.

Some of the earlier reports were quite pessimistic. It was said that several places were in danger in spite of the fact that their water purification methods were up to the minute. The warning given at that time had a favorable effect. The water engineers, chemists, and bacteriologists got down on their marrowbones. New methods were devised and old ones were improved.

Progress has outstripped pollution. The present position of the water scientists of the service is one of greater confidence in the methods and of brighter hopes. They report favorably on storing water. If London can make Thames water into a good, potable product by the simple expedient of storing it in reservoirs, the cities of the Ohio basin need not feel their problem impossible of solution. Many cities located in hilly country should find it rather easy and inexpensive to create large lakes and impound water for time enough for automatic purification. Methods of filtration have been improved and the progress in chlorination has been even greater.

A difficult problem still remaining is that caused by trade wastes. Some of these problems have been found hard to solve. In others the solution is known, but there is difficulty in getting it applied. The reports of this long continued governmental survey will be valuable to mayors, commissioners of public works, health departments, as well as to the consumer, and also to those industries that pour their wastes into the sewers

ATTENTION NEEDED.

O. L. writes: 1. How long does syphilis stay in the system when it is not hereditary?

2. Is medical attention necessary?

1. Throughout life in many cases, in the sense that somewhere in the body the microbes are present and living and it is possible for them to regain some activity.

2. Yes.

SORE FEET.

I don't know that I can give the cause, but I have some confidence in the remedy.

STREET REPAIRS.

Chicago, July 6.—[Friend of the People.]—The writer represents only one of a number of families who have small children residing in the vicinity of Avondale avenue between Kedzie and California avenues. This section was dug up about two months ago, apparently with the idea of paving. Sewers were put in by laborers, who dug up lawns and threw the mud on the sidewalks, making them impassable. The mud is still on the walks and the sewers remain uncovered, making it a dangerous place for children who are drawn around as though by a magnet. Isn't there something that can be done to cover these sewers and get rid of the mud from the walks? H. B.

Report is made that dirt and mud have been removed from the sidewalks and the firm having the paving contract notified of the dangerous condition caused by missing manhole covers, which have since been covered, eliminating any possibility of accident.

AVIATION COURSE.

Chicago, July 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1928 I signed an agreement with a certain party to pay him $250 for a course in aviation, said party to be the instructor. This course was to extend until I had passed all tests by the government so as to receive a pilot's license, regardless of the time interval. In a short time I paid said party $240 towards the course, for which I have receipts. However, after a few lectures on aviation and one flight I was unable to attend the classes. After a lapse of one month I decided to continue the course, but upon trying to locate the school was unsuccessful. I have lost my agreement with this party, but as I have now located him I am wondering if it will be possible to collect anything on the $240 I paid him. A. P.

It seems probable that you would be able to satisfy a court that your delay was reasonable in the circumstances and hence that the other party would not be excused from now refusing to perform. If you wish to force matters you should employ an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 11, 1917.

LONDON.—Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg has answered critics of the German government with a flat refusal to give the central powers' peace terms. "We cannot declare our terms of peace," he said. "We must fight to conquer. I repeat that the formula of peace without annexations is unacceptable to us." This declaration is said to have been made to members of the main committee of the reichstag and followed a meeting of the crown council called by the kaiser.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In preparation for the selective draft to military service, which is expected to take place next week, Provost Marshal General Crowder took these two steps: He announced the physical requirements of the men who will be selected for the national army and the rules and regulations governing the acceptance and rejection of eligibles by examining physicians reporting to the exemption boards; he issued the census estimates of the present population of states, counties, and cities, which will be used as a basis in computing the quotas of drafted men to be furnished to the national army.

WAR SUMMARY — London hears that Halicz, key to Lemberg, has been captured by the Russians. Petrograd reports a twenty mile gap cut in the German line in Galicia, with four more villages and 1,000 Austro-Germans captured. Berlin admits a retreat in this sector. Paris reports the repulse of a strong enemy attack near Hurtebise. Berlin says French were beaten off south of Courtecon and southeast of Cerny. London reports a successful raid near Nieuport. Berlin says there was heavy artillery fighting on the Ypres front.

CHICAGO.—The two editors of THE TRIBUNE have entered the United States army service. One of the editors, Robert R. McCormick, who served as a major in the First Illinois cavalry at Brownsville, on the Mexican border, last summer and fall, has been sworn into the federal army and detailed for service with Gen. Pershing's expeditionary force. The First Illinois cavalry, with which he has been connected, is now the Second Illinois artillery, and it is expected that when Maj. McCormick's service with the Pershing force ends he will resume his place with the artillery regiment. Joseph M. Patterson, who shares with Maj. McCormick the editorship of THE TRIBUNE, went to Fort Sheridan on July 9 with his regiment [now federalized]—the First Illinois artillery—in which he is a lieutenant. Last summer Lieut. Patterson—then a corporal—was with this same command at San Antonio during the Mexican trouble. He has been attached to the First artillery for nearly two years, entering as a private.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

QUESTION — Where is the Italian pavilion located?

ANSWER — The Italian pavilion is located just north of the Hall of Science on the east side of the Avenue of Flags.

QUESTION—I bought two tickets for general admission one day and used one. I tried to get in again another day on the other ticket, and was refused admission. What can be done about it?

ANSWER—Present the ticket at the pass gate at the 12th street entrance.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

PROF. MEAD AND MR. WALSH.

Chicago, July 7.—Your editorial, "Prof. Mead and Mr. Walsh," in THE TRIBUNE of July 7, should have the thoughtful consideration of every citizen. Advocates of the St. Lawrence treaty and of the waterway have supplied very meager facts in its favor, and usually content themselves with the argument that all critics of the project are subsidized by the railroad and power interests, relying on the inference that if the railroad and power interests are against it it must be all right.

We have read most of the literature pro and con on the St. Lawrence waterway. There does not seem to be any real reason for spending this money or for the international obligations, including surrender of sovereignty over Lake Michigan and other waters which the treaty involves. It is at least a debatable question if any substantial increased use of the waterway could or would result from the project. It is extremely doubtful if it would lower the total cost of transport in any degree. The whole subject of cost of transport is due for a realistic and critical examination in the light of modern business and industrial conditions. The cost of transportation must be determined by a detached study of the actual cost of getting commodities from point of origin to point of effective use, which must include all items of packing, handling, insurance, storage, interest charge on value of goods in time of transit and storage, and other indirect costs. It can plausibly be shown that for 95 per cent of the expected commodities to be moved on this waterway, if ever commodities do move on the waterway, the shipper could not afford to ship by water if carriage were free.

The decline in use of the great lakes by shippers in the last twenty-five years, except for special shippers like the steel companies, and the decline of river transport all point to the excessive total costs of such shipments.

As to the power development argument, the question of cost is again the controlling one. It seems to be a pretty clearly established fact that hydro-electric power costs more than power from steam power plants, except under very unusual conditions. There is already developed vastly more electric power capacity than the nation can possibly use for a long time to come, and if additional uses could be found and constant peak load developed, it could be sold at rates much below the present charges without substantial additional capital investment.

The whole St. Lawrence waterway project should be reëxamined in the light of present day facts of transportation and power needs and costs, and of the enlightened self-interests of the American people. A dispassionate examination of the facts and consideration of all the factors which enter into the problem might well lead to the conclusion that this project belongs to the stage coach days, and that the taxpayer's money could be used to much better advantage by the taxpayer.

The fervent special pleas of politicians for public works involving the expenditure of vast sums of the taxpayer's money and the incidental creation of new and permanent fields of patronage should prompt the taxpayer to the most critical analysis of politically favored money spending projects.

THE TRIBUNE deserves the thanks of all of us for calling attention to the bad manners, to say the least, of Chairman Walsh and Senator La Follette in trying to shift the discussion of the merits of the St. Lawrence waterway project to an attack on the integrity and motives of critics of this project.

CARL V. WISNER.

THE PRICE OF BREAD.

Chicago, July 7.—According to the bakers the cost of the flour used in each loaf of bread is so small that it is of no significance. This was the reason given by the bakers when they fought the reduction in price several months ago. Now that the cost of flour has increased they are going to increase the price of bread on account of it. How come?

The overhead of the bakers, I am sure, has not increased since the price reduction. Their labor costs, no doubt, have decreased. BRUCE T. JENSEN.

THEY'LL SEE IT.

Chicago, July 5.—I tried to get in touch with the Grant Park Transportation company, which, I understand, is operating the miniature railroad in Grant park, but found it has no telephone.

The railroad might be "miniature," but the noise it makes surely is exasperating. We have an office right on Michigan boulevard and the incessant noise which is coming from the barker over a loud speaker system is driving me to distraction. It certainly must be equally disgusting to a visitor walking down Michigan boulevard and hearing that fellow talking continually trying to drum up some business for the railroad. It floats into our windows as if he were sitting on the window sill, and you can well imagine how it sounds when we are trying to talk on the telephone or take dictation. Just while I am writing this the company has some amateur attempting to play "While Irish Eyes Are Smiling" on a harmonica, and it sounds like a small town carnival.

It should be stopped immediately, and if the officials of the company don't see this I hope some one calls it to their attention. HELENE MASON.

BEER.

Chicago, July 5.—When beer was first legalized local public officials announced boldly that any brewery having any kind of alliance with gang organizations was to be refused a license. The facts are that at least two Chicago breweries are owned by notorious gangsters, and another brewery has a sales outlet through the old Capone sales force who are daily calling on local speakeasies soliciting business in the usual Capone manner of intimidation. It might be added that among beer drinkers this is generally conceded to be the poorest beer made in the world. I might add that at a recent Democratic powwow this was the beer selected to be used. A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

The BREAK in the CLOUDS

COMMODITY prices are rising. Jobbers and dealers are filling in depleted stocks. Employment figures show encouraging gains. Retail sales have improved. Car loadings, steel production, electrical output, automobile sales, and other indications show heartening increases.

The break in the clouds has come! Now is the time to try the wings of those new ideas, new sales plans, new and improved products, which have been incubating during adverse days.

Now is the time for Business to make sure it is right as it goes ahead, by tryout campaigns in a favorable key market, by practical tests on the proving ground of dealers' shelves. For the signboards of past experience provide little guidance for the days to come. These are testing days... pioneering times... for men and products, for sales plans and markets, for advertising methods and media.

Of all markets in America probably none has the advantages for test campaigns that Philadelphia offers.

Philadelphia offers a two-fold advertising economy: 1st—One newspaper—The Philadelphia Bulletin—reaches nearly every home. 2nd—Its advertising cost is one of the lowest in America.

The circulation of The Bulletin is 493,375 daily. (average for June, 1933.) Two and one-half times the circulation of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper, more than any Sunday newspaper, more than all morning newspapers combined.

Philadelphia is a city of individual homes and home owners. Philadelphia has thousands of retail stores with yearly sales in excess of one billion dollars.

The products of Philadelphia's 5,567 factories are so diversified that recovery is spread over many lines. As a distribution center, Philadelphia is the hub of a vast, fertile market... Sixteen million people may be reached by overnight delivery.

Philadelphia has all of the economies of every great metropolitan market—economies of sales and distribution—plus the outstanding economy created by thorough advertising coverage in one newspaper at one low cost.

The Philadelphia Bulletin lays no claims to sales miracles. It is, after all, only the vehicle which carries the advertiser's message into the home. In the final analysis, it is that message which must sell the advertiser's goods.

But The Bulletin does give the advertiser a responsive audience by maintaining the confidence of readers through the accuracy and integrity of its news.

The Bulletin does give him an interested audience by building circulation upon its merits as a newspaper ... by avoiding the use of premiums, circulation contests, and other forced methods.

It does enable his advertising to "sit in" at those important family conferences where purchases are discussed and decided, because it is read by nearly every one in the home.

Test your product or sales plan in this great market of homes, where reading interest in one newspaper is so widespread that it enables The Bulletin to offer one of the lowest advertising costs among all newspapers in America.

What TRIBUNE COLOR means to Industrial Recovery

It requires an extra stereotype . . . and more stereotypers.

It requires extra presswork . . . and more pressmen.

Color printing calls for the use of more ink . . . and of more expensive types of ink. Thus employment in another trade is increased.

To print color successfully requires a grade of paper higher than ordinary newsprint—another source of jobs.

Tribune color is printed with special press equipment and other materials, the manufacture of which in turn gives further employment.

The nation is turning its thought and energies to providing work for the unemployed. The Chicago Tribune by its color printing is giving men constructive occupation throughout its own organization and in the factories of its sources of supply.

The good effects of Tribune color printing do not stop with the newspaper business. Because the advertisement in color is more effective than black-and-white advertising, sales of the color advertiser's merchandise are greatly stimulated. More goods move into the hands of consumers, setting up a new chain of work and jobs.

The experience of the Tribune is that color in the newspaper creates extra work and a livelihood for additional men in its own and in other fields. In 1919 the Tribune began to develop color rotogravure. In the face of difficulties it experimented, designing presses, originating inks, and introducing other new products and processes.

Today the front page of the Sunday Tribune rotogravure section carries the best newspaper color printing in the world. Produced by a highly trained staff, in a separate Tribune plant built especially for rotogravure printing, it provides employment not to be had when the first plans were made to print color.

More recently the Tribune has been printing in color the front pages of other sections of the Sunday edition. This new service to readers traces its rise to 1926, when the Tribune began to work with run-of-paper color. Here again a new field had to be explored. Again the Tribune had to develop appliances and technique.

The first crude results have been steadily bettered. Tribune run-of-paper color now supplies the reader and the advertiser with an artistic, appealing product.

The results can be further improved. The Tribune will improve them. As a move in this direction four additional color press units have been ordered. The Tribune expects to add others as press designs progress.

The Tribune has always been interested in improving its equipment, but it has not done so at the expense of employees. It has more mechanical equipment today than at any time in its history. And more men, per page per thousand copies, to man it.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

JOSEPH M. URBAN, COLORIST OF FAIR, DIES IN NEW YORK

Directed Chicago Work While Ailing.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Joseph Urban, artist, architect, and scenic designer, credited with changing the whole aspect of the art of stage design in America, died today in his apartment at the St. Regis hotel. He was sixty-one. He determined the color scheme of Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition.

About two months ago, Mr. Urban underwent an operation. He was convalescing until he suffered a heart attack last week. His wife, Mrs. Mary Beegle Urban, was with him when he died.

Will Be Buried in U. S.

In addition to Mrs. Urban, he is survived by a daughter, Gretl Urban, child of his first marriage, who is at present in Paris. A younger daughter, Elly, also by his first wife, died last April. Mr. Urban's body will not be returned to his native Vienna. It will rest here, in his adopted country, in the ancient Sleepy Hollow cemetery near Tarrytown.

Joseph Maria Urban was born in Vienna in 1872, the son of one of the Austrian capital's leading educators. His parents destined him for the law, and Joseph meekly assented until he had been enrolled in law school. Having been enrolled, he never went near the place again.

Father Angry; Teacher Helps.

Instead he spent his time at the Academy and the Polytechnic studying the esthetics of architecture in the former and the business of beams, girders and stress in the latter. His father discovered the nature of his school work by accident, and Joseph was banished from the family home. The president of the Academy, recognizing his talent, gave him a scholarship.

At twenty-three, he won his first commission—to decorate the palace of the young khedive of Egypt, in Cairo. When he returned to Vienna he was employed to design a castle for a count. The success of this design brought him dozens of commissions from other members of the Austro-Hungarian nobility.

He was summoned to Russia to design the "Czar's bridge" over the Neva in what was then St. Petersburg. He first came to America in 1904 to decorate the rooms of the Austrian art exhibit at the St. Louis exposition.

CHICAGOANS PAY TRIBUTE

Officials of A Century of Progress Exposition hastened yesterday afternoon to pay tribute to the genius of Joseph Urban, who died in New York.

"It was due to him," said President Rufus C. Dawes, "that the buildings, themselves of a daring and untried architectural form, took on the dynamic hues that have set A Century of Progress apart from previous World's Fairs.

"Although Urban chose the color scheme for us, he directed the work from New York. His illness prevented his coming here since last September. The ideas of the Avenue of Flags and the cascade in front of the Electrical building were his."

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, spoke in similar fashion of Urban's color wizardry and added his regrets that the artist could not have seen the success of his efforts.

Design Includes Crowds.

The underlying plan which the artist designed was explained by Shepherd Vogelsang, a member of the Exposition staff.

"It was one that required moving crowds," he said. "The huge buildings were a background for movement. He tried to get life, warmth, texture, and motion into his color scheme. As for the lagoons, Urban visualized them as brilliant necklaces flung about the building. His use of colors affected the lighting at night also, as the illumination had to harmonize with the coloring."

Otto Teegen, assistant, whom Urban sent here from New York to represent him, declared that the master had labored first to harmonize the buildings with colors; second, to fill any barren spots with rainbow hues, and, third, to convey an impression of gayety.

NEW DEANS ARE APPOINTED BY U. OF I. TRUSTEES

Discuss $5,700,000 Budget at Meeting.

A number of changes among the deans of the University of Illinois were ordered yesterday by the university trustees at a meeting in the Palmer house.

Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, who is retiring as president to become chancellor of New York university, attended the meeting with his temporary successor, Arthur H. Daniels, dean of the graduate school and acting dean of the college of liberal arts, who now becomes acting president.

Prof. R. D. Carmichael, head of the department of mathematics, was appointed acting dean of the graduate school in place of Prof. Daniels, Prof. M. T. McClure, head of the department of philosophy, was named acting dean of the college of liberal arts.

Acting Dean of Engineering.

To fill a vacancy caused by the retirement of Dean M. S. Ketchum of the college of engineering, Prof. Arthur Cutts Willard, head of the department of mechanical engineering, was appointed acting dean. Dr. Ketchum will retain a research professorship in civil engineering.

Dr. R. W. Keeton, professor of internal medicine in the college of medicine, was asked to continue as acting dean for another year. He was appointed to the post for six months following the death last February of Dr. C. S. Williamson, head of the department.

The trustees spent most of the meeting considering the coming year's budget. The total budget for the year amounts to $5,702,230, it was stated, and covers the cost of operation and maintenance of the institution both at Urbana and Chicago.

Source of Budget Funds.

Funds to cover the budget are derived as follows: state appropriations, $3,905,000; student fees, federal funds, gifts, endowments and miscellaneous sources, $4,797,230.

Lloyd Morey, controller of the university, pointed out that the university now has $3,800,000 of unused 1931 appropriations in the state treasury, the amount representing voluntary curtailment of expenses and salary reductions, ordered by the trustees.

STEAL STOCKINGS WORTH $4,000.

The storeroom of O'Connor & Goldberg, retail shoe dealers at 205 South State street, was rifled by burglars of 8,000 pairs of silk stockings, valued at $4,000, over the week-end. The theft was discovered yesterday when the store was opened.

FOLK FROM ALL U. S. AND 25 FOREIGN LANDS SEE TRIBUNE MUSEUM

Visitors from every state in the Union and 25 foreign countries have viewed THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE historical museum on the 20th floor of The Tribune Tower since the opening of the exhibit on June 2. Nearly 15,000 people have signed the register in the museum.

The last state appeared in the register last week when James F. Rockett of Woonsocket, R. I., registered with his family. Rockett said that he had learned Rhode Island had not had a visitor at the museum, and he wanted to be the first to sign from that state.

The most popular exhibits in the museum are the old editions of THE TRIBUNE, reporting great events of the last 75 years.

BABY SPECIALIST SAYS ICE FUND IS SAVING LIVES

Dr. Abt Praises Work of Tribune Charity.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Dr. Isaac Abt, noted baby specialist and founder of the Chicago Maternity center, called THE TRIBUNE Free Ice Fund "a great life saving work" yesterday in discussing its benefits to infants and small children in impoverished homes.

"In congested districts ice is at a premium," Dr. Abt said. "With no money to buy ice, families must do without and trust to luck that their children will not be visited by summer sickness. This is a hazardous attitude, for without ice to preserve milk many children are bound to be ill.

"Give the Babies Lift."

"Every one knows how important the Free Ice Fund is. So general is its importance that there should be no difficulty in raising funds to send ice to all the families who need it so desperately. I am sure that every contributor to the fund has a personal sense of satisfaction in giving a helpless baby a lift during these hot summer days."

Leading yesterday's gifts to the ice fund was $25 from two anonymous contributors in memory of "Kay Steere, who died yesterday morning."

"For several years whenever a friend died, instead of sending flowers for the funeral, we have sent an equivalent check to whatever charity that friend was most interested in," wrote the donors. "Kay Steere contributed occasionally to your fund and thought often of the benefits the poor babies of Chicago derived from it."

The Day's Contributions.

$12—Mrs. George Frazer.
$5—Anonymous; Davie and Billy Newey; Mrs. H. E. Haass; A. L. and A. F.
$3—Yours in Sympathy.
$2—Lillie B. Green.
$1—Anonymous.

Total	$ 63.00
Previously acknowledged	727.48
Grand total	$790.48

The Camp Algonquin fund received $9 in gifts. Mrs. H. E. Haass sent $5, "Yours in Sympathy," $3, and Rex K., $1. The fund's grand total is $1,195.89.

EISEN WINS CONTINUANCE.

Charges of intimidation and disorderly conduct against Maxie Eisen, head of the Jewish Fish Peddlers' union, were continued to July 26 by Judge Joseph H. McGarry yesterday when Eisen asked for time to engage a lawyer.

U. S. YOUTH TELLS HOW NAZIS BULLY SCHOOL CHILDREN

Hundreds of Boys Dragged to Jail, He Writes.

The following letter from an American boy in Germany was received yesterday by a Chicago chum. The letter presents an interesting phase of the development of Hitlerism in Germany.

BERLIN, June 29.

Dear Friend:

Remember the youthful alley gangs of our childhood or our funny papers who set out and stormed each other's "clubhouses" and carried off all that tempted them if they happened to be the stronger party? What would our parents have said if the cops down at the corner had joined the fray and helped the bigger boys get the loot for the smaller ones and brought around the police truck to help the victors carry off the spoils?

That's what has actually been happening in Germany. Hundreds of school kids were dragged to jail in Berlin last week, kept there for eight hours until the authorities had convinced themselves they would no longer be "dangerous to the state." And while the kids were being held, their little rivals ransacked their clubhouses, carried off their pet sport implements and their cash boxes.

Nazis Take Over Clubs.

Last Wednesday "Hitler Youth," the national organization of Germany's youth, took over all clubs and headquarters of the Nationalists, their allies in the German cabinet, to enable authorities to "lay a foundation for a national education, permitting no divergence of opinion among the country's youth," as the official orders read.

Thousands will remember the Wednesday morning when policemen, or Hitler guards, in full uniform, entered classrooms and ordered the school children to name all the associations they knew, to denounce all the members and leaders they knew. Many children were made to solemnly declare they would henceforth belong to the Hitler Youth.

Those children who put up a fight and stood up for their leaders were taken to police headquarters. Meanwhile "Hitler Youth" was officially delegated to collect the lists of the members of the non-Hitlerite groups. Squads of Hitlerite youngsters scurried through town with official credentials permitting them to enter homes or headquarters of other clubs!

Youths Raid Homes.

There is the story of the very important 11 year old little Hitlerman who, at the head of seventeen companions, rang the bell of a private home, and when the hausfrau opened the door, presented credentials authorizing him to search the premises.

"Your son," piped the stern youth to the middle aged hausfrau, "belongs to one of those funny little clubs of the Nationalists. We have come to get all the material he has on this club."

The hausfrau happened to be the Nazi woman leader of the district. She first boxed the boy's ears for suggesting that her son, also 11 years old, dared be anything but Nazi.

When sonny came and said, proudly, he did not share mother's favorable opinion of the Nazis, she was mortified and struck a bargain with the Hitler delegate.

"Get a cop and bring him along here, but tell your seventeen companions to stay outside," she said. "Then you and a cop can search my Nazi home." This they did.

Girl Friend's Club Searched.

I had a young girl friend, Helene, age 12, crack hockey player. She belong to the Nationalist "Scharnhorstbund." The premises of the branch of her club were raided and all sport implements, cash box, and foodstuffs were carried off by raiding Hitler Youth. My friend Helene knew a stalwart young Hitler guard. She told him just what she thought about the raid and raiders. He shared her opinion that private property should be respected. A detachment went after the Hitler Youth. The hockey outfits of Helene and her friends were returned.

In another youth club the Hitler raiders carved up chairs and made a swell fire, cooked cocoa, had a feast from the club's stock, and celebrated their victory.

A few Catholic clubs survive, but, like the Protestants, they must accept a Hitlerite director if they want to survive with a pretense of independence.

The "Scharnhorst" was the last conservative group to accept Jewish members. Now all Jewish kids are kicked out, ostracized, in school and out of school.

Parents Dare Not Protest.

None of the parents dare protest. The Nationalists took the dissolution orders as meekly as did the communists, Socialists, and Republicans, all scared of crowded jails.

The National Association of Boy Scout Clubs was incorporated in the Hitler Youth under Baldur von Schirach, leader of the Hitler Youth. Schirach's mother is an American.

Sues Her Husband

Mrs. Adelaide Sayre, 19 years old, 10124 Yale avenue, charged yesterday in a bill for separate maintenance filed in the Superior court that Byron Sayre promised her a fine home before their marriage. But after the ceremony, she charged, he took her to his parents' home, where she shared quarters with ten members of his family and 28 chickens, which were permitted the run of the house.

Sayre is secretary to the principal of Crane Junior college and a law student at night school. Mrs. Sayre's bill, filed by Attorney Norman Becker, charged that he brought home his home work and forced her to help him do it.

The couple married on Feb. 19 and separated on July 4, the bill said.

HORNER SIGNS BILL FOR MORE RATE CONTROL

Also O. K.'s Cut in Pay of Some Judges.

Springfield, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today signed the Sinnett bill. It broadens the powers of the Illinois commerce commission with regard to rate making. That bill, urged by the governor as a part of his "eight point" program before the assembly, becomes effective at once.

Under its provisions it is probable that immediate action will be taken with regard to rates charged by various companies.

The governor also signed the Maypole bill, providing for the selection of an aeronautics commission by the governor, together with bills by Representative James Burns, Kankakee, which reduce from $5,000 to $4,000 the salaries of downstate probate judges and fixing pay of such county judges. The bills apply to judges elected after present terms of office expire.

Among the other bills signed by the governor are the following:

H. B. 213—Bederman; amends pauper relief act by providing that persons who make false claims for aid shall be subject to punishment.

H. B. 513—McGrath; makes it unlawful to dump garbage within one mile of city or village.

H. B. 563—Libonati; appropriates funds for relief of disabled war veterans.

H. B. 856—King; provides there shall be no discrimination because of color or race on public building projects.

H. B. 873—Libonati-Shannon-Brochs; appropriates $45,000 for the agricultural premium fund for assisting disabled veterans and their widows.

H. B. 1085—Boyle; amends motor vehicle law by providing that road funds, after paying bonded indebtedness, may be used for construction of hard roads by municipalities.

H. B. 245—Gaines; provides that persons arrested on information or complaint for violation of penal ordinance shall be furnished with copy of complaint one hour after arrest.

H. B. 386—Devine—Fixes the fee for filling out automobile applications and administering oaths at twenty-five cents.

H. B. 489—Frank Ryan—Requires funds held by officials of charitable institutions in department of welfare to be paid into state treasury.

H. B. 490—Frank Ryan—Requires all officers to pay money into state treasury each day.

H. B. 655—Foster—Enables public park commissioners to maintain parks and boulevards in contiguous territory not now under their control.

H. B. 906—Burns—Creates retrenchment commission with a view of consolidating departments and reducing expenses.

H. B. 955—Fitzgerald—Amends act relating to organization and regulation of life insurance companies.

H. B. 1013—Frank Ryan—Amends uniform motor vehicle anti-theft act by providing that secretary of state shall make a title search for any person upon application, accompanied by a fee of 25 cents.

H. B. 1062—Devine—Creates the University of Illinois revolving fund.

H. B. 537—Fitzgerald—Provides for licensing of insurance agents and solicitors by state department of insurance.

H. B. 1093—Hennebry—Creates commission to make study of milk and other products.

H. B. 745—Thon—Amends mutual insurance corporation act.

H. B. 1068—Fitzgerald—Creating commission to modify insurance laws.

Tells How Missions Back Up Fascism.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Italy, July 10.—The coöperation of Catholic missions throughout the world in simultaneously spreading European culture and the doctrines of Fascist Italy, made possible since the peace between the church and state, has been called to the attention of the chamber of deputies by Deputy Martire. The deputy made a plea for government aid to facilitate the work of Catholic missionaries in a debate on budget estimates for the foreign affairs ministry.

Ten million Italians live outside Italy and Martire pointed out that the missionaries are keeping Italian patriotism alive among these people at the same time they inspire their faith and discipline. He pointed out that their work, accordingly, had high political significance to the Fascist state. It was indicated in the speech that the missions were of especial aid in South America and in the Mediterranean basin.

Quotes from Letter.

Martire quoted a letter from a Catholic missionary in Brazil who later died of leprosy as a sample of the high spirit of the missionaries.

"Dear Italy," the letter read. "I weep thinking of you, but I offer you my bitter suffering as a sacrifice, according to the will of the holy father and the government of Mussolini."

This letter was shown to Premier Mussolini and he was so touched by it that he sent a contribution to the Brazilian leper colony where the missionary was serving when he contracted the malady.

Spread Italian Culture.

The valuable function of the missions, Martire pointed out, comes because, along with their work among Italian emigrants, they also spread Italian language and literature among natives of foreign countries, and thus inculcate indirectly a respect and admiration which add prestige to Fascist Italy.

In countries like China the Catholic missions are doing excellent work in combatting bolshevik propaganda, the deputy said. The political value of Catholic missions to the Italian state was recognized even by Cavour, according to Martire, but that statesmen were unable to develop coöperation with Catholicism in spreading Italianity because of the quarrel with the Vatican.

Lauds Church.

The universality maintained by the Catholic church gives to its missions an advantage over Protestant missions, Martire asserted. The natives do not look on the Catholic missionary as some one who will lessen his nationality, but he distrusts the Protestant missionary as some one who will seek to detach him from his country, Martire said.

"Our missionaries have always kept the just measure between their quality as Catholic and their quality as Italian, between their devotion to the pontiff and to Italy," he added. "The Catholic church and the Fascist state are today working side by side in the great work of civilization, and we can always consider the missionary as an Italian who always keeps alive in his heart his attachment to Italy."

Catfish Chokes on a Perch, Alligator and Both Hooked

Allendale, S. C., July 10.—(AP)—Elmore Lewis, Savannah river fisherman, caught a three foot alligator, a big catfish, and a small perch on the same line at the same time with one piece of bait. As Elmore tells it, the hook first snared the perch. Then the catfish came along, tried to swallow the perch and got choked. The alligator in turn tried to swallow the catfish and was snared by the cat's fins. He displayed the assortment, still intact, as proof of his story.

OUST DOCTORS FOR S. M'CORMICK, WIFE DEMANDS

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Katherine Dexter McCormick filed a petition in Superior court today demanding discharge of all resident and consulting physicians now treating her husband, Stanley McCormick, multimillionaire incompetent.

Declaring the psychiatric form of treatment has failed to improve McCormick's condition in the last 26 years she asked the court to investigate the manner in which his case is being handled and urged that an internist s:illed in the practice of internal medicine be substituted for the present group of physicians.

Mrs. McCormick said three members of the board of guardians—Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, Harold F. McCormick, and Dr. L. Langley Porter—favor continuance of the present régime for another year. The board meets in Chicago this week. She asked that the court complete its investigation before approving recommendations of the board.

McCormick, she said, is "allowed to run his own case."

Mrs. McCormick asked specifically the removal of Dr. Robert L. Richards, resident physician, who, she said, is paid $30,000 a year, and of Drs. Milton O. Lellon and W. W. Boardman, who receive $625 for each visit.

Sets Age of Universe at 500 to 3,000 Million Years

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, July 10.—The probable age of the universe is set at between 500 and 3,000 millions of years by the French scientist, Emile Belot, who reached the figures by analysis of the radioactive properties of meteoritic stones. His conclusions were read to the Academy of Sciences today.

AVOID BLOW-OUTS
...with this amazing new tire invention

THEY NEVER DREAMED it would happen. Their tires were practically new... the highway was smooth as a table. 50 miles an hour was easy for their car. Then BANG! A Blow-out! A terrible drag set in . . . Like some unseen monster pulling their car off the highway.

What causes blow-outs

When you push the "gas" pedal down — the temperature inside your tire goes up. Especially in hot weather the heat becomes terrific. Rubber and fabric begin to separate. A blister starts... and GROWS... inside the tire. Then, when you least expect it, your tire explodes like a giant firecracker.

But now Goodrich has perfected the Life-Saver Golden Ply. This invention resists intense heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus, blisters don't form. Blow-outs are prevented by eliminating their cause.

The tread, too, of the new Goodrich Silvertown is safer from skidding. Its squeegee drying action gives your car extra road-grip and reduces danger of skidding to a minimum.

Women Give Views of Laws on Marriage

Topic of Feminine Lawyers at Convention.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

If lack of time hadn't broken off discussion of uniform marriage laws in a round table of the legal sorority yesterday at the Stevens hotel, the Portias might be talking yet. As it was, the discussion was ended before a single voice had been raised in support of the argument of Judge Camille Kelley of Memphis, who advocates such laws, when the legal section of the biennial convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women was declared adjourned.

Even Miss Martha Connole of East St. Louis, who read Judge Kelley's paper in the latter's absence, announced herself in complete disagreement with the views set forth. Miss Vivian Grace Gibson, St. Paul attorney, assigned to present the negative side, was less outspoken than Miss Connole.

Dr. Rachelle Yarros of Chicago, was disappointed that she could not express in the general discussion, her views against such laws, and a communication to Judge Kelley from Mrs. Howard Willett of Chicago, commending her stand, was not read.

Mrs. Willett, who has pending a million dollar suit for alienation of the affections of her husband against another Chicagoan, Mrs. Mary Cave Hall, stated that she has taken up the matter with Gov. Horner and urged that the federation "continue throughout the year the discussion launched at the round table, instigate an inquiry into the regulations surrounding marriage and divorce, and formulate a platform to make the social unit of marriage safe, secure, and respected."

Mrs. Willett suggested further that such a platform be submitted to the governor of every state, to be "used in revising the present archaic and chaotic laws and the dangerous tendencies toward irresponsibility, free love, and the breaking of homes, the racketeering in alimony and divorce fees by attorneys, the dissecting of marriage by clinics."

Judge Kelley in her presentation pleaded that "the right recognition of the marriage covenant will do more to offset lawlessness than any other one thing. Let us not fetter marriage with more cumbersome divorce laws, but move to surround romance with a cleaner, better atmosphere. In my opinion just plain selfishness and crossness has broken more homes and wrecked more children's lives than any other cause."

Meanwhile in the round table conducted for the medical women a casual recommendation, made by Dr. P. S. Bordeau-Sisco of Baltimore, specialist in women's diseases, that feminine physicians prove their love for and devotion to their profession by bequeathing their bodies after death to medical schools, was received with applause. Dr. Bordeau-Sisco cited a recent example of such devotion by a famous masculine surgeon.

Optimism about vocational opportunities for women was everywhere, although not unbounded. The consensus of the medical section, however, was that their field is almost limitless. Dr. Freda Radusch of Rapid City, S. D., declared she was one of four women physicians in the state and that any qualified woman doctor could be assured a good living there. Dr. Adele Hampton, general manager of the Dade County Medical association exchange in Florida, stated that of 220 doctors registered there only four were women and that the potentialities were great.

For women who are competent, energetic and public spirited, Sue S. White, executive secretary of the women's division of the Democratic party, pointed to politics as a promising field. Under Postmaster General Farley, she said, women postmasters are becoming more and more numerous and other jobs should be opened to women, but not at the expense of firing one woman to hire another.

"Women have had new heart put into their political work because of encouragement they have received from President Roosevelt," she added. "I feel that I can safely predict that he will follow through to their entire satisfaction the fine strokes he has already made in their behalf."

Other fields may be overcrowded, but there is plenty of room for women in the beauty business, Elizabeth Ollis of Worcester, Mass., told the cosmetology section—especially if they are ambitious to be shop owners. The industry now ranks fourth in the world in size and about ninety per cent of American shops are owned by women, whereas the reverse is true in Europe.

Journalism presents opportunities, but only to the girl who is willing to sacrifice her social life to it, Frances Myers, university editor of the Champaign News-Gazette, informed the newspaper section. Miss Myers, who took a degree in banking and finance as preparation for writing economic articles for women because they spend eighty-five per cent of the country's money, cited the journalism students who clamor for assignments, then beg off on account of a "date," as the type that won't succeed.

"STREETS OF SORROW."
Produced by Emblem.
Directed by Mauritz Stiller.
Presented at the Randolph theater.
Featuring Greta Garbo.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

[Apologies to Miss Herma Clark.]

Dear Judy:

As I was passing down Randolph street yesterday my attention was caught by a sign on the old Randolph theater which I used to patronize when movies were young. The sign said that an early silent picture of Greta Garbo's was being shown. I rather hesitated because the sign also informed the looker than "Women Only" were admitted. This, I discovered by using my lorgnette, was because a gentleman known over the radio as Human Relation Somebody or other would lecture on "Sex Madness."

It did not sound exactly nice somehow, but I wanted to see Miss—or is it Mrs.?—Garbo and so I went in. The doorman informed me that "Streets of Sorrow"—the name of the film—would not go on for about an hour, but I went in anyhow.

A very peculiar talkie was at the time unreeling. Something about a titled lady who was shamelessly trying to seduce her chauffeur. My dear Judy—what can be the motive of such cinemas? Or why should the players be forced to imitate Britons in their speech? The combination is really very bad. Also, yesterday, the man who throws the picture on the screen seemed to be having difficulties. Every so often there would be just motion but no conversation.

"Is she talking yet?" this gentleman shrieked down at one juncture. An usher replied peevishly so as to be heard by all:

"No, she's just walking around, but she ain't saying anything."

But she did NOT succeed in seducing the good man and when the matter came up in court she was completely discredited by a jury of her peers despite no brassiere, shapely limbs, and what I think are referred to as "come hither" eyes. A VERY reliable jury,

The Garbo picture would have made you smile, Dear Judy. Such a very quaint and old-fashioned movie as it was! The scenes were laid in post-war Vienna, where Greta was shown as the daughter of a councilor. She did stenography by day and waited in bread lines by night. Because of her beauty and her family's great need, a procuress—I believe that is the word—who wore the false mask of a dressmaker, almost persuaded her to spend her evenings elsewise. But right wins in the shape of a noble young social worker. As I said, it is all very odd. I could only compare it to a Dostoyefsky novel adapted for photoplay purposes by that ludicrous man, Mack Sennett.

Despite an ill-advised manner of applying her cosmetics and a slightly cow effect when she rolled her eyes, I could see where, even at that early day, Miss Garbo might well have impressed photoplay producers. "Streets of Sorrow" was directed by poor, dead Mauritz Stiller, who discovered Miss Garbo, fell in love with her, and then lost her, according to information I have derived from motion picture publications.

And then—the theater was so cool and lovely—I waited several minutes. This Human Relation brought out a red-headed girl who, he said, did not profess to be perfect OUTSIDE but held world's medals for having been photographed some 300 times INSIDE without any doctor's having been able to discover an organic flaw. Life could hardly be interesting to such a woman.

I left shortly, the lecturer seeming to having nothing new to divulge.

I must close this letter, for I have many little things to attend to. DO come soon to A Century of Progress. Dear Judy! I promise you—it will set you aflutter! Lovingly yours. Etc.

See you soon.

Announcement Is Made at Dinner Party Given at Her Home in Winnetka.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THIS morning we are heading our society news with an interesting engagement announcement, that of two attractive and popular young Winnetkans, Miss Chloe Watson and Pierre Bouscaren. Miss Watson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius B. Watson of Ardsley road and Mr. Bouscaren is a son of the Louis H. G. Bouscarens of Prospect avenue.

The announcement was made to about thirty young friends of the engaged couple at a dinner party given last night by Mr. and Mrs. Watson, and, although the young man was showered with congratulations and good wishes and the young lady with the latter, we've never been able to understand why it isn't proper to congratulate a girl, too; but it isn't, foolishly.

There wasn't much surprise mixed with the congratulations and good wishes, for every one has known for some time that young Mr. Bouscaren was "that way" about pretty Miss Watson. Miss Watson finished at Miss Hall's school at Pittsfield, Mass., and made her debut a year ago last September. She has been going to Smith college for the last two years, and since no date has been set for the wedding it is possible that she may return there in the autumn, but not probable. Mr. Bouscaren was graduated from Yale a year ago in June, and that summer he went to Los Angeles to play football in the Olympic games.

Welfare Party at Knollwood

On Friday evening of next week at the Knollwood club there will be a gay group dancing, sliding, swinging and romping about, but the members of the group won't be as young as they will look or act, for it is to be a baby party for the benefit of the Infant Welfare society.

The Lake Forest branch of the society is giving the party and Mrs. Walter E. Hoving and her committee are planning all sorts of novel entertainment for the grownups who will turn back to the days of childhood for that night. On Mrs. Hoving's committee are Mrs. Knight Cowles, president of the Lake Forest Infant Welfare society, Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr., and Miss Margaret McLennan.

We just heard yesterday about a birthday party that was held as long ago as June 23, but we're writing about it now because it was an eighty-fifth birthday party and we think that's news even when it's two weeks old. It was given for Mrs. Clifford Williams, that wonderful octogenarian who is as active and alert, both mentally and physically, as women half her age. She and her son, Clifford H. Williams, who live on the south side in the winter, have a house in Glencoe for the summer, and as has been her habit for years, Mrs. Williams plays golf three times each week at the Skokie club.

Surprise After Round of Golf

The day before her birthday she came in from a round of golf and went out onto the porch for luncheon. To her great surprise, all the women present stood up and sang "Happy Birthday to You" and she was presented with a bouquet of roses and a huge cake ornamented with eight large candles and five small ones. The next night Mrs. Williams had a family party in the house she and her son are occupying on Adams avenue.

Mrs. Williams is the former "Lizzie" Hoyne, daughter of one of Chicago's pioneers, who was an attorney and later mayor of the city, Thomas Hoyne. She has two brothers, Thomas M. Hoyne and Frank G. Hoyne, a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Wells, and another son, Temple Williams, who lives in Mishawaka, Ind.

Mrs. Williams is most enthusiastic about A Century of Progress and made several trips to it before she left the Hyde Park hotel for Glencoe.

Exchange Sale at Lake Geneva

Today brings the summer sale of the Woman's Exchange at the summer home of Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley at Lake Geneva. It is sure to be a successful sale, for many will welcome the chance to see the lovely house and gardens of the Wrigleys.

Assisting Mrs. Wrigley in selling the exquisite wares the exchange will offer for sale will be her house guest, Mrs. Farley Hopkins, Mrs. Waldo Emerson, Mrs. Harold Beacom, Mrs. Sangston Hettler, Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman, Mrs. Henry C. Barholomay, and Mrs. Wrigley's sister, Mrs. George F. Getz Jr.

Mrs. Hopkins, who is spending the summer in and near Chicago with relatives and friends, received the sad news the other day that the Hopkins house near Phoenix had burned to the ground. The house is about eight or ten miles from Phoenix.

The exchange is having another sale today and tomorrow far from Lake Geneva, at Marion, Mass., where the president, Mrs. Philip L. Reed, has a summer place. Mrs. Reed and Miss Amy Brewer, who is spending the summer there with the children of her late sister, Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, will assist Mrs. Nora Crane at the

Shriners Devote Day to Fun Making at National Convention

Atlantic City, N. J., July 10.—(AP)—The National Shriners' convention made merry today to the tune of numerous band concerts and impromptu parades as the work of the conclave got under way with the election of officers in two of the orders within the organization.

The Recorders' association, composed of the secretaries of the 159 shrine temples in North America, chose as its president William H. Abbott of London, Ontario, and the National Court of the Order of Jesters, Shrine's fun making unit, re-elected Lou B. Winsor of Grand Rapids, Mich., to continue as royal director.

The Recorders' and Jesters' meetings supplied the only businesss note in a day given over generally to amusement.

SWELL GARRICK

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Swell Garrick—the World's Perfect Tailor's Dummy—is the label given him by those who didn't know that his well molded body had been created by athletic training rather than tailoring skill. Maitland, a crooked gambler, is the purported guardian of lovely Rhoda Fairclough, unknowingly being used as decoy. Maitland plots to trick Rhoda out of a fortune. Garrick exposes to Rhoda, before Maitland and his gang, their crooked card tricks. Garrick is overpowered by Schewan, Maitland's chief, but defeats Schewan's purpose of burning him alive in his car. Maitland has Rhoda adjudged insane. Garrick knows she has been administered a drug which will produce temporary madness. Having no proof of guilt, he determines to settle the matter in his own way. Garrick learns from his solicitor that if Rhoda can gain and maintain her liberty for twenty-eight days she will be considered legally sane. Garrick undertakes a bold rescue. He escapes to London with Rhoda. At night they burgle their way into a private boat house on the Thames. Alf, a farmhand, out of work, finds their hideout. Garrick hires him as a helper and buys his silence. Next day Garrick returns to his home, where his life is threatened by the gang who have broken into the house. One of the gang is shot before the rest make their getaway and Garrick is suspected by the police.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

TRAPPED BY A KIND ACT.

Lanport seemed to take a long time thinking it all over.

"I don't see any reason why you should have shot that man with the rifle," he said ponderously. "And I don't see any reason why you should throw your own automatic out of the window."

"Thank you!" laughed Garrick. "It's very flattering to know that you don't believe me a liar, a murderer, and a few other oddments."

"It isn't my job to believe anything," said Lanport. "It's a pity, now, you're up against us in this matter of Miss Fairclough. Because we shall have to put it across you. Now, I'll just tell you some of the things you're up against." He picked up one of the slips. "Ten minutes ago your servant, Walters, rang up to know whether he could come home and we said he could. He told us that he had had a telephone message from you at three-fifteen, speaking from Hendon aerodrome, instructing him to bring the chauffeur and all the servants in your car to Hendon aerodrome, and wait until you arrived."

"There's nothing in that!" said Garrick. "It's not very difficult to imitate a voice on the telephone."

"There you are!" interrupted Lanport. "Now, you say that Schewan and those two others came into the house with the dead man and threatened your life and so on. I'm not saying they didn't. But this house has been watched. And no one was seen to come in during the time in question."

"That's obvious! They came in through the back."

"I'm not saying they didn't. I'm telling you what you're up against—because I've still got a sort of hope that we can make friends, officially speaking." He picked up another slip of paper. "Before you and I had been talking here for half an hour our fellows were at Schewan's house. He was there. So were the other two—and Maitland. And five friends, two of whom are pretty well known men—quite respectable, you understand. Maitland and the five others all swear that none of those men have been out of the house since lunch time. So you see," added Lanport, "the three fellows you are accusing have what we call 'a cast-iron alibi.'"

"According to the account you gave me of the scrap, Schewan fired once and the bullet went in the wall." He tapped a slip. "We found that bullet in the wall. You got hold of Schewan's rifle. You were holding it when you admitted our man and the constable. That rifle, which was then in your hand, had been fired once, according to your version, discharging the bullet found in the wall."

"Quite correct!" agreed Garrick.

"The rifle that you say killed Lawson isn't here. It was fired by Dorling—and taken away by Dorling—according to your version. The only thing is—that rifle, which you say was Schewan's—which you left on the floor upstairs—has been fired twice."

Garrick was startled. "Then one shot was fired before Schewan brought the rifle into the house."

"I'm not saying it wasn't. I don't believe you killed Lawson. But you can see now, can't you, that there are one or two nobbly bits sticking out against you? . . . Well, I think that's all for the present, Mr. Garrick."

Garrick realized that for the next few days the police inquiries would probably make big demands on his time. It would be better perhaps to arrange with Rhoda not to see her every night as they had planned.

He took a taxi to Bloomsbury and walked about the quieter squares—well aware that he was being followed—until he met a solitary cruising taxi.

The shadower had not been near enough to hear Garrick say "Euston station." At Euston he changed taxis and drove to Charing Cross, certain now that he had shaken off pursuit.

At ten minutes past eight a plain clothes man stepped into a telephone box and rang the Yard.

"Garrick has just shaken me off. . . . Yes, sir, he knew I was following him. He walked through Bloomsbury until he found a taxi by itself."

The message went through to the chief and the chief rang for Lanport.

"I don't think that's anything to do with the murder, sir. That's only because he is going to see Miss Fairclough."

"O, that business is a trifle by comparison!" answered the chief. "We're concerned now with the murder."

"I'm pretty sure he'll be back in his house by tomorrow."

"You may be pretty sure, Lanport, but I'm not. At least, I'm not in the mood to take risks to avoid hurting Garrick's feelings. Shaking our man off definitely justifies our arresting him on suspicion. Have you heard anything about that warehouse of his yet?"

"Yes, sir," Lanport gulped. "There were three rifles with silencers in a box on the second floor, sir."

The chief picked up a photograph of Garrick.

"How many of these have gone out?"

"Twenty thousand, sir. I think we can say that every constable, every stationmaster, and pretty well every porter in the home counties has got one.

"Yes. But I don't think it is going to help us. The orders were to arrest him if he was seen walking about with a young woman. And unless he's with the young woman no one will do anything about it."

"No, sir. But I think he will be. In a private conversation he told me himself that he was seeing her again tonight."

The train had been very crowded at Charing Cross and Garrick had been wafted into a third-class carriage.

Garrick was becoming a little overconfident of success. Whereupon the fates laid a trap for him—and caught him by his careless kindliness.

The ticket inspector had passed on along the now half-empty carriage. Garrick had forgotten him when the man's voice again intruded on his ears.

"Well, I'm sorry, miss, but if you've lost your ticket you must pay again. . . What! You must have some money. What! Then you've no right to travel on the train. You'll have to get off."

"It's all right, Inspector, I'll pay."

It was a matter of eightpence. And the inspector wrote a receipt and went away. The train started.

"That was extremely kind of you. But I—I can't tell you how awkward I feel. Will you allow me to send it to you?"

"Certainly, if you wish!" said Garrick and gave his name and address. For the first time he looked at the girl. She was a small woman, rather shabbily dressed. Her face fell short of prettiness by the pinched look that comes from undernourishment, but she spoke modestly.

"Have you far to go when you get to Richmond?" he asked.

"No, not very. I live in Redfield road. My name is Eddis—and my mother keeps a small shop."

"I'm going very near there myself," said Garrick. "Let me give you a lift to the corner of your road. You look tired, if you don't mind my saying so."

"I am tired," she admitted, "and I should be grateful for the lift."

A girl rather down on her luck, he thought. She was telling him some trivial little tale of how she happened to come out without any money, but he guessed it was mere nonsense to keep up appearances.

Down the long platform at Richmond she walked by his side—very slowly—for there was not much strength in her. In their slow procession the strikingly handsome man with the nondescript little woman attracted a good deal of attention.

The driver cranked up his engine, then climbed into his seat and was about to start when a policeman put his head in at the window.

"Mr. Garrick?" he asked.

"Yes."

"And Miss Fairclough, I believe?"

Garrick laughed. "I'm afraid you have—er—bitten over it, constable," he said. "I have never seen this lady, a Miss Eddis, until five minutes ago. I'm giving her a lift to the corner of Redfield road."

"I'll have to ask you both to get out of the taxi—unless you'd like me to drive with you to the police station."

"We will go to the station. Jump in, officer!" said Garrick, and to the girl: "I'm most awfully sorry. I'm afraid you'll have to get some friends to identify you. As soon as you've done that it will all be over. I'd no idea this would happen. . . Look here, constable! Miss Eddis is naturally alarmed. Just make it clear to her that as soon as you find she is not Miss Fairclough it will be all over."

"If she's not Miss Fairclough, she'll be all right—and so for that matter will you, I suppose, Mr. Garrick."

Useful Gadgets Will Shorten Kitchen Hours

BY MARY MEADE.

If you are a summer bride, don that ruffly organdy apron that somebody showered you with, and let's check up summer speed promoters—see if there are any little gadgets you might need to shorten the time spent in the kitchen these more-than-tepid days.

Of course, you've seen those handy little rubber dish scrapers for giving plates the once over before you bathe them in the hot suds. But have you ever considered them as a hurry up way of scraping bowls of mayonnaise, cake dough, and muffin batter clean? They're corking! And in addition, there just isn't anything better than one of these rubber scrapers for spreading out fudge squares and other thin cookies to a uniform thickness in the pan.

Then, do you have salt, pepper, and flour in handy triplet containers nearby? For a "dash" of salt and pepper or a dusting of flour over meat they're on hand—don't have to be hunted out of the cupboard. The containers hold about ½ cup, come with removable perforated tops.

Another thing: There are individual baking dishes that come in glass or unbreakable china that seem to have been designed just for the new bride. They help out the husband with the serving problem and form the correct answers for baking soufflés and such foods that have a weakness for falling when brought forth in large dishes from the oven. Meat pies served in them take on that "just for you" air that makes them positively irresistible.

Also the small gelatin molds are decidedly the thing for shaping gelatin salads and desserts when you whack a recipe in two.

For chopping enough of this or that for two or less you will welcome a small wooden chopping bowl fitted with one of the curved, double-bladed knives—stainless steel, of course.

Now for an eye on the refrigerator. Do we find there a milk bottle filled with medium white sauce ready for hurry up meals, minced parsley in a covered jelly glass for garnishing the potatoes, and a jar of custard sauce ready and waiting to transform diced fruits, fruit whips and gelatins into the fanciest of desserts? Here's hoping—for these are three ways of adding pleasure and subtracting meal getting time.

Then about juice. I wouldn't even suggest that you're ever guilty of discarding the juices from fresh or canned fruits. But do you ever wonder just what to do with them after you have so dutifully saved them? Pour them into a bottle and baste the ham with them in the next baking. Or substitute the fruit juices for the water in preparing gelatin salads or desserts. [A word of warning—be sure there's no fresh pineapple juice in the bottle when you make gelatin, because it just won't set if there is.]

Also for speeding along the good work, other regular inhabitants of the refrigerator should be: Cans of evaporated milk prepared for whipping [the cans of milk should be boiled in water five minutes, then chilled very cold], French dressing and boiled dressing [mayonnaise can't stand such a low temperature and prefers the pantry shelf], and flour, shortening and salt blended in the correct proportions for last minute pies.

Chap Doesn't Marry Girl Pal, Says One of 'Em

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"We got drunk together, we danced together, did riotous things together for a year. Now he calmly decides enough is enough and wants to walk out. And what can the girl do about it? Nothing! Well, that's my answer to those girls who believe in the heavy pal stuff instead of using the brains that were given them!"

And there's a short route for you, girls! For those of you who think the short route to a wedding ring is to be the riotous pal!

We won't use the girl's name, nor her initials. She willingly offers her experience as a guide to a more profitable code of conduct. But she is one of your own contemporaries who has learned first hand that the way to a man's heart is just about the way it always was.

"Perhaps," the girl muses, "I chose the wrong man. But wouldn't it be a wrong man, anyway, who'd want the riotous kind of girl for a wife? In any event, I feel I am in a position to tell young girls who have not as yet decided to try their wings flying the wild way that it is ten to one you fail. The average man does not realize the feeling that might inspire a girl to give up everything for love and get down to his level. He merely shrugs his shoulders and its O. K. with him—for a while. Whether you still love him or hate him (and it is bound to be one or the other) it doesn't matter to him.

"If you must choose a pal, select him as you would a dress. The seams must be strong, the material worthy, the quality good. When you play the loose game—ONLY ONE WINS. That one isn't the girl. She's left puzzled, in a fog, so to speak—wondering how and where to begin all over again.

"If it's adventure a girl shows she wants, the man is willing enough to see that she gets it. But to him it remains only an adventure. He can't see the argument of why it should end in a lien on him for life. That's where woman's brain isn't working when she expects to turn a purplish tinted passion into an altar-pure romance.

SALADS
SALAD DRESSINGS

SHRIMP AND MACARONI SALAD

(Or substitute chicken for the shrimp)

1¼ cups shrimp (cooked fresh or canned)
½ cup cooked macaroni (cut in 1 inch pieces)
¼ cup celery, chopped
1 tablespoon chopped sour pickles
1 tablespoon chopped stuffed olives
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons French dressing
¼ cup mayonnaise

Combine the shrimp, macaroni, celery, pickles, olives and salt with the French dressing. Marinate and chill for 2 hours. Add the mayonnaise and serve on lettuce leaves, garnishing with slices of cucumber and dashes of paprika.

Clip on the dotted line, mount on a card; mounted, the recipe just fits the new Mary Meade Recipe File . . . BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The opening performance of "Take a Chance" in the Erlanger theater last night was in the carnival spirit of the World's Fair summer. This musical comedy, which has several angles of playgoing interest, arrived here in the pink of condition after its long Broadway run, brisk, brash, and buoyant; and an audience that included many well known personalities of the entertainment professions as well as the regular civic first nighters greeted it in a whoopee mood. The slogan of the evening was: "Chicago is hungry for a big, bold, spangled, slap-stick song-and-dance show—and here it is!"

Many of the salvos of laughter and applause were in honor of the first appearance here as big league practitioners on the "legitimate" stage of Ole Olsen and Chic Johnson, a team of energetic and audacious comedians who have been one of the standard brands of vaudeville amusement for years. This city has been their home port, and it contains a large population of people who can be classified as "Olsen and Johnson laughers."

These folks begin laughing as soon as Ole and Chic begin their vigorous ritual of pranks and ditties, and continue to laugh until they roll out of their seats in exhaustion and are carried out by a corps of stretcher-bearing ushers. They were well represented in last night's gleeful gathering, and their mirthful reactions were so violent that they are probably wrecks this morning.

In "Take a Chance" Messrs. Olsen and Johnson are their own uninhibited selves, assiduously delving into all the unrefined sources of humor and clowning in a fever of muscular activity. They also represent a pair of characters in a plot that has a fine ancestry—the amiable, comic, and misunderstood crooks of many successful libretti. The joyous rogues are modernized, of course; they are night club cheats and county fair gyppers in contact with high life on Broadway, and after many gay knaveries they turn square for the sake of a romantic dancing girl.

They have adapted their vaudeville devices to the services of a story-telling production with skill, and whatever they do, they are vastly amusing. Some of their material is the last hope kind of stuff that is guaranteed to knock the most apathetic audience of cinema show gazers out of their lethargy, but they pounce upon these ancient formulae for low comedy with a sense of fresh discovery. There is speed, spontaneity and gusto in the Olsen and Johnson share of "Take a Chance," and I am confident that the boys are up in the big league to stay until they wear themselves out or the talkies annex them.

The company also contains Ethel Merman, a singing girl who has surged into Broadway popularity during the last two years but who is new to Chicago audiences. She is nice looking, she has poise, and she makes her songs echo off the back walls of the playhouse. Her numbers bear the titles of "I Got Religion," "Rise and Shine," "Smoothie" and "Eadie Was A Lady." Her voice is of the penetrating and emphatic type, and she knows the art of making every word in a lyric intelligible. She was received with high favor by the first nighters.

Barbara Newberry, a dancing beauty, is another important contributor to the festivities. As the heroine—a sweet cabaret entertainer with a pair of tough friends who mar her love story—she carries the plot along persuasively, and when she dances she is fascinating. Jack Whiting is her associate in the fable and her partner in several spirited dancing numbers. He, too, is new here, and exactly the right kind of debonair, virile young man for the love story of this sort of frolic.

The chorus girls are in the best Broadway tradition of the moment; the costuming and staging are colorful; the score runs according to the latest style in hot-cha music, and the performance moves at a crisp and merry pace. Altogether, "Take a Chance" is a first degree frolic that ought to remain for the duration of the Fair.

Dinner Tonight for Patrick Noble.

Mrs. William H. Bush and her two daughters, Carol and Emeline, are entertaining at dinner this evening for Mrs. Bush's good looking young nephew, Patrick G. Noble of London. Mrs. Bush hasn't decided the place for the party.

Mr. Noble, a member of the London and Scottish cricket and basketball teams, arrived in the country only a fortnight ago. After another week here he is going on out to the west coast to visit his family, the Edward B. Nobles. Sunday afternoon he was a guest at a swimming party at the Saddle and Cycle.

Mrs. Morton L. Schwartz and Mrs. J. Henry Alexandre are arriving from New York today to attend the races at Arlington Park, and tomorrow Mrs. Samuel D. Riddle of Philadelphia will be among the smart easterners present at the popular race track. The Schwartzes' Gusto is racing at Arlington this season, so Mrs. Schwartz has a very great interest in events there. Mr. Schwartz will join her shortly. The Riddles' famous Man o' War is retired from the racing field and is enjoying life on their farm near Lexington, Ky.

Yesterday afternoon in the Post and Paddock club a foursome of smart Chicagoennes inaugurated bridge playing between the races. After they had placed their bets for the coming race and had collected [if they were lucky] on the one just run, they dealt the cards and had a quick game before the next race. In the foursome were Mrs. Harry L. Thompson, Mrs. Harry H. Lobdell, Mrs. Richard F. Peyton, and Mrs. Walter Frost.

Garden Club Meets at Barrington.

The Federation of Garden Clubs of Illinois held its monthly meeting at the Barrington Hills Country club yesterday. Luncheon was followed by a round table discussion and a talk by Mrs. Othmar Marti of Milwaukee. Later the beautiful gardens of Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts were visited.

Shreve Cowles Badger, secretary of the Arts club, has sent out official notices that the club will be closed for the summer after this Saturday, and that it will be opened again Oct. 2.

Miss Cornelia Conger left Sunday for Mount Desert to visit the W. Gay Turners of Philadelphia at Northeast Harbor and Miss Mildred McCormick at Bar Harbor. Early in August she will join her mother, Mrs. William P. Conger, at the Chicago club in Charlevoix to remain until after Labor day.

Young John L. Senior has sailed with a young students' group for a 7 weeks tour of France and Germany. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Senior, and his sister, the lovely Miss Mary Senior, have a house in Lake Forest for the summer.

Frank J. Loesch is returning to town this morning from Cooperstown, N. Y., where he has been vacationing with Mrs. Loesch and her mother, Mrs. Stephen G. Browning.

Rawleigh Warners at Lake Geneva.

Mr. and Mrs. Rawleigh Warner of Winnetka have moved up to Lake Geneva for the remainder of the summer. Mary and Dorothy Warner have left for a girls' camp at Hazelhurst, Wis., but the younger children, Rawleigh Jr. and Suzanne, are at Lake Geneva with their parents. Mrs. Warner returned recently from a motor trip to Northampton, Mass., with Mrs. Elbert Clark, Mrs. Francis Lackner and Mrs. Roger Vail, where they all attend their class reunions at Smith college.

Mr. Warner's cousin's wife, Mrs. James N. Rawleigh, formerly of Winnetka, but now of New York, is here for a visit with her brother, Ernest Lee Hughes, and his family in Barrington. Mr. Rawleigh will join her in about ten days. A visit from Mrs. Rawleigh always is made the occasion for much entertaining by her many friends along the north shore, for both she and her husband were popular members of Winnetka's smartest set and they are greatly missed.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Baker Sherman Jr. [Margaret Darlington] are being congratulated on the birth of a son at the Evanston hospital on June 22. The Bakers have two small daughters, Penelope and Priscilla.

Dorothy Graham Bride Tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Henry of Glencoe will give a dinner at their residence tonight preceding the rehearsal for the wedding of Miss Dorothy Downing Graham and Thomas Rogers Wigglesworth which will take place tomorrow evening in the Glencoe Union church.

Following the ceremony, which will be read at 8:30 o'clock by the Rev. Douglas H. Cornell in the presence of relatives and close friends, there will be a reception at the Skokie Country club.

Miss Graham is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stevens Graham of Glencoe and Mr. Wigglesworth is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wesley Wigglesworth of Kenilworth.

Attending the bride tomorrow night will be Miss Helen Wigglesworth, the bridegroom's sister; Miss Marianne Hoover of Evanston, Miss Elizabeth Quinlan of Wilmette, Miss Susan Turney of Glencoe, Miss Betty Lee Titus of South Charleston, O., a schoolmate of Miss Graham's, and Miss Katherine Keith of Buffalo, as bridesmaids, and Miss Virginia Lee Graham as maid of honor.

Robert Wigglesworth has come from Boston to serve as his brother's best man.

Arrange Party for Pen Women.

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher Hoyt of 1406 State parkway to an evening affair they will give on Saturday for those members of the National League of American Pen Women who will be their house guests during the convention to be held here tomorrow, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The affair will be a musical and barbecue in the Hoyts' garden if the weather permits, otherwise indoors, and it is not scheduled to start until 10 o'clock, for the last thing on the convention program is a visit to A Century of Progress at 8 o'clock and Mrs. Hoyt planned her party so that it would not interfere with any other convention activities.

Those who will enjoy the Hoyts' hospitality during the time they are in Chicago are Grace Thompson Seton (Mrs. Ernest), Gena Branscombe of New York, Annabel Emery of Washington, D. C.; Dorothy de Muth Eaton, and Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Randall.

Mrs. Frank G. Logan, Chicago congress chairman, is to entertain the members of the league at tea at her residence, 1150 Lake Shore drive, on Saturday afternoon. A program of songs, the lyrics of some of which are the poems of Mrs. Logan, will be given.

Animal Antics Will Entertain at Film Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Lions 'n' tigers 'n' giraffes 'n' elephants—all the animals in the zoo will be on parade for us next Tuesday, boys and girls! No—we're not going to the circus—but to the movies!

Warner's Orpheum theater will provide 100 seats for us on July 18. We'll see "Zoo in Budapest." The film features little Wally Albright, a new child actor who's been quite a hit; the lovely Loretta Young, Gene Raymond, and the cutest little lion cub you ever saw!

In all there are nearly 500 animals in this movie, and making them all behave was a pretty big job. Did you youngsters know that monkeys have to be fooled into taking their medicine the same way you do? Yes, sir; if they hide a pill in a nice fat banana, down it goes without a murmur—but give it to 'em plain—and they raise just the sort of fuss I've seen some children make.

And once during the filming of this picture on the Fox lot 150 monkeys got out of their cages by mistake. They perched on the rafters of the huge sound stage and refused to come down. Work was delayed for one whole day, until the runaways got hungry; then fruit and peanuts displayed in cages brought them swinging down by their tails, ready to be good again.

If you'd like to see all these mischievous monkeys you'd better have your letter on my desk tomorrow—and don't forget what I told you about including your address and age in your note. Letters should be sent to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

KELLEY DROPS IN.

"Come in, come in, Kelley," called Prof. Fordney heartily in response to the rap on his library door.

"And how did you know it was me?" the inspector demanded, opening the door and seeking his favorite chair.

"As if any one could mistake that knock of the law!" Fordney smiled. "Help yourself, my friend, and you might pour me a spot, too," he continued, rightly interpreting Kelley's look at the decanter on the table.

"You criminologists do manage to hit it once in a while, don't you?" laughed the caller, taking advantage of the invitation.

"Occasionally," retorted the genial Fordney. "By the way, here's a problem for New York's best sleuth-hound! It intrigued me. Let's see what you can do with it." He lifted his bulk, walked over and took volume 1 of "Famous English Trials" from the left hand corner of a book shelf and said, "These three books have been stacked together here for years. Just before you arrived I wanted to refresh my memory about the Dillon case and I found that a book worm had gotten under the front cover of volume I. and had eaten his way through page 300 of volume III. Each of these three volumes has 300 pages and each hundred pages measures exactly one inch. The covers of each book are ⅛ inch thick. Now, sleuth-hound, tell me quickly how far that book worm traveled."

HOW FAR?

[See solution on page 31.]

WEDDING

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Cecilia Morton, daughter of the Rev. Charles Hay Morton of the First Presbyterian church of Cape Girardeau, Mo., to Peter Bolger, which took place yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Beckwith, 37 East Elm street, with the bride's father officiating. Mrs. Bolger, who is assistant to Miss Mary Holden of the Pen and Pencil club, has made her home, when in Chicago, with Mrs. Beckwith.

Russ Colombo Will Play Dramatic Role in Movie

Hollywood, Cal., July 10.—[Special.]—Russ Colombo has gone the way of all crooners and signed a movie contract. Carl Laemmle Jr. of the Universal Movie corporation today announced Colombo had taken three screen tests and will be starred as a dramatic actor in a feature length vehicle. Colombo's tests were taken with Gloria Stuart and with June Knight.

Mrs. Palmer Loans Glass to Art Show

Rare Paper Weights Placed at Institute.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Paper weights may be just what their name implies to most of us, but to Mrs. Potter Palmer they are rare and costly pieces of glass reflecting mystery and exciting adventure to the far away corners of the world.

Though summering now with her family at Bar Harbor, Mrs. Palmer has just given her splendid collection of weights to be added to the decorative arts division of the A Century of Progress exhibit at the Art institute. Appearing strange and intricate in their artificially lighted cases, they have places near the green pressed glass dinner service Mrs. Potter Palmer III. has loaned to the institute this summer for the enjoyment of Chicagoans and their World's Fair visitors.

Just as she has collected pewter ever since she was a girl, the senior Mrs. Palmer has forgotten dinner dates and missed railroad trains for the sake of one little paper weight hidden away in a French chateau or an English village. Three of the weights in the collection are rare English pieces. Several come from France and the others have an American ancestry.

The first "mille-fleurs" paper weight is believed to have been made about 1840 at St. Louis, Alsace-Lorraine, France. The art was brought to America by François Pierre, a Frenchman who was employed by the New England Glass company as a fancy glass worker. Immediately these fascinating bits of glass sprang into popularity and were made by the thousands between 1860 and 1875. Even with this abundant manufacture, however, they are hard to find today.

There's something else new and interesting for World's Fair visitors at the Art institute . . . especially for those who are superstitiously inclined. Mrs. Justus L. Johnson, the well known collector who developed an interest in glass as a tiny tot when she slipped away from her nurse and gathered up shiny bits of green and blue and yellow bottles in the alley back of her home, has loaned some witch balls for exhibit.

Strange devices of blown glass, hollow, with a hole in the center, they were used by the early American colonists, who, nourished by the teachings of Cotton Mather, had to find some means of warding off the evil influences of witches. Placed on a stick and stood in a window, they are supposed to be an unfailing protection.

"Will you please," asked President Rufus C. Dawes the other day at the opening of a pavilion at A Century of Progress, "photograph me full on after this, not from the side?"

Mr. Dawes was addressing a group of newspaper photographers. Mrs. Dawes, it seems, objects to profiles of her husband, and with the constant repetition of his picture in the daily press is making a campaign for the full "view."

Friends of Donald McClure have begun questioning his daily visits to the Fair. The truth is Mr. McClure takes his daily thrill at the big round bowl where Marjorie Kemp and her motorcycle riding lion perform. This attraction [for those interested] is located in the Midway.

From now on Century club members are to have their own private transportation. Yesterday afternoon at 4:45 the Century, a good sized passenger boat, left the Michigan avenue dock for the World's Fair club. John Root was on board and so were Sterling Morton and a party of his friends. Today and after the boat is to leave the Chicago river dock every hour on the hour.

Mrs. Alden B. Swift entertained for eight guests last night on the Century club terrace. Tonight Willoughby Walling has invited twelve friends to join him at a Century club repast.

Mrs. Arthur Meeker and Mrs. Freeman Hinckley were two hostesses at the Trustees' Lounge yesterday. Last evening Joseph T. Ryerson introduced several of his friends to Prince Potenziani at a dinner in this attractive World's Fair dining room.

The distinguished feminine wage earners who preside over the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, now in session here, are to be entertained at tea by Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes at 5:30 tomorrow in the Trustees' Lounge.

The dozens of Chicagoans interested in Kobe college, Japan, will take a cup of tea this afternoon on the terrace of the Hall of Religions at A Century of Progress. George Dixon, vice president of the Oriental school, is to be the host.

Parisienne Does Smart Golfing in Linen Jersey

BY SUZETTE BARILLET.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Recently the Parisienne has taken up golfing, and makes up in enthusiasm what she lacks in experience. She is finding out, and letting her dressmakers know, that the game of golf requires special clothes not made by ordinary rules. These master-minds of style have let their brains ponder over clothes for the great game, and the result is amusing and gives us something different.

The most exciting of the summer golf clothes to come out in Paris is the one shown in our sketch. This is a one piece dress made of linen jersey in white checkered à la gingham with dark blue. The jersey being pliable gives enough so that a fine swing is easy—if you have the eye and the coördination.

This frock, designed by D'Ahetze, is cut a bit like a Norfolk garment. It buttons down the front to the waistline and can be closed up around the throat as shown in the large sketch, or worn open to show plain white linen revers as in the background sketch. Two pouch pockets are sewed on at each side of the front.

The skirt has inverted box plait at the center front and back, and these being below narrow bands of the goods from the waistline. The self-material belt has a metal buckle.

Natural Color Linen Covers New Luggage

BY RHEA SEEGER.

There's some new flyweight baggage in several travel minded stores that will start any kind of a trip and finish in the same good looking way it started. One look at the stuff and you will get busy, angle shamelessly for week-end invitations, plan seriously for a sea voyage or anything that will get you out of town to properly impress the unlucky people who haven't already discovered the same "finds."

Suitcases, thank goodness, manage to be lighter and lighter as to carrying weight, and the inside is as effectively planned as any hustling last-minute packer could desire. You can find large sizes that will hold everything you need for the busiest two week vacation, the well designed affairs that can be stowed most successfully in a motor or equally well aboard ship or airplane.

Small and deceptively compact week-end cases, will surprise you with the ample space for plenty of clothes and extras, and the clever travel trunks that look like large sized suitcases can hold enough to take you completely around the globe.

But the first glance tells the fashion story . . . look for the new linen covered luggage in a stunning dark beige shade or what is known as real linen color. This ubiquitous fabric is practically covering everything from slim silhouettes, tricky flat hats, gloves, shoes and now, new luggage. The prices will make any travel hound sit up and take notice, and the variety of sizes.

Another new covering looks like diagonally striped black and white or gray tweed . . . a perfect match for some of the smart tweed topcoats and travel suits of this exceptionally appropriate travel tweed mixture. The capacious hat boxes of this striped stuff are quite the best looking things you can buy, or carry.

Wise Sisters Treat Their Hair to a Little Oil After Sun Bath

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A little salt water is good for the hair and scalp, but not too much of it, you know! Let hair get wet, if your permanent will stand for it, as you swim, but before you sit in the sun rinse the hair thoroughly under the fresh water shower available at the beaches now. Drying the salted hair repeatedly under the hot sun's rays does something funny to it. Something not beautifying at all.

And speaking about hair, if yours has been bleached, tinted, or dyed, you't better be careful about keeping it out of the hot sun when drying it. The action of the sun's rays on the coloring turns it queer shades, sometimes. Wear your cartwheel bonnet for protection.

There's one head type that can ignore the above rules, the girl with excessively oily hair. Both the salt and the sun are good for her. She may take her daily salt and sun baths as a needed medicinal treatment. However she, no more than her sisters, can sit around for hours on end with wet hair. All this talk of the frequency of shampoos being bad for the hair is based on the continuous wetness of the hair. This is what is bad for it—not the frequent cleaning process.

Some of our better hair specialists are outspoken in their claim that men's proclivity for sopping their hair daily with water causes baldness among them. Anyway, it is the thorough drying that is urged for healthy hair, not infrequent washing.

Because the hair, if exposed, does get an extra draining of oil under the hot rays, it's the smart girl who takes a minute or two at night after a day of exposure to rub into the scalp a little oil to counteract the drying. You can do this without having to shampoo the hair again in the morning.

Just dip the finger tips in olive, castor, or sweet almond oil and rub the scalp all over the head. You'll find this a good protection if you're going to be outdoors a lot during the day, just the same as lubricating the skin with a protective cream. And just as wise.

Child Suffers While Parents Are Wrangling

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

It's curious that a thing can be so obviously wrong to the cool looker-on, and that those in the fray cannot sense it. Letters like this come in frequently:

"Would you please send me a pamphlet advising both father and mother to get together and talk about the training of the children? I don't think it is doing any one of us any good to argue before the children. We just get cross at each other and then the children don't know whom to obey.

"When I say something my husband corrects me. The children think I can't be right if I'm corrected, so they disobey me—which makes it hard for me when I'm alone with them."

Wrangling—and that's an unpleasant word, but it designates an unpleasant thing—is most disorganizing to children. It is utterly confusing to to them.

The two grownups who mean most to them in the world stand before them, at swords' points—divided, disagreeable and issuing conflicting orders. How can they know what to do? How can they perceive which side to be loyal to?

Their home world should be solid, and when it isn't they suffer—sometimes in their emotions, sometimes in their behavior. If parents who argue and openly disagree and find fault with each other over the management of their children have serious trouble with them later on, they must not be surprised.

Old Songs Pay Dividends in Movie Rights

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 10.—[Special.]—Writers of popular songs of twenty years ago are beginning to reap unexpected profit from the move revival of interest in the "Naughty Aughts" as the first decade of 1900 is currently described. The composer of "Sidewalks of New York, for instance, the studios say, has been reaping royalties from its revival. Also mentioned are "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Harrigan," "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee," "Till We Meet Again," and none other than ex-Mayor Jimmy Walker is drawing an occasional movie check from his "Will You Love Me in December as You Did in May?"

Jim O'Keefe, manager of the music department at Fox studio, and who purchases the rights to tunes they want for their incidental film music there, says the current price list quoted to the studios is something like this:

Fanfare music, the ta-tata-tata blare used for news reels, introductory titles, etc., $10.

"Hurry" or "chase" music, such as the piano player used to give us in "Perils of Pauline" or when the United States cavalry swept over the prairie to save the ginghamed heroine from the Indians, $25.

"Background" music, soft and low, or that kind of atmospheric staccato ending in a squeal which presages the entrance of some element mysterious, $50 per usage.

Visible instrumental, when you see a band or orchestra playing on the screen, $100.

Visible vocal, where you see the singer, $150.

It's more expensive to buy the rights to a popular song of say fifty bars than it is to acquire rights to an entire classical symphony, something of Mozart's, for instance.

St. Louis Star.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This member of the large star family is another design the quilt enthusiast will want to add to her collection of favorites. Originally the pattern was pieced in the old fashioned dark blue calico, but the lighter colors and prints of the present day make more attractive quilts, even though less historically accurate.

For a quilt pattern of this design send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Why Auburn Now Builds

New SALON Models

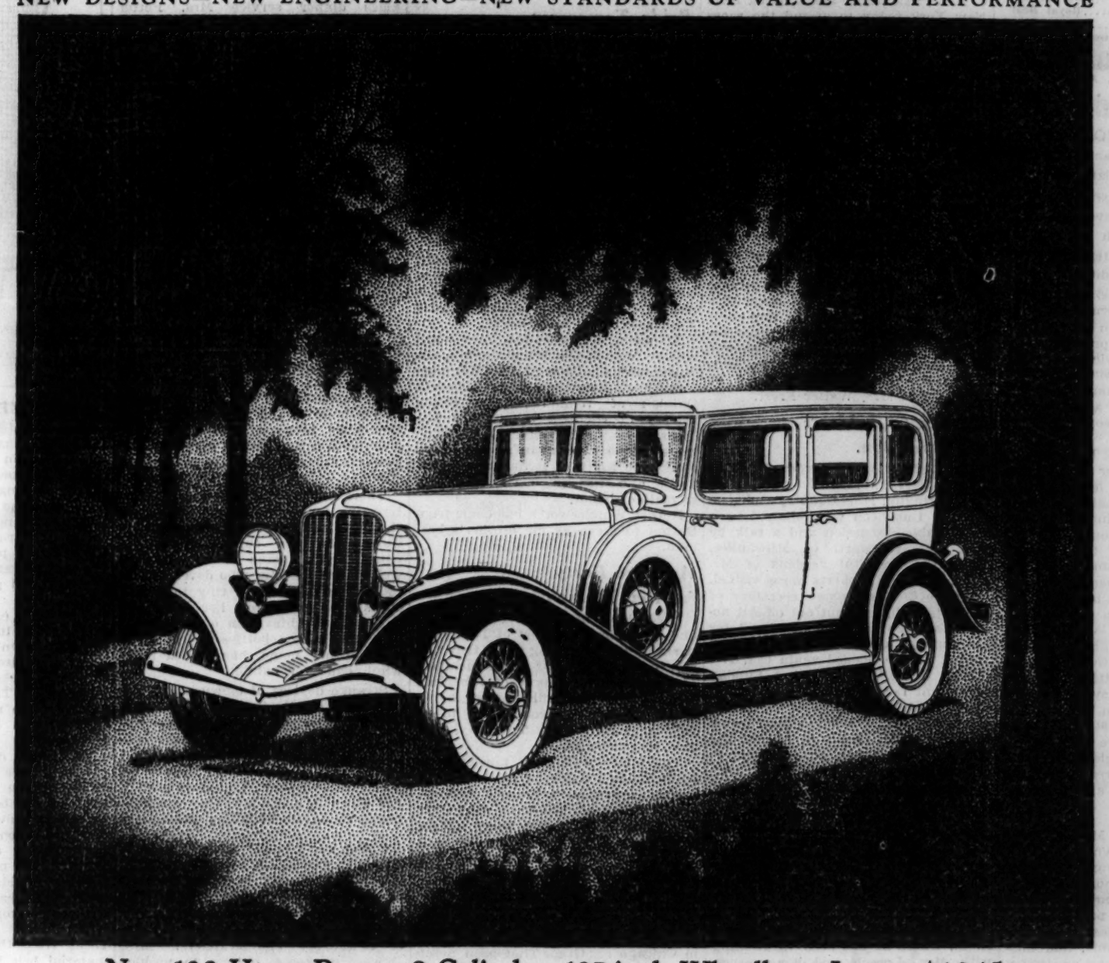
NEW DESIGNS—NEW ENGINEERING—NEW STANDARDS OF VALUE AND PERFORMANCE



New 100 Horse Power, 8-Cylinder, 127-inch Wheelbase, Low as $1045
New 160 Horse Power, 12-Cylinder, 133-inch Wheelbase, Low as $1595
All prices f. o. b. factory. Equipment other than standard, extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

Back of Auburn's program, responsible for the new 12- and 8-cylinder Salon Models, is a far-sighted and definite purpose.

This purpose will interest you, and we believe elicit your endorsement, because, despite the ups and downs of business conditions, the fundamentals of success have not changed.

It is a matter of record that Auburn has accomplished a great many outstanding things, including:

—The origination of designs for others to imitate.

—The introduction of a great many engineering improvements, the latest of which is Dual-Ratio.

—The building of stock cars capable of performance and endurance far beyond previous and contemporary attainments. For example, the present stock Auburn Speed Champion with many official AAA records including 500 continuous miles without a stop at more than 113 m. p. h.

The complete list is much longer. However—is not what Auburn has done in the past, BUT WHAT AUBURN IS DOING NOW.

A careful study was made, not only of conditions in the automobile industry, but of the general economic situation.

The problem offered temptations to compromise.

Fewer people were buying new cars, and most of these were buying the lowest priced cars.

Auburn had the diversified experience, the engineering ability, the production facilities and resources, to design and build ANY kind of an automobile.

The Question Was—

should Auburn reverse its pioneering policy, lose its fine car reputation, discard the accumulated experience of years, and resort to the expediency of building a small, skimped and cheapened car as a bait for business?

NO!

That decision was the most important in all of Auburn's history. It was made with the foreknowledge that it would inevitably affect Auburn's sales volume.

Auburn adopted this course in order to definitely establish Auburn's ascendancy as a quality leader, for today, tomorrow, and years hence.

The job was to build the BEST car that ever bore the name of Auburn. No expense or effort was to be spared to build this kind of car.

The fruition of this program is now available to you in the new series of Auburn 12- and 8-cylinder Salon Models.

Distinctive New Designs

Each of these new Salon Models has a distinctive design, yet each retains Auburn's exclusive identity.

If you want roominess and comfort, long wheelbase, power, strength, endurance, together with a quality of construction, design, and performance that leaves nothing to be desired, we invite you to inspect and drive the new Auburn Salon Models.

To build these Salon Models to the high standards required, called for many improvements, betterments, and refinements. For example, although Auburn led the industry by introducing the X-type of frame, even this did not meet the requirements for the Salon Models. Auburn added an "A" at the front, in addition to the "X" in the center, producing a frame twice as rigid as the conventional X-frame, and resulting in unprecedented roadability and greater riding comfort.

For quiet, efficient performance the Auburn Salon Models have no rival!

You Will Be Amazed

Even at high speeds, you are apt to wonder if there is an engine under the hood!

And the steadiness with which these Salon Models hold the road; the ease with which they maneuver; their effortless operation; their amazing acceleration; their smoothness of performance; and their quiet, luxurious bodies are advantages you have never experienced in any other motor car.

Auburn Dares—

to make all of these unequivocal claims because Auburn IS building the KIND of car that lives up to them.

The new Salon Models, among other features, include: Air Cushioned Rubber Motor Mountings; improved L. G. S. Free Wheeling; Silent-Constant Mesh Transmission; Automatic Chassis Lubrication; hydraulic shock absorbers; hydraulic brakes with power booster on Twelves; roller-mounted cam and lever steering; fully insulated bodies; no metal-to-metal contact; metal roof and side quarters; and—

Dual Ratio

See for yourself, how Dual-Ratio takes the "compromise" out of motor cars. Auburn is not handicapped on straightaways, because the same gear ratio does not have to be used for hill-climbing. With an Auburn you do not needlessly race the engine. For example, when driving in "High-Ratio" your Auburn car can travel at 60-miles-an-hour with only a 40-mile-an-hour engine-effort and fuel consumption. The car speeds, but the engine LOAFS! You will be amazed at the smoothness, quietness and absence of vibration. Here is real economy; economy of fuel, and ECONOMY OF WEAR ON ALL MOVING PARTS.

We invite you to inspect and drive these new Salon Models—it will be a revelation!

SOX LOSE TO ATHLETICS, 3-2, THEN WIN, 7-1

ROSS TO HELP TRAIN CHICAGO BOXING SQUAD

Champion Keen for Victory Over Irish.

Meet at Dublin

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 10.—The Irish boxing team which will meet the Chicago Golden Gloves champions at Soldiers' field Aug. 2, was assembled in Dublin tonight preparatory to leaving for Southampton, England, tomorrow night. Lord Mayor Alfred Byrne will give them a sendoff at the seaport Dunlaoghaire. The team will convey a special letter from Mayor Byrne to Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago. The team is sailing on the Majestic Wednesday, arriving at New York, July 18.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Barney Ross, lightweight champion of the world, first won boxing honors in a Golden Gloves tournament. In 1929 Barney was the amateur featherweight champion and he won his intercity bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, being one of Chicago's five winners that year.

Although Barney now has reached the top in professional boxing, he still retains his interest in Golden Gloves, and many of Chicago's best amateurs frequently work out with Barney. It is quite natural then that when the Golden Gloves boxers leave for Grand Beach, Mich., next Monday, Barney will accompany them.

Wants Chicago Victory.

Barney is so eager to see Chicago whip the Irish team in the international bouts at Soldiers' field on the night of Aug. 2 that he has offered to help condition the squad. For at least a week Barney will train with the sixteen Golden Glovers, accompanying them on the road and sparring with some of them in the ring. He will have his own staff of trainers, for this week's drill at Grand Beach will prepare him for his engagement with Johnny Farr at Kansas City on July 26.

When Ross defeated Tony Canzoneri at the Stadium, he not only won the lightweight championship, but he took Tony's junior welterweight title. This title will be at stake in the fight with Farr. After the fight Barney will return to Chicago for the international bouts. Then he plans a fight in August as a final warm up for his defense of the lightweight championship against Canzoneri in New York in September.

First to Win Title.

Ross is the first Golden Glover to win a professional title, although several of the boys have done well. While the purpose of Golden Gloves is not to develop professional fighters, it is natural that a boy with the inherent ability that Ross possesses should follow professional boxing to build up a fortune that he could not acquire in the same length of time in another line of work.

The boys on the international squad are more than glad to have Barney with them. It is the first time that a champion has joined the camp of an amateur boxing team, and Barney's tips on fighting will be invaluable.

Behr Is Head Coach.

Johnny Behr, who has been with Golden Gloves for four years, will be head coach of the international squad. He will be assisted by Jabber Young, who also helped coach the team which whipped New York this year, 10 bouts to 6. In the four years that Behr and Young have been in charge of Chicago's amateurs, New York has been defeated three times. In 1930 the score was 10 to 6; in 1931 Chicago won by the record count of 13 to 3. The only defeat was in 1932 at New York, when the eastern squad won, 12 to 4. The total for the four years shows Chicago has won 37 bouts and New York has won 27.

In 1931 Chicago defeated the French boxers in the first international fights, 5 to 3. Last year Germany and Chicago tied, each team winning four bouts.

The Chicago boxers will assemble Monday at noon at the Illinois Athletic club for lunch, after which they will travel to the Golfmore hotel,

RENA NELSON IS LEADER IN GOLF DERBY WITH 79

Helen MacMorran Ties Mrs. Jones for Second.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Rena Nelson, youthful Exmoor star, was away first and fastest yesterday in the opening lap of the fifth annual derby of the Women's Western Golf association at the Sunset Ridge Country club. Her time at the first 18 hole post was 79 strokes, one over par.

Mrs. Melvin Jones, Lincolnshire star, and Helen MacMorran, daughter of Joe MacMorran, Indian Hill professional, were clocked in 82 for second place. Bunched in third place were June Beebe of Olympia Fields, winner of the recent western open; Marie Riemer of Milwaukee, and Mrs. H. Austin Pardue of Minneapolis, all with 83s. A trio of 85s, including Mrs. S. Louis Reinhardt of Northmoor, the defending champion; Mrs. Charles Dennehy of Onwentsia, and Mrs. Lillian Zech of Tam o' Shanter followed.

18 More Holes Today.

The derby field of more than 60 is still a long way from the finish wire, for it continues today with another 18 hole sprint and ends tomorrow with a stretch run of 36 holes. The derby is the only event of its kind—72 holes of medal play—in women's golf.

The cards for the leaders follow:

Par—Out	455	434	535—38
Par—In	554	553	535—40—78
Miss Nelson—Out	455	425	635—39
Miss Nelson—In	346	554	535—40—79
Mrs. Jones—Out	466	426	644—42
Mrs. Jones—In	554	463	535—40—82
Miss MacMorran—Out	455	444	545—40
Miss MacMorran—In	604	454	535—42—82
Miss Beebe—Out	645	434	635—40
Miss Beebe—In	575	453	545—43—83
Mrs. Pardue—Out	456	435	746—44
Mrs. Pardue—In	444	453	645—39—83
Miss Riemer—Out	555	444	535—40
Miss Riemer—In	544	745	635—43—83

Miss Nelson followed the card to the fifth, where she went one under by holing a 10 foot putt for a birdie 2. She missed a short putt at the sixth and was trapped at the seventh. She knocked down an eagle 3 on the tenth, dropping her second shot three feet from the pin. On the eleventh her third was two feet away for a birdie 4. She three putted the twelfth and fifteenth, and missed a short putt for a birdie on the home green.

Putter Fails Mrs. Jones.

Three-putt greens cost Mrs. Jones a chance for the lead or at least a tie. She took three putts on the second, third, sixth, and seventh, and missed a short try on the fourteenth. She got a birdie on the fifth with a six foot putt, one on the ninth with an eight footer, and ran down a 20 footer at the thirteenth.

Miss MacMorran was trapped at the fifth, missed the seventh green, three putted the tenth and eleventh, and sank an eight footer for a birdie at the thirteenth. Miss Beebe found a trap at the first but reached the second in two for a birdie, was in the water at the seventh, and was out of bounds at the eleventh. A ten foot putt gave her a birdie at the thirteenth, but she three putted the seventeenth and missed a short green shot for a birdie on the final hole.

Mrs. Pardue was short with her

A RINGSIDE SEAT ISN'T ALWAYS A SIGN OF VIRTUE

Mr. Pegler Finds a Mug at Higher Price Is Still a Mug.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—On the evening of the recent Carnera-Sharkey prize fight the Madison Square Garden corporation, which makes journalism quite painless, passed out among the reporters along the working press rows a mimeographed page of prominent or notorious names entitled "Among those present were." With deletions for death, impeachment, imprisonment, or impoverishment, and a few additions, the list was generally the same time is sent out from the ringside of all pretentious prize fights and testimonial banquets which are held in New York.

JOAN CRAWFORD.

All the persons named in the list were presumed to be occupying expensive ringside seats. Nobody ever takes the trouble to ask the names of the customers in the $2 sections. These customers haven't any names. They are merely the crowd.

Just as O. K., Per Capita, as Folks in Front.

I will resist the old hyperdemocratic impulse to regard them, just arbitrarily, as being more wholesome, and useful, and purer in heart than the aristocracy of the ringside, but will concede that they probably were just as O. K., per capita, as the prominent citizens down in front.

Down in front, as named in the long list, we had with us, among others, half a dozen of the most cynical political grafters that the City of New York has produced. All were well dressed, well behaved, and famous for their private virtue and their goodness of heart, at general public expense, to poor democrats in the slums. In the back seats, no doubt, we had with us a correct proportion of petty thieves and hoodlums, loafers, chain store stickup men, wife beaters, and all such. But being in the "crowd," they were the masses; the long suffering, noble masses.

Masses Are Ambitious; What Do They Get?

Often have I wondered at the ambition of those who comprise the noble masses to become sufficiently prominent themselves to command listing as "among those present."

A man gives up something when he moves forward out of the crowd into the company of "those present." He forfeits a traditional but not necessarily accurate presumption of goodness and homely honesty. But ambition is fermenting away within him, and he wants to join those whom all spokesmen for the masses affect to despise. To know that the radio broadcaster, peering at his list of names, had said, "And as I look about me here at the ringside among these famous people I see Joe Dokes, the noted Brooklyn wagon helper, sitting close to Otto Kahn," would be a great satisfaction to Joe Dokes.

Always Willing to Go to Other Side.

Newspaper reiteration is all that most fame is made of, and, having reiterated a great many names myself, I do not stand in much awe of fame. On the other hand, however, I think the "crowd," the good old masses, gets away with its share of murder, and have noticed that individuals who get a chance to desert to the enemy, down in the ringside rows and in the money, do so with great alacrity. They do not seem to be on the level in their class-consciousness. There are many individuals "among those present" at this, or any other given time, who once were of the crowd and probably very envious and resentful of the ease and prerogatives of the few.

The estate of the upper set seems less enviable than it seems, if I may put it that way. They get as sick as other people, they have family rows and divorces and lawsuits, and inasmuch as a man can never get so

POMPONIUS WINS AT ARLINGTON; POMPOSITY IS 2D

W.R. Coe Entry Cleans Up in Rio Grande Purse.

BY FRENCH LANE.

W. R. Coe of New York came up yesterday with a powerful threat for the renewal of the $35,000 Classic stakes to be run at Arlington Park on Saturday.

He sent a couple of sons of Pompey—their names are Pomponius and Pomposity—into the Rio Grande purse at a mile. It was a warm-up for the Classic and was a furious battle all the way, but when the dust had cleared the two were running one-two and they finished that way.

Col. Edward R. Bradley's Boilermaker was third. Poppyman from Mrs. John Hay Whitney's stable was fourth, beaten a nose by Boilermaker. Northgalis, Knight's Gal and Dark Winter, other Classic eligibles, trailed them home.

Pomponius Last to Leave.

The triumph of Pomponius neared the sensational. After a long delay at the post caused by the incorrigible Northgalis, the Coe colt was away last and appeared to have received considerably the worst of it at the start.

He ran far back for half a mile while Boilermaker was making a scorching pace. Then he started to move forward. In another furlong he was up with his nose at Boilermaker's saddle girth. He rounded the final turn on the outside, then leaped on past Boilermaker. His stable companion, Pomposity, also moved on by the faltering Boilermaker, which was showing a tendency to bear out.

Then the two Coe horses galloped on to their victory. Pomponius, with Charley Kurtsinger in the saddle, beat Pomposity by two lengths. Boilermaker was three lengths behind them.

Plucky Play Disappoints.

The easterners in the crowd backed the Coe entry stoutly and there was much support for Knight's Gal. The entry paid $7.10 to win, $5.58 to place, and $3.94 to show. Boilermaker was at 4.18 to show.

Plucky Play, the old giant killer, turned one of his notorious flip-flops in the Wellington purse when he finished out of the money in fifth place.

Evergold, owned by Dick and Pat Nash of Chicago, was the winner, Rehoboth landed second money and Reveille Boy ran third, with Gusto, last year's Classic winer, fourth.

The race was run in 1:37 3-5, exactly the same time in which Plucky Play won over the same mile course on Saturday. Plucky Play carried 124 pounds on Saturday and had only 109 pounds on his back yesterday, a difference of 15 pounds.

Why Handicappers Worry.

Failure isn't anything new for Plucky Play. He has bewildered the players and handicappers throughout his career, beating a champion one day and losing to an ordinary horse the next.

Evergold was a long shot. He was far in front all the way and paid $21.44.

C. J. Fitzgerald and George Brown, the Arlington park stewards, announced late in the afternoon that they will call Trainer Woody Fitzgerald, who handles Plucky Play, on the carpet this morning and demand an explanation of the horse's form reversal.

Kellys Win in Golden Gloves Ticket Contest

The Kellys are the best fight fans among Chicago's Irish. Persons of that name won the contest concluded yesterday by THE TRIBUNE. Ten days previous it was announced that every fan of the Irish name leading in $3.30 ticket applications to the Golden Gloves bouts between the champions of Ireland and Chicago would be presented with two complimentary tickets in the $2 section. The contest closed Sunday at midnight.

The Kellys won off by themselves. Their closest rivals were the Doyles. So every Kelly who ordered Golden Gloves tickets at $3.30 before the contest ended will receive two additional seats with the compliments of THE TRIBUNE.

Cubs, Dodgers Open 4 Game Series Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who lost three straight the last time they were here, when the Cubs weren't so hot as they now are, this afternoon will open a four game series at Wrigley field. The Cubs will launch the set four games back of New York and half a game back of the second place Cardinals.

It is not well to go back to the Dodgers' first trip to Chicago to study the potentialities of the Brooklyns, however. The Cubs, some of whom sometimes are inclined to become cocky when things are going all right, danced into Brooklyn less than two weeks ago after winning a double header in Philadelphia, with the full expectation of taking at least four out of five games scheduled. Instead they were in three of the games, including a double header July 2, subjected to as severe an ear-pinning-back treatment as you'll ever want to see.

Remember Al, Cubs?

The climax was reached when Al Lopez, a heavy footed catcher, stole home to win the final game. Although it was pretty hard to swallow at the time, that theft of home possibly has benefitted the Cubs. Up till that time the lads were blaming umpires and one thing or another for defeats that were more traceable to their own reluctance about hustling. That theft of home by Lopez seemed to chase the conceit from the entire personnel, though, it should be said, the main victim of the theft was one of the men who least needed such a prodding.

The episode just appeared to convince the fellows that they weren't an inspired crew, temporarily under a blight of tough luck. So they went to work.

The extent to which hustling will make the breaks was never better illustrated than the recent series in which the Cubs took four straight from the league leading Giants. The dash of the Cubs, whom the Giants had been accustomed to seeing back on their heels, panicked the Giants.

There were four important games that the Cubs won by great pitching and hustling. They had been getting the great pitching most days all year.

Cub Pitching Is Satisfactory.

Since the Cubs are no great shakes as hitters, with not a .300 hitter working regularly, it is essential that they continue to get good pitching and continue to hustle in support of such pitching.

The pitching situation is encouraging. Warneke has been great all year, and instead of a mark of 10 wins and 7 losses, he should have had, with any kind of support, 15 victories. Tinning, with seven straight, shows signs of getting even better. Guy Bush and Charley Root had brief lapses but snapped out of them and again are going fine. Pat Malone, who hasn't won a game since June 5, pitches like an athlete out of condition. He goes great for a while, then bogs down completely. Roy Henshaw and Lynn Nelson are showing improvement, but will not get many starts.

BRITISH OPEN GOLF.

DENSMORE SHUTE, more familiarly known as Denny, registered the tenth straight victory of American players in the British open golf tournament last week after winning the playoff with Craig Wood, another Yankee.

When Jock Hutchison of Glen View first accomplished that feat back in 1921 it was something to talk about. Even in that victory, however, it could not be overlooked that Jock learned his game on the other side, called the original home of golf.

When Walter Hagen took the title in 1922 and repeated in 1924 to start the present sequence of Yankee victories it was something to cause the American eagle to flap his wings, for Hagen was a homebred professional.

Since then Hagen and Bobby Jones and then Gene Sarazen made such a habit of it that the old bird hardly ruffles his plumage when told another British championship has come to the United States.

To be perfectly fair and to escape jingoism The Wake is willing to admit that of the string of ten victories two were acquired by foreign bred players who brought what they knew to this country. They were James Barnes in 1925 and Tommy Armour in 1931.

Perhaps more significant in the recent tourney than the mere title is the fact that Americans acquired five of the first seven places, all within two strokes of Shute. These five were natives.

To Champion Denny Shute the honor must have been especially gratifying. He was the goat of Yankee failure to obtain a tie in the recent Ryder cup series when he three-putted on the final green from a distance of ten yards, failing to sink a four foot putt which would have left even the score in matches. In the national open at North Shore here Shute was 21st with a score of 301, compared to Johnny Goodman's winning score of 287 for 72 holes. Shute was born and developed his game in this country, although his father was an English professional. Winners of the British open title for the last decade:

1924—Walter Hagen.
1926—Robert T. Jones Jr.
1927—Robert T. Jones Jr.
1928—Walter Hagen.
1929—Walter Hagen.
1930—Robert T. Jones Jr.
1931—Tommy Armour.
1932—Gene Sarazen.
1933—Denny Shute.

Head Play to Mr. Khayyam.

So you think you are great, you're a wizard,
And the horse just don't live that can race
A mile and a quarter with you—
Well, you're wrong, no longer an ace.

Where were you when I let Broker's Tip through
A hole next the rail in Kaintuck?
He beat me, but just by a whisker,
A race that I lost by bad luck.

In the Preakness I ran you quite dizzy;
The best you could do wasn't much;
I'll admit you were first a week later,
But I never was much in the muck.

There's an Arlington race that's a Classic,
And a spot for a sound beating, too;
So if you are game for that meeting
Boy, O, boy, what I won't do to you!

JEBY SCORES DECISION OVER TERRY; FANS BOO

Newark, N. J., July 10.—(AP)—Ben Jeby of New York won the referee's decision tonight in his 15 round fight with Young Terry, Trenton middleweight. Jeby's share of the disputed middleweight championship was at stake.

The crowd that saw the fight in the outdoor arena at Dreamland park booed the decision of Whitey Healey, referee. Jeby won seven rounds, Terry five, and three were even.

The champion got away to a commanding lead, winning five of the first eight rounds, and kept the advantage in spite of a great rally by Terry. Jeby weighed 158¼ and Terry, 157.

COLEMAN GETS HOMER IN 11TH TO BEAT LYONS

Gaston Pitches 3 Hit Game in Second.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 10. — The White Sox and Athletics solved their double header problem today in the customary fashion. The Macks won the first game, 3 to 2, when Bob Coleman boosted a homer over the wall in the 11th inning, thereby assisting Bob Grove, the noted southpaw, to his 13th victory of the season and Rescuer Ted Lyons to his 11th defeat. After this affair the Sox spent a couple of easy hours picking up a 7 to 1 triumph on Milt Gaston's three hit pitching.

The somber Mr. Grove's chief stock in trade was sheer, unadulterated luck. The Chicagoans hit him so often that they had men on bases in every inning except the 11th. But in the pinches the tall speed ball pitcher was quite the Grove of other years, and if his support hadn't failed him in the ninth the Chicagoans never would have been able to create a tie and bring on overtime labor. Until this tie was brought about, defeat was imminent for Sad Sam Jones, but he went out of the picture in time to avoid this humiliation.

Second Game Easy.

The second battle was a more or less leisurely affair for the Chicagoans because of a healthy lead handed to them right at the outset. Hits off Dick Oliver, Mack's recent find, the wildness of the young man, and an error made possible this impressive start. From then on the twisting, shimmying Oliver yielded the one earned run until removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth. That switch brought Tony Freitas into action and the Sox tapered off with two runs they didn't need. Meanwhile the Athletics had found Gaston such a cunning workman that they were utterly helpless, except in the sixth, when they bunched their total of three hits.

The successful nine inning performance by Gaston, incidentally his sixth of the year, was the second turned in by a Sox pitcher in the last 26 games. The other was an Ed Durham production in the game here last Friday. During that stretch of bad throwing Lyons stuck through three full games, but was beaten each time.

Won't Score for Jones.

And Jones today was good enough to join that select circle of full game winners, but his teammates failed to provide him with the needed runs. Jones surrendered only seven hits in eight innings, three of them coming at the start.

FIRST GAME

Old Folks Jones started the first battle as if he had no intentions of sticking around for long. With one out in the opening inning Cramer singled to center and rested on first while Cochrane was popping to Appling. Foxx slipped a single into Simmons' left field territory. Coleman singled to right, Cramer scoring and Foxx taking third. The uprising was halted when Dykes picked up Johnson's bounder for a force play at second.

The Sox nicked Grove for a pair of hits in the second and despite a double play were able to score their way into a 1 to 1 tie. Appling led off with a single to right and dashed to third when Dykes hit safely to the same spot. Foxx made a driving stop of a scorching grounder by Hayes and threw to second to force Dykes. Williams pegged wild trying for a double play and Hayes dashed for second. The ball bounced off the grandstand wall and Foxx recovered it in time to catch Hayes. While this was going on Appling scored from third.

Break Tie in Fifth.

The deadlock was undisturbed until the fifth, when the Macks picked up one run and lost one or two more because of daffy base running. Williams started this assault with a single past Dykes. Grove struck out trying to bunt. Bishop walked. Cramer bounced a triple off the scoreboard in right center and Williams scored. But while Williams was waiting at second to see whether the ball would be caught, Bishop ran down from first

Golden Gloves Tickets at Walgreen's

You can buy good seats for the international Golden Glove bouts between the champions of Ireland and Chicago at Soldiers' field Aug. 2 at any Walgreen drug store. Tickets also are on sale at The Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street; at the Midwest Athletic club, and at Room 530 Tribune Tower.

There is no choice in the allotment of tickets at the various places. Mail orders received the last two weeks disposed of more than 60 per cent of the $3.30 section. The remaining seats at that price and the best seats in all other sections have been distributed among 175 Walgreen stores and the other ticket offices.

Nearly 30,000 of the 50,000 seats in the arena are priced at 55 cents. All are reserved. Ringside prices are $1.10, $2, $2.50, and $3.30.

Out of town fans and others who prefer to order by mail may send check or money order, payable to Chicago Tribune, to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Room 530 Tribune Tower, Chicago. Telephone orders may be placed by calling Superior 0100 and asking for local 466 or 530.

TEN POLO TEAMS ENTER NATIONAL JUNIOR TOURNEY

Matches to Start Sunday at Sands Point.

New York, July 10.—(AP)—The draw today for the national junior polo championship tournament showed a record entry of ten teams, including one led by Tommy Hitchcock, the world's only ten goal star. Play begins July 16 at the Sands Point club, Port Washington, L. I., and continues through July 30.

Until two years ago no player whose individual handicap exceeded six goals was permitted to play in the junior tournament, but this restriction was lifted in 1931 with the result many of the top ranking players participated. The only restriction now is that no team total more than twenty goals on handicap.

Sands Point Team to Play.

Hitchcock will direct the Sands Point team, including Robert Lehman, Cornelius V. Whitney, and a back, to be named later.

The Wartnaby four includes Gerald Balding, former British international-ist; two of his brothers, J. B. and Ivor, and K. L. Fink. Seymour H. Knox of Buffalo captains the Aurora team, on which Lewis Smith, H. E. Talbot Jr., and William Post II. are included. George H. (Pete) Bostwick and Dunbar Bostwick are on the Aiken Knights with S. B. Iglehart and J. R. Fell.

The nine goal Texan, Cecil Smith, will play on the strong Roslyn four with Mahlon Kemmerer, member of the Princeton intercollegiate championship team; H. W. Williams, also from Texas, and J. M. Schiff.

Earle Hopping to Compete.

Earle A. S. Hopping, American internationalist, and Raymond Guest are playing with Great Neck. E. W. Hopping and Stephen Sanford are on the Hurricane team.

Other entries are Aknusti, including the Gerry brothers, J. P. Mills, and W. A. Harriman; Meadow Brook Ramblers, including Gerard Smith, Bobby Strawbridge, Raymond Firestone, and J. C. Rathborne, and the United States army four, composed of Lieut. Col. J. K. Brown, Maj. Charles B. Lyman, Lieut. George W. Read, and Lieut. Homer W. Kiefer.

COMMITTEE NAMED

Herbert J. Lorber and Frank Bering were appointed members of the managing committee of the East-West polo series yesterday. Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, the chairman, is the third member of the committee. Headquarters were opened yesterday in the Builders' building.

The series will begin Aug. 13 at the Onwentsia club. The second game will be played Aug. 16 and the third, if necessary, on Aug. 20.

Word was received yesterday that Tommy Hitchcock, captain of the eastern team and Carleton F. Burke, leader of the westerners, have started preparation for the series. Burke wired that the westerners were particularly cheered by a ruling which declared Alden Roark, an 8 goal player, eligible for competition.

HARVARD PLAYER LEADS COLLEGE CHESS AT FAIR

Martin C. Stark of Washington D. C., representing Harvard, was leading with a score of 3-0 at the close of play last night in the third round of the intercollegiate chess tournament at the World's Fair.

Nathan Beckhardt, the City College of New York captain, and Vladimir Grigorieff of the University of Chicago, with an adjourned game each, had scores of 2-0. There was a tie for fourth place between Harold Cutler of New York university and Willis E. Lamb Jr. of California.

Yesterday's summaries:

U. S. PLAFOND BRIDGE PLAYERS LEAD FRENCH

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, July 10.—Playing plafond bridge for the first time, an American team captained by Ely Culbertson closed play this evening with a lead of 36 points over France's best four players.

Plafond, as played in Paris, is a cross between auction and contract bridge without a vulnerable feature or special premiums for slams. Only Culbertson had ever played before.

His team, consisting of Mrs. Culbertson, Theodore Lightner, and Michael Gottlieb, which was picked to prove a system is needed in bridge, made almost steady improvement in the day's play.

Ebelhar. Went to post at 3:40. At post 1¼ minutes. Start good from gate. Won ridden out; second and third driving.

CUIRASSIER, away fast, followed the early pacemaker under light pressure, LE MISERABLE, command quickly when called upon, and won under light pressure. LE MISERABLE, away slowly, lost ground throughout and moved up fast after reaching stretch, but did not menace the winner. FLAGHORN, in close quarters at the far turn, stood punishment gamely, but could not improve her position in the drive.

FIFTH RACE—Hertz course, one mile out of chute. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

POMPONIUS, away slowly, began moving up easily approaching the turn, where he lost much ground, readily disposed of BOILERMAKER, but won under pressure and went out an additional quarter in 2:03 3-5. POMPOSITY, slowed to remain out of it, improved his position slowly under strong riding and also finished under pressure and went out a quarter in 2:06. BOILERMAKER, had good speed, was poorly rated, and was inclined to bear out when weakening.

COG-AIR, well ridden and having speed from the start, was taken back to follow LONGUS' pace and responding well when called upon, disposed of LONGUS quickly in final eighth. Latter lost ground at first turn, but saved some when racing to the lead after reaching final half mile, was weakly ridden in stretch, and faltered after a mile. GOLDEN WEST had no mishap.

More bad news for the holders of "Annie Oakleys" to the race tracks. Tomorrow the state will start collecting a tax of 20 cents on each free admission. Instructions to put the new tax in effect were received at Arlington Park yesterday from Walter W. McLaughlin, state director of agriculture. The tax on paid admissions remains the same.

According to the Arlington Jockey club regulations, the state tax on grandstand complimentary tickets will be 20 cents; federal tax, 10 cents, and service tax, 20 cents, a total of 50 cents. On clubhouse enclosure complimentaries the state tax will be 20 cents; federal tax, 20 cents, and service tax, 35 cents, for a total of 75 cents.

The Darb, Cornelius Whitney's Withers stakes victor and his principal hope for Saturday's running of the Classic, demonstrated his fitness for the $35,000 added event yesterday when he worked a mile and one furlong in 1:52 2-5. He was snugly rated all the way and went the quarter in :23 3-5, half in :48, three-quarters in 1:13, mile in 1:38 4-5. He will be ridden Saturday by Sonny Workman.

Gold Basis, winner of the Latonia Derby for Morton L. Schwartz, went nine furlongs and was timed in 1:56 4-5, after a mile in 1:43 4-5. He was not extended at any time, and Trainer Max Hirsch believes the horse will be as successful in the Classic as his stable mate, Gusto, was last year.

Jockey Herman Schutte is riding in his best form. He won the first two races yesterday on General Parth and Mintogee. Mintogee started the daily double which wound up on Michigan Lad and paid $40.44.

Jockey M. Calvert, quite a star on the Chicago circuit last year, has arrived from the Riverside track at Kansas City and is ready to go into action here. He averaged better than a winner a day at Riverside.

The silks of the famous Keenland stud in Kentucky were carried to their first victory of the Arlington season by the 2 year old Cuirassier in the fourth race yesterday. Jockey Westrope gave him a rousing ride to beat out Le Miserable.

COAST REGATTA TO BE RETAINED DESPITE LOSSES

Los Angeles, Cal., July 10.—[Special.]—Although the national sprint championship rowing meet was not a financial success, another is planned for next year, Maj. Goodsell, University of California at Los Angeles rowing coach, announced today. The University of Washington last Saturday won the first meet, which attracted 15,000.

The event lost approximately $2,500. Maj. Goodsell's statement that the meet would be continued followed Southern California's announcement that it would add crew racing to its athletic program and it is expected that the Trojans will be in competition by next spring.

LINCOLN PARK'S REVOLVER TEAM VICTOR IN MATCH

Lincoln park's revolver team won a four team match at Fort Sheridan yesterday by turning in a score of 328 out of a possible 400. The members of the team are Sergt. Charles Keifer and Policemen George Warner, O. H. Kindlund and D. Ritenour. The other teams competing were the reserve officers' corps, River Forest police team, and a civilian group. Maj. F. Parker of the officers' team won the individual high score honors and Policeman Warner was second. The distance was 50 yards and 20 shots in rapid fire.

YANKS' 9 RUNS IN EIGHTH BEAT TIGERS, 10 TO 6

Detroit Errors Lead to Victorious Rally.

New York, July 10.—(AP)—Taking advantage of two errors by Bill Rogell and Charley Gehringer, the New York Yankees today drove through the Detroit Tigers' shattered defense for nine runs in the eighth inning and a 10 to 6 victory.

Starting the eighth inning with a four run lead, Carl Fischer apparently had the Yanks well in hand until a mixture of bases on balls, a timely single by Babe Ruth, and the two errors put New York out in front. Tony Lazzeri climaxed the onslaught with a home run that also scored Earl Combs and Lou Gehrig. Score:

INDIANS, 3; SENATORS, 2.

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—Willie Kamm scampered across the plate on Earl Averill's triple in the twelfth inning of a hard fought pitchers' battle today between the first place Washington Senators and Cleveland to give the Indians a 3 to 2 victory.

Kamm, the Cleveland third baseman, also had crossed with the tying run in the seventh, after Hale earlier had lofted a home run into the left field stands. Kamm and Hale accounted for three of the six hits granted by Walter Stewart until he was relieved for a pinch hitter in the last of the eleventh.

Mel Harder granted ten hits to the Senators in going the route, but kept them scattered. The defeat cut the Senators' lead over the New York Yankees to three games. Score:

BROWNS, 9; RED SOX, 5.

Boston, Mass., July 10.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns put on an eight run rally in the second inning today to beat the Red Sox, 9 to 5. Andrews and Kline were the victims in the big second inning, which was featured by a line drive home run off Storti's bat with one man on base. Later in the rally Campbell doubled to drive in two runs, while a double error by Johnny Hodapp let in two more. Score:

SEVEN HURT IN BOYS' DAY CRUSH AS PIRATES WIN

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 10.—(AP)—Wildly enthusiastic at the Pittsburgh Pirates' 3 to 2 victory over Philadelphia today, hundreds of boys, guests of the management, stampeded the gate Seven were knocked down and trampled.

The victims were taken to a hospital where they were discharged after receiving first aid.

Approximately 5,000 youths were attending the Boys' day game at Forbes field. Freddy Lindstrom decided the contest, after the teams were tied at 2 to 2 in the eighth, with a clean hit that scored the winning run.

The lads, highly elated, swept down on the field after the game. Then there was a rush for the bleacher exit and the seven, ranging in age from 7 to 11 years, were injured in the crush.

MOON MULLINS—NO BLIND MAN'S BLUFF

Lindstrom's Single in 9th Beats Phils, 3-2

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 10.—(AP)—Freddy Lindstrom's bat, silent for weeks, boomed into action today to give Pittsburgh's Pirates a ninth inning 3 to 2 triumph over Philadelphia.

With two out and three on base, Lindstrom singled in the final inning to send Gus Suhr home with the winning run. Lindstrom emphasized his return to hitting power by getting three hits off Ed Holley, one a double in the eighth that developed into the tying run, as Fred came home on Arky Vaughan's single.

The victory boosted the Pirates into third place ahead of the idle Chicago Cubs.

In the fifth inning the players of both clubs and fans stood silent for 30 seconds as a tribute to Mickey Finn, Philadelphia infielder, who was buried today. Score:

Ringside Seat Isn't Always Sign of Virtue high but that he wishes to climb higher, they are all subject to the same type of envies and resentments that used to plague them when they were back in the $2 seats. They do not consider themselves to be up there, yet. Somewhere higher is up. That is where they want to be.

It All Depends on Where You Are.

I suppose one must have been written, but I have never come across a defense of the rich. Such a defense, I should think, would point out that the poor all want to be rich themselves. Today's rich people, today's ringsiders, were back there in the crowd themselves a few years or a generation ago, and people back there, mistaking their own envy and desires for honest principles, sometimes find themselves hating people for being precisely what they would like to be.

There is a large, constant turnover of names in the lists of "those present," not only at the ringside but in the news, but it is not large enough, and celebrity, in many cases, lasts too long. I have ceased to care, for instance, what happens to Miss Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. It would have to be something pretty interesting to interest me.

and passed him. This offense automatically retired Bishop. Cochrane grounded to Hayes to end the inning.

Despite one hit in five consecutive innings after the second, Grove prospered until the eighth, when he tumbled into a mess from which there appeared no way to extricate himself. But he did and it was at the expense of Manager Fonseca. Simmons was the first man up, but didn't produce. Appling and Dykes followed with singles and Hayes walked to fill the bases. Fonseca then picked himself to bat in Grube's place. He grounded to short and a double play was consummated.

Rhyne Starts Tying Rally.

The honor of inaugurating the little fuss that gave the Sox a tie in the ninth went to Hal Rhyne. He batted for Jones and singled to right. Swanson lined to Coleman and Higgins then did the Sox a good turn. He made a low throw to first on a bunt by Haas, putting two on with one out. Kress, who had been shoved into the game probably because of Sullivan's failure in three attempts against Grove, then lined a single over short, and Rhyne scored. With Simmons and Appling coming up, Grove's prospects naturally were none too bright, but the Milwaukee Duke popped to short and Appling poked into a force-out.

SECOND GAME

Oliver looked the part of a semi-pro in the first inning when the Sox politely helped themselves to a four run lead. Swanson opened with a single to right and scored on Haas' double into the left field corner. Sullivan was disposed of on strikes. A wild pitch put Haas on third, and Simmons' single to left moved him across the plate. Then Appling and Dykes were awarded passes, filling the bases. Hayes slapped a grounder to short and a double play should have been recorded, but McNair relayed wildly to first base, giving Simmons and Appling time to score.

The Macks made another error in the fourth and it developed into the fifth Sox run. Gaston led off with a bounder to Higgins, who drove the ball a healthy boot. Swanson walked and the two men advanced on Haas' sacrifice bunt. Gaston scored while Sullivan was being retired on a bounder to Foxx.

Gaston Yields First Hit.

The end of Gaston's no-hit performance came at the start of the sixth when Oliver hit the first pitch into center for a single. A wild pitch put him on second. McNair whistled a drive past Dykes, Oliver scoring, but McNair made the mistake of not making allowances for Simmons' throwing arm. McNair tried to stretch his wallop into a double, but the ball met him before he reached the middle station. After Cramer had been thrown out Cochrane singled and Foxx walked, but Coleman's fly was easy for Swanson. The Cochrane single was the last hit yielded by Gaston.

A little of everything was thrown into the mixture from which the Sox cooked up their last two runs in the ninth. Haas opened against Freitas with a single. Kress bunted safely and Freitas threw the ball far into right field, Haas scoring and Kress sprinting to third. After Simmons had been hit by a pitched ball he was forced by Appling and Kress counted on the play.

Melillo Errs After 316 Perfect Fielding Plays

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—[Special.]—Oscar Melillo, second baseman for the St. Louis Browns, ended his record fielding streak yesterday at 316 chances without an error. He fumbled a ground ball at Boston, his 357th chance of the year. His only other error this season was on his 40th chance.

RED SOX, BRAVES PUT IN CLAIM ON COAST INFIELDER

Boston, Mass., July 10.—(AP)—Bill [Buck] Walters, young infielder whom the Boston Red Sox recently purchased from the Missions club of the Pacific league, has arrived in the right city, but may be playing for the wrong team.

It became known today that the Boston Braves have entered a defensive claim for Walters' services with Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis. Landis has informed the Red Sox they may use Walters while he puzzles over the obscure agreement the Braves have with the Missions regarding his services.

Walters went to the Missions from the Braves last winter in the trade for Dick Gyselman and Al Wright, who has since been returned. The Braves' management claims it kept a string on Walters, but the Missions allege the contrary, for they sold him outright to the Red Sox.

"ELEVATOR BOY" BARONET OF IOWA DIES IN ENGLAND

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 10.—The "elevator boy baronet," Sir Reginald Beatty Wolseley—known as "Dick" to the folks back in Waterloo, Ia.—is dead. His death occurred at Capel cottage, Berrynarbor, North Devon, it was announced today. He was 61 years old.

Sir Reginald, the son of Dr. Cadwallader Brooke Wolseley of Dublin and a cousin of Admiral Earl Beatty, lived a fantastic, "fairy story" life. In 1897, at the age of 25, he left England for the United States and after years of wandering wound up in Waterloo as an elevator operator in a hotel. He worked there 14 years.

Keeps Title Secret.

He acquired his title in 1923 on the death of his cousin, Sir Capel Charles Wolseley, but liked his job in Iowa so well that he stayed there and kept his title a secret. He preferred to be known as "Dick."

He attributed his failure to get a better paying position to fallen arches.

"I might have been a go-getter," he said, "but my poor feet wouldn't stand any rushing about."

In May, 1930, however, his secret came out. Miss Marion Elizabeth Baker, a Devon nurse, went to Waterloo as a messenger from Sir Reginald's mother, who had just died. Miss Baker revealed that she was fulfilling a deathbed wish made by his mother to bring Sir Reginald back to England. The day after her arrival she married Sir Reginald. He was 58, she was 40.

Wife Bothered Him.

The bride found, however, that getting Dick to England was not such an easy task. She herself left the day after their marriage with the understanding that Sir Reginald would follow as soon as he could straighten up his elevator affairs. The baronet, though, was too much attached to his lift. He refused to budge.

Furthermore, that fall he obtained a divorce. He said his wife harassed him by sending so many cablegrams coaxing him to come home. Undaunted, Lady Wolseley that December once again traveled to Waterloo and used all her powers of persuasion. She won her point. The divorce was set aside in January, 1932, and the time both Sir Reginald and his wife sailed for England.

Theodore S. Woolsey, Noted Forestry Expert, Kills Self

New Haven, Conn., July 10.—(AP)—Theodore Salisbury Woolsey, 53, internationally known forestry expert, shot himself to death today at his home. A verdict of suicide was given by Dr. M. M. Scarbrough, medical examiner. Woolsey, who was cited by Gen. John J. Pershing for his services during the world war and honored by three European governments for his forestry work, was found dead in his bedroom by a maid. Dr. Scarbrough said Woolsey had been depressed by illness in his family.

Dr. H. D. F. Arnold Dies; Bell Telephone Expert

New York, July 10.—(AP)—Dr. Harold De Forest Arnold, director of research for the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., died early today of a heart attack at his home in Summit, N. J. He was 50 years old.

WILLIAM S. HAY, LAWYER, DIES IN WINNETKA HOME

William Sherman Hay, member of the law firm of Hay & Brown, 112 West Adams street, was found dead in bed of heart disease yesterday in his home at 945 Sheridan road, Winnetka. Mr. Hay was 67 years old and came to Chicago from Belleville, Ill. For many years he was president of the North Shore Property Owners' association and as such led a fight against trucks using Sheridan road on the north shore. He is survived by his widow, Alma. Services will be held at the home at 2:30 tomorrow. Burial will be private.

Mrs. Elizabeth Funk, 92, Illinois Pioneer, Is Dead

Bloomington, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elizabeth Funk, 92, widow of Lafayette Funk and last survivor of the second generation of the Funk family, which has figured prominently in McLean county history, died in Bloomington hospital. After her marriage to Lafayette Funk in 1864 they lived on a 2,000 acre farm, part of her husband's heritage from Isaac Funk, first settler in McLean county in 1832. Eleven grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren survive Mrs. Funk.

MISS CARSON, 100, SISTER OF STORE FOUNDER, IS DEAD

Miss Margaret Carson, sister of one of the founders of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., died yesterday in her home at Sea Cliff, on Long Island. She celebrated her 100th birthday on March 16.

Miss Carson was born in Belfast, Ireland, and came to Chicago in 1860 to join her brother, Samuel Carson, who three years before had entered the partnership which founded the Chicago department store and wholesale house. She moved to Sea Cliff about 40 years ago. She was in good health until a few weeks ago, when she fell in her bedroom.

The closest surviving relatives are seven nieces and nephews, members of the Pirie family. These are John T. Pirie and Gordon L. Pirie of Chicago, and Samuel C. Pirie, with whom Miss Carson lived; Allen H. Pirie, Mrs. James D. Weir, Miss Margaret C. Pirie, and Miss Sarah I. Pirie, all of whom live in the east.

Funeral services will be held today in Sea Cliff.

Rites Today for James Hill, Railway Chef for 45 Years

Funeral services will be held Thursday for James M. Hill, Negro chef, who worked for 45 years on the dining cars of the Milwaukee railroad. He died Sunday at his home at 6043 Loomis street. During his career as a chef he cooked on the private cars of King Albert of Begium, Thomas A. Edison, and J. Ogden Armour, on whose private car he made semi-annual trips to California for years.

Dr. Carl G. Swenson, 77, to Be Buried This Afternoon

Funeral services for Dr. Carl G. Swenson, who was a captain in the Spanish American war, will be held today at the chapel at 2701 North Clark street at 3 p. m. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery. Dr. Swenson, who was 77 years old, died July 8, in his home at 447 Fullerton parkway. He had been active as a surgeon in Chicago since 1894.

Alex Peterson, 69, Dies of Heart Attack in Home

Alex Peterson, 69 years old, 1458 Olive avenue, a retired department head of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., died yesterday at his home after he suffered a heart attack at breakfast. Mr. Peterson is survived by his widow, Anna; a son, Oscar, and a daughter, Celia. The body was taken to undertaking rooms at 5525 North Clark street.

DEATH CLAIMS JOHN MARKLE IN $1,000,000 HOME

New York, July 10.—(AP)—John Markle, millionaire Pennsylvania anthracite operator who retired in 1927 to devote the rest of his life to philanthropy, died of heart trouble today at the age of 74. He died in his $1,000,000 duplex apartment on Fifth avenue, where he resided. It has 18 servants' rooms, 24 baths, three kitchens, four elevators and 26 telephones.

Mrs. Markle, who was an invalid, died in 1927. There are no children. Mrs. Markle's $3,056,921 gross, $2,843,407 net, is bequeathed mostly to relatives.

Markle's principal philanthropy was the John and Mary R. Markle foundation, of which J. P. Morgan is one of the incorporators, through which the Markle millions were dispensed for medical research, hospitals, welfare institutions, libraries and educational agencies.

TRAIN KILLS PEDESTRIAN.

Fred Clark, 64 years old, 8840 Commercial avenue, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon by a suburban train on the Illinois Central tracks at 71st street and Yates avenue.

Police said he tried to cross after the gates had been lowered.

Sani-Flush

cleans closet bowls without scouring

Hot weather precaution

A DIRTY toilet trap is a breeding place for dangerous germs. They breed fast in hot weather. Use Sani-Flush more often. Be extra sure the toilet is safe and sanitary.

Sani-Flush cleans and purifies the hidden trap which no other method can reach. Sani-Flush removes stains and rust marks from the bowl. Keeps the toilet glistening like new.

No more scrubbing with your hands. Just follow directions on the can. Sani-Flush is not like ordinary cleansers. It is made especially to clean toilets. Also it is effective for cleaning automobile radiators. For sale at grocery, drug, and hardware stores, 25c. The Hygienic Products Co., Canton, Ohio.

In every neighborhood, Chicago families realize the nearness, the remarkable promptness, and superiority of Hursen service in directing funerals.

They know that Hursen elegance, Hursen unmatchable equipment, and the use of Hursen Organ-Chapels, always free, cannot be matched in their own neighborhood.

Reduced Hips 8 Inches with New Quick, Easy Reducing Treatment

Now Slender Looks Years Younger

"I lost 23 lbs. in 6 weeks taking BonKora. Reduced my bust 5 inches, waist 6 inches, hips 8 inches.
"I used to hate to wear a bathing suit. Now I look well in one. I am sending you a photo just taken in a bathing suit and one taken in a dress when I was stout. See the difference! I now weigh 125 lbs.
"I feel fine, too. BonKora is evidently a good tonic as well as a weight reducer. Instead of the old, tired feeling I am full of energy. I feel younger and look younger.
"I didn't starve either. With BonKora I can eat plenty and still lose fat."—Mrs. H. H. Hallock, Jr., 1105 W. Lombard St., Baltimore, Md.

U. S. ESTIMATES LOWEST WHEAT CROP SINCE 1893

496 Million Bushels; All Grains Rise.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Sensationally bullish crop reports that the grain trade has had in the last two weeks were more than confirmed late yesterday by the monthly report of the United States bureau of agriculture.

The bureau estimated the wheat crop at practically 496 million bushels as of July 1, with a prediction should there be average weather during the rest of the growing season the crop would be the smallest since 1893. Production in that year was 396 million bushels, or 100 million bushels less than the present estimate.

There are 160 million bushels of spring wheat and 336 million bushels of winter wheat.

Will Need Reserves.

On the basis of 496 million bushels for all wheat this year, with an estimated consumption of 650 million bushels, there is a deficit of 154 million bushels, a situation that has not existed in a great many years. The loss of production compared with consumption, however, can easily be made up by drawing on reserves, estimated at 350 million bushels.

Corn production was estimated at 2,384 million bushels, which would result in the crop falling below 2,400 million bushels for the fourth time in 32 years.

An estimated oats crop of 699 million bushels was another striking feature of the report, it being the first time to fall below 700 million bushels since 1897. The decline from last year is 547 million bushels.

The rye crop has been cut 15 million bushels to a total of 25 million bushels, and barley is estimated at 170 million bushels, a shortage of 130 million bushels. Total production of the five grains is 3,774 million bushels, a decrease of 1,477 million bushels from the 1932 harvest.

Rye Soars 7 Cents.

Rye gave the grain trade a surprise yesterday that it is not likely to forget. Trading has lagged lately but has furnished the most interesting gossip for a long time. It is a market that is not fully understood by the majority of the grain traders and frequently furnishes sensations in the way of bulges and breaks.

Active bidding for the light offerings of rye futures advanced prices 7 to 8 cents with a close at 85½ cents for July, September 89¼ cents, and December 93¾ cents. The finish was practically at the top for the day.

In explaining why rye prices advanced traders had numerous reasons, one being the appeal of President Roosevelt to the south in favor of repeal of the prohibition act, the activity in preparation for using rye in the manufacture of alcohol, the absence of a processing tax, and predictions of larger consumption on the part of bakers in mixing rye with wheat flour.

The rye crop is the shortest in years. Estimates of the shortage have been circulated for some time but the trade paid little attention to them nor to the visible supply being only 10,739,000 bushels.

All Wheat Futures Above Dollar.

All wheat futures closed above the dollar level, the highest finish of the season. Expectation of a bullish crop report brought liberal buying by traders who evened up, and at times found offerings light. Heavy buying on eastern account was conspicuous throughout the day.

Traders paid little attention to the ordinary factors. Active changing operations in the way of buying July and selling September and December furnished a large part of the trading. Top prices were $1.01 on July, September $1.04, December $1.06½, and May $1.10⅝; the close was at ¼ to ¾ under the highest prices of the day and season.

Corn advanced 2 cents early in the day, but lost the greater part of the gain on selling induced by rains over a large part of the corn belt. The market showed extreme nervousness. Prices were around the best of the season, all futures being above the 60 cent level, while May reached 75½ cents, with the finish ½ cent under that figure. July closed at 61⅞. Visible supply figures increased sharply and supplies are the largest in years.

Oats had an active day, with net gains of ¾ to 1⅝ cents. With stocks decreasing, barley closed 1⅝ to 2¼ cents net higher.

Traders Try to Guess Who Gets Profits

BY HOWARD WOOD.

A news dispatch from New York stating that certain well known speculators have rapidly cleaned up new millions in the "managed economy" market that has been nursed along by the new administration at Washington yesterday stirred up more gossip along La Salle street.

Never has the trading community been so curious about the identity of the big fellows who have made sensational profits in the markets and never has their identity been so well concealed.

The old familiar names are, of course, mentioned by the gossipers. Thomas Howell, who is supposed to have made millions as a bear when grains were going down, is now rumored to have made additional millions on the upturn.

Howell's diminutive figure is frequently to be seen prowling the grain pits and the stock quotation room at the Chicago Board of Trade, but his uncommunicative nature makes it seem probable that the stories you hear about him are prompted by the imaginings of small fry traders.

Arthur Cutten's most ostensible daily act is his feeding corn to pigeons that roost on the ledge of his window on the south side of the Continental bank building.

One trader will tell you that Cutten is "out of it." The next whispers that he is trading mostly in the Winnipeg market. But the only discoverable fact is that nobody knows.

In customers' rooms of New York stock exchange member houses along La Salle street you hear frequently mentioned the names of "Tom" Bragg, "Mike Meehan" and others. E. A. Crawford, a comparative newcomer from the south, has been talked about a lot and is supposed to have had almost a corner on rye, which, by the way, yesterday made a sensational advance of 7 cents.

Most often the subject of conversation, however, is Bernard E. Baruch, who long has been one of Wall street's best known figures. There is a sharp division of opinion about Baruch's participation. Some reports have it that he dissociated himself from market activities when he joined the corps of advisors to the new Democratic administration. Then, again, there are rumors that Baruch and his associates have been assisting the administration's market uplift movement by pumping the jack themselves.

Judging by the tremendous volume of trading day after day on the New York stock exchange and in commodities markets, everybody is in the market. Some of the transactions come in big blocks that require vast financial resources to swing them, but there is a steady stream of smaller sales. Brokerage houses report that an unusually large proportion of sales are for cash, indicating that idle money continues to be put back to work.

Still, there are strange things about the markets of late that have puzzled La Salle street.

Time after time Chicagoans trading in grains and other commodities have taken a beating because important political moves affecting the markets have been fully exploited by easterners before word of the move has trickled through from Washington.

It has happened repeatedly, according to market observers, not only in wheat, but in other grains, cotton, rubber and other commodities.

The market suddenly becomes very active with heavy buying—mostly by houses with strong New York and Washington connections—and prices soar while bewildered westerners flounder around blindly trying to protect their positions. Then hours later—or perhaps the following day—traders here learn of some step to be taken in Washington which has a distinct bearing on the market, but which, unfortunately for them, has already been discounted.

STOCKS SEESAW; TRADERS IGNORE CHEERFUL NEWS

Baking and Alcohol Issues Do Best.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—Stocks drifted quietly today, with the list as a whole picking up small price appreciations. Two or three speculative specialties made sizable gains. However, there was a well distributed smattering of losses at the close.

There was a degree less enthusiasm in the bull camp, and at times the street appeared to be in a worrying mood. Traders were inclined to disregard the fresh fall in the dollar and favorable industrial news appeared to have lost some of its influence for the time being.

Prices trended a trifle lower at the opening and the slump was accentuated in the first hour or so. Around noon, however, the utilities staged a fair advance, which helped along buying in other sections. Fresh profit taking, however, and apparently some pool liquidation kept the movement in close check. The slowness of the advance held the turnover to 4,841,000 shares.

Baking Issues Strong.

Most consistent strength was shown by the baking group. Purity, General, Continental, and Ward issues (about eight in all), rose 1 to 4 points to new high levels on the publicity given bread price increases, and the intimation in Washington that the higher prices would be allowed to stick, except in cases where the government detected profiteering.

With the approach of further state voting on repeal alcohol shares had another good day. U. S. Industrial Alcohol displaced National Distillers as a buying attraction and closed up an even 7 points. Distillers climbed about 3.

Other than the baking and alcohol divisions, stocks singled out for particular attention formed no definite pattern. Those dominating the speculative play were Radio, Commonwealth and Southern, International Telephone, and United Corporation, these being issues selling at low prices and therefore calculated to draw the most buying from the public. The aggregate volume of these issues made up about 20 per cent of the total, but for all their activity their gains were small.

Steel Statement Disregarded.

In spite of an increase of 176,000 tons in unfilled orders in June—a rise somewhat larger than had been anticipated—United States Steel had difficulty holding its own against realizing sales and closed unchanged. Other pivotal industrials went through a lifeless session of backing and filling, with General Electric and Westinghouse settling back a little.

Buyers took little or no notice of the advance in the price of copper to 9 cents a pound, the highest level the metal has sold at in several months. In fact, American Smelting, Anaconda and Kennecott were off on the day.

Cream of Wheat had the busiest day since the shares were listed and at best posted a rise of more than 3 points.

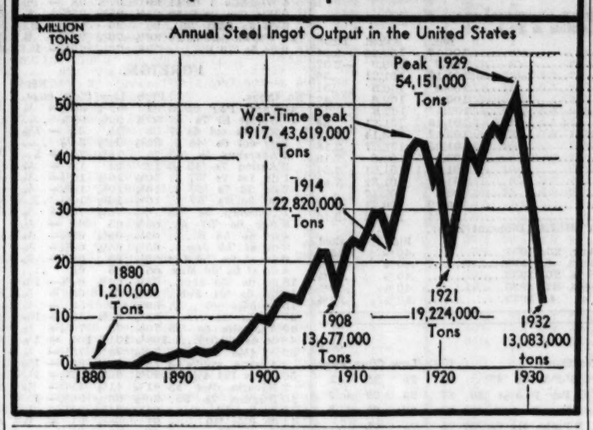
J. I. Case and other farm tool issues, together with mail orders, were slow in starting, but they firmed up late in the day with the final bulge in wheat.

BRITISH BUSINESS CHIEFS ASK POUND BE 'DECIMALIZED'

LONDON, July 10.—(AP)—A resolution urging the pound sterling be "decimalized without delay" was passed unanimously tonight by the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British empire.

The resolution suggested the pound be valued at 200 pence [at present it is 240 pennies] and that a nickel coin worth two pence be substituted for the present three penny coin.

Our Steel Industry Shows Fifty Year Growth—Arrested Only In Depressions



Armour & Co. Plan Changed; Stocks Soar

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A new plan for recasting the financial structure of Armour & Co., the 225 million dollar packing company, will be presented to stockholders within a week, it was indicated yesterday. Details of the plan are not available but it is understood it will differ in several important features from the tentative reorganization scheme which was advanced a few weeks ago.

The spectacular rise in the Armour of Illinois preferred shares this year—from $7 to $70—is an indication of the improvement that has taken place in the company's financial position.

It is learned on good authority that earnings for the seven months ended May 31 more than covered that full year's dividend requirements of $4,000,000 on the Armour of Delaware guaranteed preferred stock.

Dividend Is Debated.

Thus, holders of the Illinois preferred stand a good chance of getting a dividend before the close of the current year regardless of the outcome of the capital reorganization program. The Illinois preferred holders have received no dividends for more than two years. Arrearages now amount to about $10,000,000 or $17.50 a share.

The showing in the first seven months this year is remarkable when it is considered that the company lost $3,857,000 last year. Average earnings for the last 10 years were only $6,266,000—considerably short of preferred dividend requirements.

The new reorganization plan will attempt to placate the stockholders who protested the terms of the tentative scheme previously put forward.

Old Plan Protested.

The old plan provided for the conversion of all three classes of stock now outstanding into new common stock. The preferred stockholders were to get the lion's share of the new stock—about 90 per cent of it. The A and B junior holders were to get the balance and options to purchase additional stock at $12.50 and $15 a share within a five year period.

Protests came from all classes of stockholders. The strongest objections seemed to come from the preferred holders, who declared that the back dividends due them were not recognized by the exchange terms.

Placation of the preferred holders, who are widely distributed, seems to be the biggest hurdle confronting the management in presenting a new plan.

Junior Issues Advance.

Both the junior stocks have made material advances in the market. The A stock rebounded from a low price to $1.12½ to $7.75. The B stock, on which no dividends have ever been paid, shot up from a low of 75 cents a share to $4.50. All of the issues are currently selling moderately below their 1933 peak prices.

Strength in the junior issues can be attributed to the prospect that they will get a dividend if the plan goes through.

PLANTS EXPAND, WAGES INCREASE IN MANY LINES

Steel and Cotton Mills in South Add Men.

Atlanta, Ga., July 10.—(AP)—The Birmingham rail mill of the Tennessee Coal, Iron, and Railroad company gave employment to 1,500 additional workers today, and the Bibb Manufacturing company of Macon, Ga., announced that more than 3,000 mill workers will be given employment and the pay roll practically doubled to meet the textile code.

A textile mill at Fayetteville, N. C., announced a 10 per cent wage increase to its employés.

Cotton Mill to Expand.

Danville, Va., July 10.—(AP)—The Dan River Cotton mills, largest plant of its kind in the south, will hire between 800 and 1,200 additional workers within the next thirty days at a minimum wage of $12, Robert E. West, president of the company, said today.

Miners Pay Increased.

Miamia, Okla., July 10.—(AP)—The base pay of lead and zinc miners in the tri-state district was advanced 25 cents daily effective today, as a result of a $2.50 advance in zinc concentrates last week. The advance brings the bottom pay for machine men to $3.

This is the third increase in six weeks. Wages first were advanced when ore reached $25 a ton, and again when the price became $30.

Eastern Plants Resume.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—The H. C. Frick Coke company began overhauling its plant at Mount Pleasant, Pa., the largest Beehive coke plant in the country, preparatory to placing it in operation. It has been idle for a year. Five hundred men will be given employment.

The American Car and Foundry's plant at Berwick, Pa., idle since Jan. 1, will resume activity next week. The Endicott-Johnson corporation's plants at Binghampton, N. Y., are going full tilt.

Maryland Shows Upturn.

Baltimore, Md., July 10.—(AP)—Increases as high as 30 per cent in employment and 35 per cent in pay rolls in Maryland were reported today by the state commission of labor and statistics. The increases were found in 450 plants.

Pottery Industry Active.

East Liverpool, O., July 10.—(AP)—Labor officials estimated today 6,000 persons were employed at present in potteries of the East Liverpool district, the largest number in three years. Two hundred families have been removed from the unemployment relief lists.

STEEL UNFILLED ORDERS JUMP 176,856 TONS

Increase Is Greatest in 30 Months.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation increased 176,856 tons during June, the largest upturn for any month since January, 1931, it was announced today. It was the third consecutive monthly gain in the corporation's backlog.

At the end of June the backlog totaled 2,106,671 tons, the largest figure since May 31, 1932. On May 31, 1933, the backlog was 1,929,815 tons; unfilled orders having risen 65,241 tons during that month. In April there was a gain of 23,572 tons which brought the backlog to 1,864,574 tons at the end of the month. The corporation's unfilled orders touched their lowest level for the depression at the end of last March, when they stood at 1,841,002 tons.

Gain Doubles Estimates.

The gain reported for last month was almost twice as large as preliminary estimates which had been made by brokers in Wall street. The unexpectedly large gain was ascribed to the desire of consumers to have their orders booked before third quarter prices were announced, the latter having shown substantial increases in some cases. And additional rises are expected when the steel industry's code is adopted, establishing higher wages for workers.

Last month's gain was regarded as highly gratifying in Wall street, in view of the rapid rise in steel operations during the period. According to the American Iron and Steel institute, the industry operated at 45.96 per cent of capacity last month, compared with 34.11 per cent in May.

Cans, Automobile Big Demand.

The demand for tinplate by the canning industry and for steel sheets by automobile manufacturers have been largely responsible for the improvement in steel orders and operating schedules recently. Within the next few months, however, it is hoped that the demand for structural steel and for steel rails will improve. An upturn in export business has also occurred and steel authorities are looking for a continuation of this trend, owing to the decline in the dollar abroad.

Since the end of 1929 the corporation's unfilled tonnage has declined from 4,417,193 tons.

Two Chicago Men Appointed Eastman Aids

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—Three regional divisions with supervisors for both freight and passenger traffic were set up and the staffs named today by Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, to work out the railroad economies ordered by President Roosevelt's program. Two Chicago men were selected for the new staff.

V. V. BOATNER.

C. E. HOCHSTEDLER

Victor V. Boatner, until recently president of the Chicago Great Western, was appointed to be western regional director, while Charles E. Hochstedler, traffic director of the Chicago Association of Commerce, was appointed as western traffic assistant of the coördinator.

Form Parallel Groups.

Announcement that the coördinator would have regional organizations paralleling the three railroad regional coördinating committees of the eastern, western, and southern traffic regions of the country was made with the explanation that at the head of each federal regional group would be a director "with much experience in railroad operation. Under him there may be specialists in particular phases of operation, such as repair of equipment, maintenance of ways, and terminal operations. The three organizations also may contain district representatives, more especially in the western region."

Associated with the railroad coördinator's regional director in each section will be a man experienced in the traffic problems of shippers, who will supply this point of view to the organization and provide a point of contact for shippers. Mr. Hochstedler will fill such a position in the western region.

DOLLAR DROPS UNDER 69 CENTS; POUND NEAR PAR

War of Depreciation Feared Possible.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—The British pound sterling sold within 4 cents of its old time par of $4.8665 today as the American dollar continued its retreat against foreign currencies.

As the dollar dipped to 68.98 cents, as measured by French gold money, the pound swung upward to sell at $4.835, the highest price it has commanded in American funds since the gold standard was discarded in September, 1931. Closing price on the pound was $4.79¾.

The further decline in the dollar was variously attributed to a capital flight from the United States and speculative operations by European traders. Overshadowing all else, however, is the attitude of the Roosevelt administration on devaluation.

Franc Rises .12 of a Cent.

The closing quotation here on the French franc was 5.68 cents, an advance of .12 of a cent from yesterday's last price. At its peak today the franc was quoted at 5.7 cents, a new high and more than 45 per cent over par.

The opinion was held here by some bankers that an attempt would be made to stop the depreciation of the dollar when the pound reached its historic par figure. Official support for this view was lacking. This is the opinion held by many of the delegates at the London conference, it was said. If the pound should rise above its old parity it is believed that the British will take steps to divorce its currency from the French gold franc and let it follow the dollar.

Fear War of Depreciation.

Whether such a move on the part of Great Britain would mean the beginning of a currency depreciation war between the two great English speaking nations was a matter of some concern to many traders. A war to depreciate currency has been recognized as one of the greatest dangers inherent in the monetary program of the United States.

It was pointed out, however, that President Roosevelt has expressly invited other countries to join the United States in the attempt to raise

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—Strength in foreign loans was a feature of the market in bonds on the stock exchange today, with Dutch East Indies, French government and municipal, and British government bonds kiting to new record highs. Domestic railroad bonds moved irregularly lower, while industrial and utility issues averaged slightly higher on the day. United States government bonds were weaker.

With Dutch, French, and British exchange rates sharply higher against the dollar, Dutch East Indies bonds jumped 2¾ to 10½ points, French government and municipal loans half a point to 4 points, and United Kingdom issues 1⅞ to 2¼ points.

Other Nations Irregular.

Japanese government and government guaranteed loans pointed higher. Swiss government 5½s lost a point. South American issues showed minor irregularities for the most part.

The irregularity in domestic railroad bonds was such that in most instances the obligations of a given road failed to move in unison. In the utilities communications issues were generally higher in fairly active trading. New York Rapid Transit issues were firm.

Federal Issues Ease.

United States government bonds sold off 1-32 to 6-32 of a point, with the exceptions of the treasury 3⅞s due 1947, callable 1943, and the 3⅜s due 1943, callable 1941, which were up 2-32 and unchanged respectively.

Trading in the treasury issues was fairly active, accounting for $1,418,000 of the total transactions in the listed bond market yesterday of $16,966,000.

Guaranty Life Insurance.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Guaranty Life Insurance company of Iowa.—S. R. A.

Answer: Guaranty Life Insurance company [Davenport, Ia.] was incorporated in 1903 as a mutual company. It changed to a stock basis in January, 1910.

Income in 1932, including $329,000 borrowed money received, totaled $1,757,000 and disbursements were $1,265,000. In 1931 income was $2,095,000 and disbursements $1,415,000.

Net life reserve at the close of 1932 amounted to $5,964,000. Other liabilities, including $368,000 borrowed money, amounted to $1,022,000. Admitted assets aggregated $7,370,000. They consisted of $1,801,000 real estate, 24 per cent of assets; $3,005,000 mortgages, 41 per cent of assets; $1,847,000 policy loans, 25 per cent; $127,000 bonds [amortized values] 2 per cent and $73,000 cash, one per cent of assets.

Business in force on Dec. 31, 1932, totaled $43,204,000. This compared with $48,847,000 the year before and $54,010,000 on Dec. 31, 1930.

Ratio of actual to expected mortality in 1932 was 31.6, against 50.8 in 1931 and 24.9 in 1930. The company earned a return of 2.9 per cent on its assets in 1932, against 4.1 per cent in 1931 and 4 per cent in 1930.

Iowa Electric.

Investors' Guide: I would like information on Iowa Electric preferred. Thank you in advance.—Mrs. H. H.

Answer: Iowa Electric company operates hydroelectric generating plants at Oxford, Manchester, Mills, Monticello, Hopkinton, Oakland Mills and Panora, Ia. It operates two gas plants and owns four steam generating plants, maintained as reserve units. The company serves 120 communities.

Gross for 1932 was $1,388,000, against $1,505,000 for 1931, $1,541,000 for 1930 and $1,440,000 for 1929.

Net income in 1932, before depreciation, amounted to $253,000, against $284,000 for 1931. Net before depreciation for 1930 was $253,000, against $287,000 for 1929 and $276,000 for 1928.

At the close of 1932 current assets were $371,000 and current liabilities totaled $335,000. Funded debt, of which $1,166,000 matures next year, aggregated $4,472,000.

There were outstanding 12,996 shares of 7 per cent preferred and 16,394 shares of 6½ per cent preferred, each with $100 par value.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, July 10.—(AP)—With presidential approval of the cotton industry code, finished goods prices were being brought to parity with gray cloths today. Sheets and pillow cases are up 7 cents to 42 cents a yard based on 10-4 bleached goods. Rayon prices are very firm. Wool dress goods are in active call, but agents restrict sales until the recovery act affects the industry as a whole. Burlaps opened firm. Silk traders await action on the code recently submitted at Washington

OVER 10 MILLION GAIN IS SHOWN BY CHICAGO CORP.

Asset Value of Preferred Stock Rises to $50.

An appreciation of over 10 million dollars in the Chicago corporation's holdings during the first six months this year was disclosed by the semi-annual report issued yesterday. Charles F. Glore, president, said yesterday that the asset value of the company's preferred stock now stands at $50 a share, compared with a low figure of $29.41 at the bottom of the bear market.

The concern is a management type investment trust organized in 1929 by a group of young Chicagoans, including Mr. Glore and Marshall Field.

The trust switched its investments freely in the first half of the year, the report shows. Several important stock and bond investments were disposed of entirely and holdings of other issues in the portfolio were increased.

Sells Willys-Overland Stock.

An interesting change was the sale of 300,300 shares of common stock of Willys-Overland company, one of the first big investments made by the company. The trust purchased a controlling interest in the automobile company in 1929 from John Willys, founder of the concern. The company went into receivership several months ago. The 300,300 share block was disposed of through the regular stock exchange channel and it is understood that most of it was purchased by Willys and his associates.

Another significant change was the reduction of 20,000 shares in the trust's large investment in the common stock of Marshall Field & Co. It still holds 58,383 shares of the big Chicago merchandising company. This change, it was explained, was made to give the company greater diversification in its retail merchandising holdings.

Fewer Large Blocks.

As a result of these and other changes the company's portfolio has fewer large blocks of stocks, which are of necessity more difficult to dispose of on the market.

Judging from the changes made the management has followed a policy of switching from stocks which it believes are selling near their intrinsic value to shares of concerns in the same or allied industries more attractively priced. Foreign bond holdings were reduced and increases made in preferred shares of several leading domestic corporations.

At June 30 quotations net assets of the corporation stood at $34,520,528. Stocks had a market value of $24,578,204, as compared with $11,611,032 at the end of 1932. At market values the assets were equivalent to $46.97 a share. Since the end of June Mr. Glore explained the asset value has risen to $50.

The company wrote off $229,509 for loss on securities sold during the period. No losses were sustained on stocks bought during the period, it was explained. Operating income, including dividends and interest, amounted to $327,521 for the period, or 44 cents on the 742,596 preferred shares.

MEMBER BANKS EXPAND CREDIT FOR BUSINESS

Commercial bank credit expanded moderately during the week ended last Wednesday. The weekly report on the position of reserve member banks in 90 large cities, issued yesterday, showed an increase of $15,000,000 in commercial loans. Collateral loans were up 63 million, reflecting increased speculative activity.

Demand deposits showed a further decline of $99,000,000 as balances were transferred into channels yielding a return. Time deposits rose 86 millions. Part of this gain represented conversion of demand into time deposits.

Details of the position of the banks in the 90 clearing house cities follow (last six ciphers omitted):

PICK DEMOCRATS TO MANAGE HOME LOAN BRANCHES

They Must Show Merit, Stevenson Says.

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—William F. Stevenson, chairman of the Federal Home Loan bank board, said today that the thousands of employés of the 200 million dollar Home Owners Loan corporation were being selected entirely on merit but that Republicans were not being chosen to carry out policies of a Democratic administration.

The Home Loan Owners corporation being set up by the board has authority to issue up to 2 billion dollars of 18 year bonds bearing 4 per cent interest, which will be traded to mortgage holders for mortgages on homes worth less than $20,000.

In all, the corporation is expected to have 7,000 or more employés scattered throughout the nation with state managers in each state drawing from $3,600 to $6,000 a year, depending upon the amount of business done.

Managers Are Democrats.

"We are selecting our state managers after careful investigation into their ability to handle the work they must do," Stevenson told newspapermen. "Naturally, we are not choosing Republicans to carry out the policies of a Democratic administration."

The chairman said Democratic senators and representatives were being consulted in the selections because "they are better acquainted with the merits of the persons considered than are members of the board." He said Republican senators and representatives were not consulted about appointments but that they were not denied hearings and some had been asked about the qualifications of candidates.

Stevenson said Postmaster General Farley had told him personally that if the board found any of the applicants that had been recommended for jobs to be unfit, the board was at liberty to reject them.

"And this very thing has happened," Stevenson added.

Expects Speedy Organization.

The chairman said he expected to have the entire state organization operating within a short time but stressed that it was difficult to select competent managers and that the board must necessarily go slow in making such important selections.

He announced that the first applications for loans from home owners had been received by the Virginia branch of the corporation today and that the organizations in South Carolina, Georgia, and Tennessee were ready to start making loans.

NO. SHORE LINE PROTECTIVE BOND GROUP IS FORMED

Threat of Curtailed Train Service Brings Action.

Announcement was made yesterday of the formation of a protective committee to represent holders of bonds of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad. The road, which was developed into one of the finest electric railroads in the country under Samuel Insull, was placed in receivership on Sept. 30, 1932.

The committee was organized by Edwin L. Lobdell, Chicago investment banker. It was asserted the possibility existed that unless revenues reached a point where they covered operating expenses services of the road might be seriously curtailed. With this in mind, it was stated, members of the committee were chosen from residents of north shore towns who might be interested in maintaining satisfactory services.

Other Members of Committee.

Philetus W. Gates, Evanston, retired steel manufacturer; E. J. Gittens, Racine; chairman of the board of J. I. Case company; Fred A. Preston, Lake Forest, vice president Poor & Co., railway supplies; George W. Roessetter, president Chicago Association of Commerce; Edward A. Bacon, Milwaukee, corporation executive. Percy B. Eckhart, Kenilworth, an attorney, and Charles W. Lobdell of Hubbard Woods, who are out of the city for the summer, have agreed to act on the committee.

The committee represents holders of first mortgage bonds and first and refunding mortgage bonds.

"The attorney for the committee was instructed to prepare the necessary deposit agreement for the bondholders," the announcement stated, "and it is contemplated that within a short time the committee will be completely organized and efforts will go forward to bring about the deposit of the bonds of the railroad company."

Denied Plea for Loan.

The interstate commerce commission recently denied the North Shore's petition seeking permission to ask the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a loan to pay back taxes. The management of the road, denied credit either from the government agency or from ordinary banking sources because of its financial condition, has been in a dilemma, with revenues insufficient even to meet taxes. It has been reported as planning wholesale slashing of train service.

Britton I. Budd, president of the company, and Col. A. A. Sprague, are receivers for the road.

REFINERS AGREE ON LOWER SCALE FOR CRUDE OIL

Tulsa, Okla., July 10.—(AP)—A compromise was reached in the midcontinent crude oil price tangle today, and the Continental Oil company, leader of the group that posted a 33 cent advance to 85 cents a barrel peak last week, dropped back to a 75 cent top.

Barnsdall refineries immediately met the reduction. The scale is the same as that posted last week by the Magnolia Petroleum company of Dallas, a subsidiary of Socony-Vacuum corporation.

The announcements came less than two hours after the Tidewater Oil company sided with the Standard group and other companies that resisted the full advance but settled on a 10 cent increase to a peak of 62 cents.

WOOL MARKETS

Boston, Mass., July 10.—Strength continued to feature the Boston wool market today. Advances have been secured in some wools and even higher prices appear inevitable. Demand continues fair, though buyers are less keen about purchasing than a short time ago. Prices are now at the peak for this year and lack of surplus stocks, in contrast with recent years when considerable carryover was available, is another indication of pending further advances.

The following quotations are on grease basis for Ohio and similar wools [cents]:

	Monday.	Year ago.
64s, 70s, 80s [fine strict comb.]	29@30	14½@15½
64s, 70s, 80s [¼ blood strictly ing.]	23@24	11 @12

46s [low ¼ blood clothing]	29@30	12 @13
36s, 40s, 44s [common and braid]	25@26	11 @12

The better class of Michigan, New York, Wisconsin, and Missouri wool, 2c to 3c less; Kentucky and similar wool, 2c to 5c higher. The above quotations, which are for Ohio and similar wools, grease basis, depend to some extent on the individual lots.

BUTTER AND EGGS STEADY

Butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange were traded in within a comparatively narrow range. The volume was fairly good in that it reflected continued interest on the outside. The recent upturns in price have apparently led leading holders of both butter and eggs in storage to hedge all profitable stock stored earlier in the season.

Sales—73 cars of butter, 153 cars of eggs. Deliveries—None. Future prices ranged as follows:

HEAVY SUPPLIES CUT HOG PRICES; CATTLE HIGHER

Eastern Buyers Prevent Bigger Break in Swine.

Eastern buying orders for hogs increased again yesterday to the greatest volume in five months, but the pressure of heavier receipts proved too much for the market and the increased demand was soon satisfied at weak to 10 cents lower prices. Losses were 10 to 15 cents in comparison with last Friday, which was the highest spot for hogs in almost a month. Top sales were halted at $4.60 in line with the high point of Saturday's session, and 15 cents lower than last Friday.

On the corresponding day last year, Monday, July 11, 1932, top hogs reached $5.55, the highest for all of last year. This price compared with $3.40 on June 4 last year. The trend for this period has been the reverse this year. Top hogs early in June were up to $5.05.

Quarter's Receipts Heavy.

With the exception of last week receipts of hogs during the last three months have been excessive. Hogs slaughtered under federal inspection during last month at 4,626,235 established a new June record and compared with 3,319,863 a year ago and with 3,251,248 two years ago. During the period April to June, inclusive, packers under federal meat inspection slaughtered 12,759,767 hogs, against 10,974,480 during the corresponding period last year.

Cattle receipts fell short of expectations, and prices swung upwards 15 to 25 cents to the highest level in almost a month. Top steers reached $7.25, equaling the highest since June 13. Eastern packing houses were aggressive in the cattle yards also, taking a much larger proportion of the "upper crust" than usual for Monday.

Medium Weights in Demand.

The call is mostly for highly finished medium weight steers. Swift obtained 42 averaging 1,292 pounds at the top for eastern shipment. Prime 1,459 pound beeves reached $6.90, while the bulk of beef steers sold at $5.50 to $6.65.

While the trend of cattle prices is the same as it was at this time last year, the advance was sharper in 1932. On the corresponding day last year top steers soared to $9.45, the highest for the period from early February to late August.

Lamb prices took a severe drubbing yesterday, but they still are $1 to $1.50 above 1932 levels. Losses of 25 to 50 cents were registered after a stronger opening had been made in the better grades of strong weights.

City butchers handpicked strong weight native lambs up to $8.50 to $8.75, while packers closely sorted their selections later at $8.25 and below, buying culls at $5.50 and under.

Country demand for breeding stock continues good, buyers offering $3.00 to $4.00 for twos and threes and up to $5.00 to $5.25 for yearling ewes.

RAILROAD LOADINGS SHOW GAIN IN LAST WEEK DESPITE HOLIDAY

Although the Fourth of July holiday cut into business last week, early reports from railroads on their carloadings indicate that the final results for the week will show a gain over the like week of 1932. The holiday resulted in the figures falling behind those of the preceding week of this year.

Loadings of the North Western for the week of July 8 totaled 21,598 cars compared with 16,118 in the like week of 1932. Loadings in the preceding week were 23,982 cars.

The Santa Fe reported loadings of 22,333 cars compared with 21,462 a year ago and with 24,469 in the preceding week.

Loadings on the Chesapeake and Ohio totaled 27,044 cars compared with 30,987 in the preceding week and 17,921 in the like week of 1932. The road reported that loadings on its own lines increased 42.6 per cent over last year.

The Pere Marquette handled 3,705 cars compared with 5,099 in the preceding week and 2,942 in the like week of 1932.

Car loadings in Canada for the week ended July 1 were somewhat poorer than in the preceding week when they bettered the record of the corresponding week in 1932. They totaled 35,285 cars—a decrease of 4,542 from the preceding week and 987 cars under the like week of last year.

The improvement in car loadings was reflected in the May report of the New York Central. The system had a net May income of $105,708 compared with a net loss of $3,963,796 in May, 1932. For the first five months of this year the road sustained a loss of $7,970,509 after taxes and charges compared with a loss of $7,983,124 in the like period of 1932.

PUBLIC BUYS LARD; PRICES RISE SHARPLY

Buying of lard by outside interests was liberal and continuous throughout the market session yesterday showing the most animation in a long time. Hogs were steady to 10 cents lower but it made no difference to the packers and speculators who bought lard futures, the latter advancing to around new high levels and closing at the best of the season with net gains of from 20 to 35 cents.

Increased buying in bellies boosted prices from 50 to 55 cents. Cash bellies were advanced to $8.12½, as compared with $7.50 on Saturday. Cash lard advanced 37½ cents to $7.50, with loose and leaf at $6.62½.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, July 10.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was strong and active today on covering and increased speculative buying of December and January, promoted by the strong crude situation, and sharp advances in cotton, lard and grains. Final prices were 15 to 23 points net higher. Sales, 64 contracts. Bleachable spot and July closed 6.15c; September, 6.35c; December, 6.59c; January, 6.61c.

Chicago, Illinois, June 13, 1933.

To the Stockholders of First Union Trust and Savings Bank:

Pursuant to a resolution of the Board of Directors of the First Union Trust and Savings Bank, notice is hereby given that a special meeting of the shareholders of the First Union Trust and Savings Bank will be held at its banking rooms, 38 South Dearborn street, in the City of Chicago, County of Cook and State of Illinois, on the 17th day of July, 1933, at two p. m. Chicago Daylight Saving Time (10 a. m. Central Standard Time), and that at said special meeting, or any adjournment or adjournments thereof, there will be submitted to the shareholders for their consideration and action the following propositions:

(a) To ratify and confirm an Agreement of Consolidation between this Bank and the First Union Trust and Savings Bank, organized under the laws of the State of Illinois, and approve that this Bank and said First Union Trust and Savings Bank be consolidated under the charter of this Bank and under the title of The First National Bank of Chicago, with capital stock of $25,000,000, said consolidation to become effective immediately upon its approval by the Comptroller of the Currency.

(b) To take such further action or actions as may be deemed necessary or desirable in connection with carrying out the foregoing.

(c) To authorize and empower the Board of Directors and the officers of this Bank to do whatever is necessary or desirable in their opinion to carry into effect the action of said shareholders' meeting.

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to a resolution of the Board of Directors of this Bank, the stock transfer books of this Bank will be closed at the close of business on the 5th day of July, 1933, and will remain closed until the opening of business on the 18th day of July 1933 organization, said the emergency rail act contemplated that the railroads and the coördinator "will work together in searching out economics in railroad operation and management which are practicable and desirable and have not yet been realized."

Creation of sections of freight service, purchases and car pooling was announced. The freight service section, headed by J. R. Turney of St. Louis, Mo., vice president in charge of law and traffic of the St. Louis Southwestern railway, will deal with modernization of freight service to meet the changed conditions brought about by the competition with the railroads of motor trucks and other transportation agencies.

Work on Small Shipments.

"Especially," said Coördinator Eastman, "it will deal with the methods of handling less than carload freight."

A similar unit to deal with passenger service and its improvement may be created or both passenger and freight problems may be handled by one unit.

The section of purchases, headed by R. L. Lockwood of Washington, D. C., formerly with the division of simplified practice of the department of commerce, will deal with such matters as the standardization of materials, supplies and equipment, and with improvement in purchasing methods.

Study Pooling Equipment.

The section of car pooling, under the direction of O. C. Castle, of Houston, Tex., of the Southern Pacific lines in Texas and Louisiana, will consider whether it is feasible and desirable to extend the principle of pooling to all kinds of equipment.

Regional directors of the coördinator will give their attention to unification of terminal operations, joint use of shops and various other facilities, the pooling of train service and the elimination of uneconomical routes.

A separate staff to aid the coördinator to make a study of the entire transportation situation with a view to making recommendations for permanent legislation to congress also will be created.

Other appointments announced by the coördinator follows:

H. J. German, Pittsburgh, Pa., eastern regional director.

C. E. Weaver, Savannah, Ga., southern regional director.

W. H. Chandler, New York, N. Y., eastern traffic assistant.

M. M. Caskie, Mobile, Ala., southern traffic assistant.

J. W. Carmalt, Washington, D. C., executive and legal assistant, and J. L. Rogers, Washington, D. C., executive assistant.

HOTELS AND APARTMENT HOTELS.

Out-of-Towners!

Those friends and relatives of yours who will be strangers in Chicago for the World's Fair will want to know where to live comfortably, yet moderately, during their stay in Chicago.

The furnished apartments as listed below include twenty-four hour desk and hotel service, gas, light, refrigeration, linen and maid service and are close to the fair, but have excellent transportation to the Fair grounds.

Make a selection for your friends and let them know that their worries for living accommodations during the "Century of Progress" visit are over.

Illinois Tenth State to Officially Ratify Dry Repeal—Bandits Captured in Evanston After Gun Battle

CONVENTION AT SPRINGFIELD CASTS UNANIMOUS VOTE FOR REPEAL; ILLINOIS IS TENTH STATE TO RATIFY 21ST AMENDMENT. General view of the repeal convention in the senate chamber yesterday. The meeting was called to order in the house chamber, but due to fire Sunday was adjourned to senate hall. Bruce Campbell of Belleville can be seen presiding over the meeting. On the platform with him is Gov. Henry Horner, who made speech hailing the wet victory in Illinois. The entire session lasted only 54 minutes. (Story on page 1.)

NOTED ARTIST DIES. Joseph Urban, who planned lighting effects for World's Fair, dies in New York. (Story on page 13.)
